STATE BOARD SCORES IN TEAMSTERS' STRIKE

Succeeds in Getting Teamsters to Yield a Point and Make Alternate Propositions to Dealers
—Early Settlement Expected

The striking coal teamsters, through the state board of conciliation and arbitration, have submitted two new propositions to the coal dealers, but the end of the strike is not yet in sight.

In the first of the two propositions offered by the strikers, they agreed to abandon the request for Saturday afternoons off during the year and to demand a nine-hour instead of a ten-hour day the year round. In their second proposition they agreed to eliminate their demand for a nine-hour day at ten-hour wage, and to ask only for Saturday afternoons off, with pay, during the four summer months, with a dollar a week extra to be given to helpers, who now receive $11 weekly. There are about 20 helpers concerned in the strike.

These propositions were submitted to the coal dealers last night by Charles G. Wood of the state board of arbitration, but neither of the propositions was passed upon at the conference between Mr. Wood and the dealers.

Mr. Wood, discussing the matter last night, did not pretend to offer any hope for immediate settlement, but stated that the propositions submitted by the union were the first signs since the beginning of the strike of a desire to end the trouble. It is understood that the dealers were asked if they would not make concessions of as much importance as did the strikers.

ers and it is expected that the dealers will give their answer today.

Dealers Buying Auto Trucks

It is an ill wind that blows nobody good. The coal teamsters' strike has made business good for the automobile men as a number of the coal dealers are purchasing auto trucks as a way out of their present difficulty. The chances are, however, that the strike was not directly responsible for the purchase of the trucks, though it may have hastened matters.

The Horne Coal Co. and the Stanley Coal and Transportation Co. have used trucks for delivery purposes for some time and they allow that the truck is the proper answer.

Fred H. Bourke yesterday purchased a three-ton truck, which will take the place of three horses and their drivers. This machine will require two helpers besides the chauffeur.

D. T. Sullivan purchased a five-ton truck a few days ago; Charles Lajoie has purchased a six-ton truck and the William E. Livingston company has a new two-ton truck.

President Fennell Talks

President Fennell of the Coal Teamsters' union was interviewed by a Sun reporter this morning and said: "We are in hopes that the strike will be brought to a close today. The teamsters have no wish to further inconvenience the public in prolonging the strike and have done their share towards bringing the matter to a head. It is now up to the dealers. The state board of arbitration and conciliation will be in the city again today and I am holding my committee in readiness to appear before them. Our concessions have been just and fair, and we hope that the public will look favorably on our side of the matter. I can tell you one thing, Mr. Reporter, and that is that the state board was surprised at the conditions that exist here as compared with the conditions of other cities. We have left the whole thing in their hands to settle."

Wilfrid J. Blais Brought Before Judge Today—May be Sent to an Asylum

Wilfrid J. Blais will be arraigned on continuance before Judge Enright in police court today on the charge of murdering his wife, Celerina Blais, in their home on Alton avenue by strangling her to death after a short quarrel had taken place.

Since the murder, Blais has been held at the Lowell jail and the authorities there state that he is very quiet and does not seem to realize the seriousness of the crime. It is understood that Blais' counsel, William A. Hogan, will ask for another continuance and request that the defendant be sent to an asylum for observation. An indictment in this case has been returned by the grand jury.

At 11:45 o'clock court was suspended until Blais was removed from the jail to the police court.

Two branches of the Holy Name society of this city, viz.: those of St. Patrick's and the Sacred Heart churches will receive communion tomorrow in a body at their respective parishes, and great crowds are anticipated at both services, because it has been announced that following the communion preliminary preparations will be made to organize the local branches for the great diocesan parade to be held in Boston in October.

The Sacred Heart branch will receive communion on masses at the 7:30 o'clock mass, repairing afterwards to the school hall where breakfast will be served. After breakfast a social will be enjoyed and the morning's exercises will be brought to a close by a business meeting at which plans for organizing the Sacred Heart branch for the great October parade will be discussed. TALL HAT GAME

To be Played at Bunting Grounds—Mayor Hurley of Salem to Attend

The "tall hat" cricket game this afternoon at the Bunting club's grounds is attracting a great deal of attention from all sections of the city and the fact that the receipts of the game will be turned over to the Salem relief fund will undoubtedly swell the attendance. Mayor John F. Hurley of Salem, the most notable figure in the public affairs of the city, will arrive here early this afternoon and will go at once to city hall where an informal reception by Mayor Murphy and the city council will be tendered him. The local officials as well as Salem's chief executive will then repair to the scene of the cricket game.

Mayor Hurley will wear the same hat and frock coat which distinguished his figure from others during the recent conflagration at Salem. Both Mayors Murphy and Hurley are expected to give a short speech before the first veteran cricketer takes his place at the wicket.

SPEED UP WORK ON ANTI-TRUST PROGRAM

Senate Committees Determined to Complete the Entire Program by Monday—Results of
First Day's Labor Summarized

WASHINGTON, July 11.—With considerable progress already made toward perfecting the administration's anti-trust program senate committees were prepared to speed up the work today on these measures. They were determined to complete the entire program by Monday.

The results of the first day's labor of the inter-state commerce and the judiciary committees may be summarized as follows:

The inter-state commerce committee perfected the inter-state trade commission bill now before the senate by adding two important amendments bearing on the Sherman law, decided not to amend the much discussed section five, in which unfair competition is declared unlawful and took up and considered amendments to the railroad securities bill. The judiciary committee considered the Clayton anti-trust bill, discussed among other sections those relating to interlocking directorates and holding companies and to labor unions and more numerous tentative changes in the phraseology of the bill.

The inter-state commerce committee when it met today expected to complete its amendments to the railway securities bill by tonight. A suggested amendment would give the inter-state commerce commission absolute control over the issuance of railroad securities at all times. The judiciary committee was expected to resume consideration of the sections of the Clayton bill relating to labor unions and some change in the phraseology would probably be made. Both committees hoped to have their reports on the two measures ready by Monday.

Feasibility of consolidating all three anti-trust bills with a view to expe-editing completion of the program was being discussed by senators today.

The two amendments added to the trade commission bill by the inter-state commerce committee provide that no order of the proposed trade commission for or against a corporation shall be used as evidence in any subsequent prosecution brought against a corporation under the Sherman law.

That nothing in the act to create the trade commission shall be construed as amending the Sherman act nor in any way affecting the provisions of that act as it stands on the statute books.

The latter amendment was added because of widespread claims that the proposed measure would weaken the Sherman act.

SMALL BUILDING JOBS

Great Activity Throughout City —Real Estate Business Active— Transactions for the Week

A prominent local real estate man is organizing a realty company among business men of this city and Boston and it is believed that the new organization will be doing business in Lowell within a short time. The company was well organized some time ago and it applied to the secretary of state for a charter, but unfortunately there is another company now working in the commonwealth under the name selected by the new organization and for this reason the charter was not granted. However, new arrangements are being made and within a short time another request will be sent to Boston for a charter and if this attempt proves successful the company will be in operation shortly afterward.

This will be the third organization of its kind in this city. The other two are the Modern Investment Co. and the Federal association, both being composed of twenty-five members. The Modern Investment Co. was organized about two years ago and a few months ago it purchased a large parcel of real estate in the Westford street district and the company is now in a very prosperous condition. The other, the Federal association, was organized sixteen months ago and is composed of residents of West Centralville. It has a substantial sum in the treasury and at its last meeting a committee was appointed to look into real bargains in the real estate line and it is probable that within a few weeks the organization will own several pieces of property, for it is said that already it has an option on a beautiful parcel of land with tenement houses. The committee on investment is composed of Messrs. Charles Lequin, Edmond Traversy and Charles E. Bourget.

A large real estate transaction was effected a short time ago when the Nemock Specialty Co. purchased a track of 21,000 feet of land in Fernald and Smith streets with two wooden buildings, one a two-story affair 25 feet by 35 feet, and the other a one-story structure 30 by 60 feet. The latter is now being occupied by the company and alterations to cost about $1,000 will soon be made on a real estate lot for one of the proprietors of the company, Mr. Hogue.

The general contract and sub-contracts for the erection of the brick and cement building in Gorham street, which will be occupied by Henry Carr, have been given and work on demolishing the old structure has been started. The new building will be the property of Walter Cotton of Lawrence, but Mr. Carr has taken a 20-year lease on the entire structure. The building will be one story in height and the dimensions will be 127 by 67 feet and will be located at 100-102 Gorham street. The approximate cost of the building will be about $15,000. One end of the building will be converted into a lunch room to be occupied by Henry Summers, while the other part will be occupied by Henry Carr, who will install 11 bowling alleys and 16 pool and billiard tables.

Work in demolishing the old structure is progressing rapidly and the contractors expect to get busy within a short time. Mr. Carr expects to open the building by Sept. 1. The general contract has been given to E. A. Douglas, while the sub-contracts were awarded as follows: Brick work, Archie Perron; plumbing, George Brache; foundation, A. Pilato.

St. Jean Baptiste Church
John Grady of M. J. Grady & Son, stucco workers of Boston, who are doing the stucco work at St. Jean Baptiste church, informed the writer yesterday that by the latter part of next week the stucco work will be practically finished and the painters will then get busy. This particular work is really artistic and its well worth inspection. The designs, which by the way were made right on the spot by Mr. Grady, are handsome and very attractive and the entire job is really a credit to the personnel of this company. The walls and ceiling as well as the borders of the two balconies are finished and all that remains to be done is a part of the sanctuary and a stucco here and there. The stucco work will cost approximately $25,000.

The electrical work which is being done by L. A. Derby is also advancing rapidly and practically all the wiring is completed. The large switch board in the sanctuary is set in and there remains but a few days' work to finish the job with the exception of the installing of the fixtures, which will be done at a later date.

The carpenters under the supervision of William Drapeau are hustling on the finishing of the interior and several door sashes have already been put in. The men are now at work on rebuilding the main entrance in Merrimack street, while other workmen are putting in the stained windows. At the rate that the work is being pushed along it is possible that the rededication of the church will take place some time in December.

Work on the three-story brick building on Dionysios A. Sakelaris at the corner of Worthen and Market streets is progressing, and the construction of the new building demonstrates the fact that the Greeks are a progressive class of people, and strange as it may be, it is a fact that no other workmen but Greeks are employed on this job. The building will contain six tenements and three stores and the brick work is now passed the second story.

Thomas Gray is building a piazza at his home, 54 Billerica street, at James S. Turner has started work on changing over a cottage into a two-tenement house at 85 Stevens street. A rear entrance will be made and a separate entrance will be constructed in the front of the building.

A. W. Haines is having a poultry house constructed at the rear of his home, 18 Upham street.

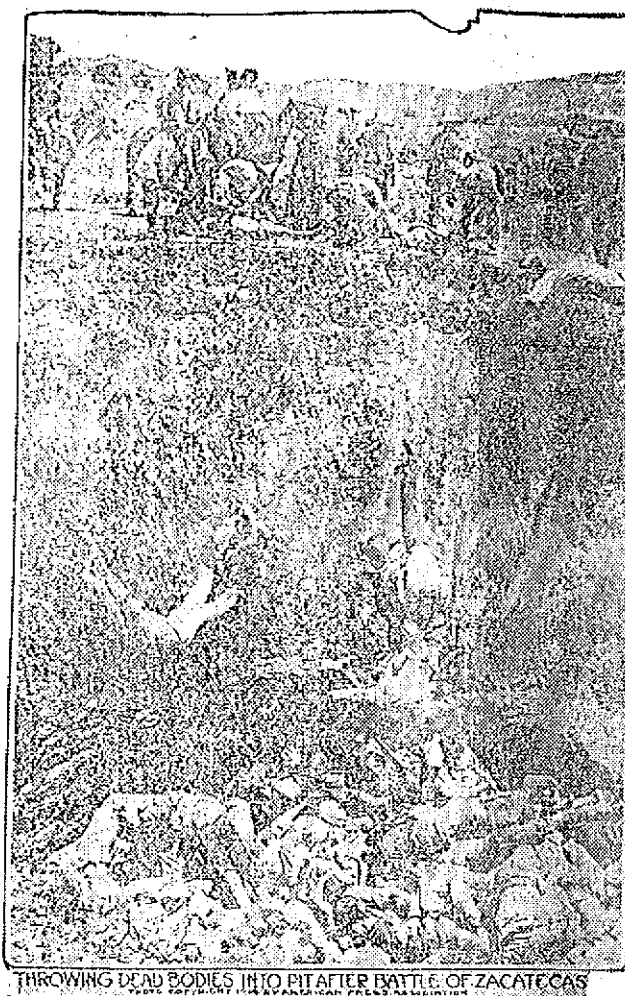

A new piazza is being built at the home of Emma Pearson, 71 Bowdoin street, and a roof to the piazza will be constructed.

Freida Mayzotte is changing the location of the kitchen at his property at 34 Suffolk street. Two small rooms will be converted into a kitchen and the old kitchen will be used for a pantry.

The property owned by the Elian Hennessy estate at 453 Market street, will soon contain another tenement for the upper story is being converted into a four-room flat. General repairs are also being made throughout the house.

A. W. Davis & Co., druggists at the corner of Central and Merrimack streets will occupy their new quarters in the Rineis' building at 11 Bridge street on or about Sept. 1 and a gang of men will soon be put to work on making changes about the place which was formerly occupied by the Caswell Optical Co. The store front will be made modern and alterations in the interior of the store will be made.

WAR'S GRIM TOLL—A STRONG PICTURE! IT SHOWS A DEATH PIT AT ZACATECAS

THROWING DEAD BODIES INTO PIT AFTER BATTLE OF ZACATECAS

This is a remarkable picture. It is gruesome and horrible, but it is real, and war is not pleasant. It was taken by a special war photographer at Zacatecas, Mexico, just after the recent bloody battle in which over 5000 were killed. It shows a pit of death. Rebels are dumping bodies of the victims into the hole without ceremony. Dozens of bodies are already in the pit, and two or three bodies are sliding down. The men at the brink of the hole are preparing to cast others into this horrible open grave. Later these bodies are burned.

Walter S. Coburn has made plans for the construction of a residence at 22 Fairmount street. The building will contain seven rooms with pantry, bath and hall and will be steam heated. The dimensions will be 28 feet, 6 inches by 28 feet and the cost will be about $4500.

In order to comply with the order of Supt. of Buildings, Frank Connor, George L. Cady has taken out a permit for general repairs at his property located at 42-62 Adams street and work in the canal is to be started as the water in the canal is lowered.

Peter Lestari is building a piazza at his home, 59 Southland street.

Mary R. Conroy will change the entrance of the store in her building at 22 Fairmount street from the front to the corner and a new cash frame with plate glass will be installed.

Many bricklayers are employed on the construction of the gasoline tank for the C. B. Coburn Co. In the rear of the police station in Market street for the job will be completed in a few days.

The old wooden shack of the Boston & Maine railroad at the corner of Dutton and Merrimack streets, which has been an eyesore to that district for many years has been torn down by the company, in the satisfaction of many, especially the members of the Y. M. C. A., whose magnificent building is located nearby.

Sick Women Made Well

Reliable evidence is abundant that women are constantly being restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The many testimonial letters that we are continually publishing in the newspapers—hundreds of them—are all genuine, true and unsolicited expressions of heartfelt gratitude for the freedom from suffering that has come to these women solely through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Money could not buy nor any kind of influence obtain such recommendations; you may depend upon it that any testimonial we publish is honest and true—if you have any doubt of this write to the women whose true names and addresses are always given, and learn for yourself.

Read this one from Mrs. Waters:

CAMDEN, N.J.—"I was sick for two years with nervous spells, and my kidneys were affected. I had a doctor all the time and used a galvanic battery, but nothing did me any good. I was not able to go to bed, but spent my time on a couch or in a sleeping chair, and soon became almost a skeleton. Finally my doctor went away for his health, and my husband heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me some. In two months I got relief and now I am like a new woman and am at my usual weight. I recommend your medicine to every one and so does my husband."—Mrs. TILLY WATERS, 1135 Knight St., Camden, N.J.

And this one from Mrs. Haddock:

UTICA, ORELA—"I was weak and nervous, not able to do my work and scarcely able to be on my feet. I had backache, headache, palpitation of the heart, trouble with my bowels, and inflammation. Since taking the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am better than I have been for twenty years. I think it is a wonderful medicine and I have recommended it to others."—Mrs. MARY ANN HADDOCK, Utica, Oklahoma.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman continue to suffer without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, which contains no narcotics or harmful drugs; it has restored so many suffering women to health.

SHOT HERSELF THROUGH HEART

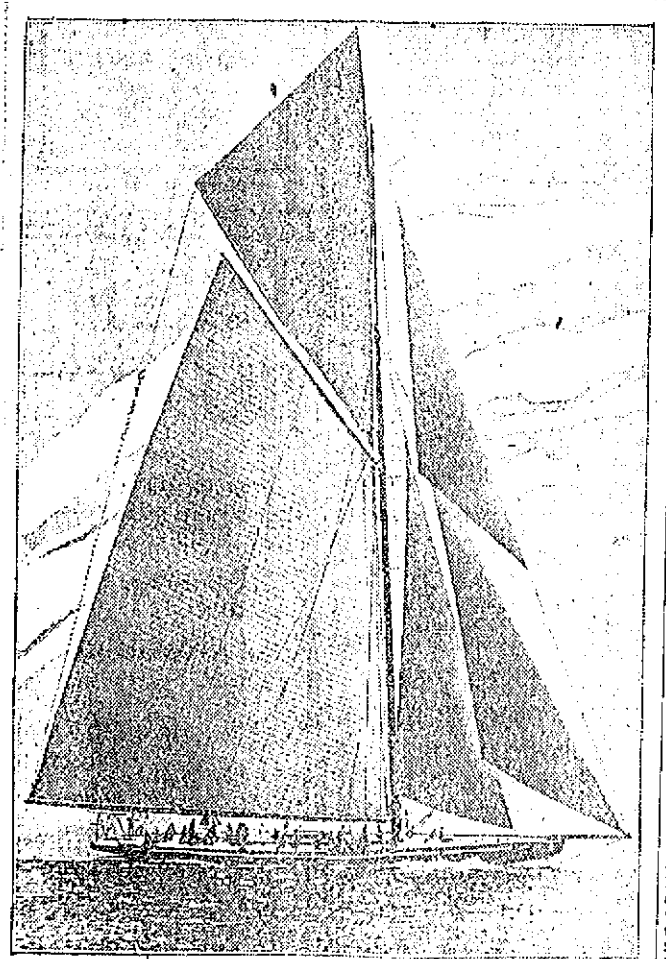

PORTLAND, Me., July 11.—Leaving her bed early this morning and going to another room, Mrs. George Potts, 35, a resident of the "Kansas district," shot herself through the heart with a 22 calibre revolver, death being instantaneous. She leaves a husband and two sons. Ill health is believed to have been the cause of the act.

TEDDY PELL, OLYMPIC TENNIS PLAYER, MAY MAKE THE DAVIS CUP TEAM

Teddy Pell, who represented America in the tennis tournament at the last Olympic, is looming up as a Davis cup team possibility. Murray's injured shoulder may keep him out of it, and as Karl Behr and Fred Alexander are both on the sick list Pell's chances look good. McLoughlin is the only man sure of a place, although Williams has improved greatly of late and will probably be in first class shape by August.

PHOTOGRAPH SHOWING SHAMROCK IV IN HER FAMOUS CUTTER RIG

This photo of the cup challenger was taken during the last series of trial races against the Shamrock III, and shows her for the first time in the cutter rig which Nicholson and Burton think will aid her greatly in the attempt to lift the trophy. A great deal of lead has been taken off the keel and a slightly longer bowsprit added to accommodate the larger lead rigging.

Sales Reported
Thomas H. Elliott, real estate broker, with offices in Central street, corner Prescott, reports the following sales negotiated during the past week ending Friday, July 10:
Final papers have been signed whereby the George E. Double Co. will locate permanently in Lowell. The concern manufactures white ponds and will employ some 20 or 30 hands. They are to be situated at 125-135-137-139 Bridge street in the former building, taking the entire second floor and one-half of the first and basement. The company moves here from East Dedham, Mass., and are already partially installed in their new quarters. The reason for the transaction is the estate of the late J. E. Bellows. This is the second new industry located here during the past month.

Also the sale of an excellent cottage property situated at 14 Grand street, directly opposite the state armory. The house occupies 2822 square feet of land assessed at 50 cents per foot. The house has eight rooms and is heated by steam and equipped with modern plumbing throughout. The sale is negotiated on behalf of Mrs. Herbert F. Barnes, formerly of this city, now of Boston. The owner buys for personal occupancy.

The sale of a first class six-apartment property, situated at 32 South street, was in Junction with Westford. The block occupies 1116 square feet of land assessed at 25 cents. The transfer is effected on behalf of Mrs. Emily Ray Black, the estate being Mr. Michael Black. Mr. Blackell purchases for investment. This is the second time this property has been sold through this office.

Also the sale of a high-grade cottage property situated at 635 School street from the owner of Liberty. This house has seven rooms and is provided with every convenience. Land approximately 1700 square feet assessed at 12 cents per foot was conveyed in the transaction. The grantee in the transaction is Mrs. Eliza H. Simpson who comes to Lowell from Boston. Mrs. Simpson buys for personal occupancy.

Byron Jones, real estate broker, with offices at 57 Central street, reports the following papers passed for the week ending July 10, 1914.

Papers have been passed on a high-grade garden farm in South Chelmsford on the Baker Hill road, conveying an eleven-acre house, large barn fitted for 16 head of cattle and two horses. There are 41 acres of land cutting over 50 tons of hay, also an apple orchard of over 125 apple trees. Jenn Baptiste Noel transfers title to Warren Wright of this city, who buys for a home.

Papers have also been passed on one of the finest farms in this vicinity. This is one of the largest farm transactions in this section for some time. The property is situated between Varnum avenue and the boulevard, comprising 50 acres of land and a fine set of buildings. The house has 16 large rooms and is modern in every detail. There is a large cow barn, horse barn and carriage house all equipped with running water.

Hannah and David J. Williams convey to Carl Savanson who buys for a home.

A parcel of land has been sold on Middlesex street, Glidden avenue and Stevens street and comprises approximately 27,000 square feet. The plot has a combined frontage of about 375 feet and is so situated as to make very conveniently six or seven fine building lots. This land was sold for the Glidden Realty company and the purchaser is Adolphe P. Demers who intends to improve the property by the erection of up-to-date apartment houses.

Edward F. Slattery, Jr., 904 Sun building, reports the following sales for the week ending July 10:
Contracts have been signed on the purchase and sale of an excellent 10-room house in the Oaklands. The house contains 10 large rooms, with hardwood floors throughout and all modern conveniences. Land to the amount of over 13,000 square feet is conveyed with the property. The property is assessed for $10,000. Names of both parties will be given at the passing of final papers.

THE SPELLBINDER

While the preservation of the public peace, health and safety required the immediate purchase of an automobile and chauffeur for Commissioner Morse of the street department which was used for the first time to convey some of the commissioners on their recent trip to Springfield, Chief Saunders, of the fire department continued to dash through the streets in response to alarms in an auto that threatens to fall apart at any time and which is certainly no machine for the chief of the fire department to operate. The difference is this: In the case of the auto for the street department everybody was agreed upon the make of the machine—the Jeffrey—and hence the emergency clause that got the purchase through before anyone would have time to change his mind. But in the case of the chief's auto there is a difference of opinion as to what kind of a machine is to be purchased and hence as Chief Saunders would have had a machine some time ago had he simply requested that an auto be purchased for his use. But he specified the kind of machine, unimpaired that other machines had friends at court, while the Jeffrey had the power to carry an emergency clause with it. Chief Saunders is not a man who will back down easily and the mere fact that someone higher up wants him to accept a machine for which he has no particular preference, will not be sufficient reason for him to change his mind. Meanwhile if you hear or see the chief coming along en route to a fire get as far in on the sidewalk as possible lest some of the flying pieces hit you.

Heaviness for Counsel

The charges against Supt. Putnam have not been brought about by the municipal council, but by Commissioner Morse as an individual citizen and not as the council. It would appear, are going to be treated to the extraordinary spectacle of the city solicitor, the city's paid counsel, appearing as the prosecuting attorney in the case. A fact that may affect the legality of the hearing. The city solicitor as the counsel for the city in this case should appear simply in the interest and for the protection of the municipal council as a whole, to see that it carries on its deliberations in a manner that will free it from the possibility of a come-back from the man under charges. If City Solicitor Licennessy is going to appear as counsel for Commissioner Morse in the case, to whom are the members of the municipal council to look for advice as the hearing progresses; certainly not to counsel on either side.

Flash Westford Street

"Can you flash Westford street?" was asked of Commissioner Morse by a newspaper man a day or two ago. "How can I, short $30,000 paying blocks?" responded the commissioner. "Buy the blocks," was suggested. "But I haven't enough money to buy what I need," said Charlie. Only a short time ago Commissioner Morse proposed to build a sewer in Pawtucketville at a cost of $30,000 and when not permitted to do so by him discovered that he had the necessary amount in his sewer appropriation. The announcement that a sewer was proposed for Pawtucketville at the point mentioned caused a general howl and nobody has been found who favors it except the commissioner himself. Several correspondents to the different newspapers have uncharitably intimated that it is to be a repetition of that famous Oakland sewer into which some $15,000 of the city's money was sunk for no apparent purpose other than to keep the boys at work. In view of the fact that the proposed Pawtucketville sewer is not needed and not wanted, and that there is $35,000 available in the sewer appropriation, why does not the commissioner take advantage of section 32 of the charter, a portion of which reads as follows: "At any time the unexpended balance of any sum appropriated for a specific purpose, and not further required for such purpose, may be transferred to another account by vote of the municipal council," and have that amount transferred to an appropriation for the paving of Westford street? The $35,000 is not required for the purpose of a sewer in Pawtucketville and therefore it would seem could be easily and legally transferred. If the "un-date preservation of the public peace, health and safety" warranted the purchase of an automobile, it would seem also to demand the transfer of money to make Westford street, one of Lowell's leading thoroughfares, a safe street.

Handling City's Business

In each municipal campaign much is heard about the city being a great corporation and about the manner in which its affairs should be conducted, the candidates always maintaining that it is elected they would conduct the city's business as they would their own private business. But did you ever hear of a corporation, great or small, or a business man, big or little, handling a strike or labor tie-up as the municipal council is handling the present trouble over the teamsters' strike? Despite the seriousness of the matter, there is an amusing feature to the whole affair.

Just as Well On

A well known republican who took an active part in the election of the present administration was heard to remark a few days ago: "I guess we'd been just as well off if we held onto the old government." And after only six months of the new regime, at that.

Fourth of July

Fourth of July has come and gone and everyone was tired but happy. Just before the Fourth the superintendent of police read an ominous warning to the small boy and his big brother about exploding certain kinds of firecrackers, cartridges, etc., under penalty of a strict enforcement of the law. But the big bonfires were held despite the emphatic "No" of the state police and the chief of the fire department; the common had as many wheels, with "the pinch" and without, as last year; there were as many drunken men and more drunken women on the common than last year, but the law relative to the small boy and his cannon crackers was strictly enforced and the eagle gaily screamed: "Equal rights for all; special privileges to none."

Senator Fisher Out

Hon. Edward Fisher, a democratic senator who has made his name and name of the state house, announces that he will not be a candidate for re-election in the fall elections. The announcement will be learned with regret at the state house where the Westford senator stood high with men of all parties. The announcement immediately started the political wags gossiping as to his political future, for while he may be "laying off" temporarily, he is by no means about to retire from the field permanently, for his constituents wouldn't hear of such a thing. During the past few months Senator Fisher has been asked by men of both parties to be a candidate for congress this fall, but as yet he has not committed himself and probably has not given the matter much thought for, between his legislative duties and his law practice he has been and is still a pretty busy man. When seen by the writer, Senator Fisher said: "I have not given the congressional matter any serious thought up to the present, though I have been asked by men of both parties to be a candidate. I have decided positively, however, not to be a candidate for the senate again."

Everett Initiators

The Boston papers earlier in the week had the following about a recent meeting of the Everett city council:

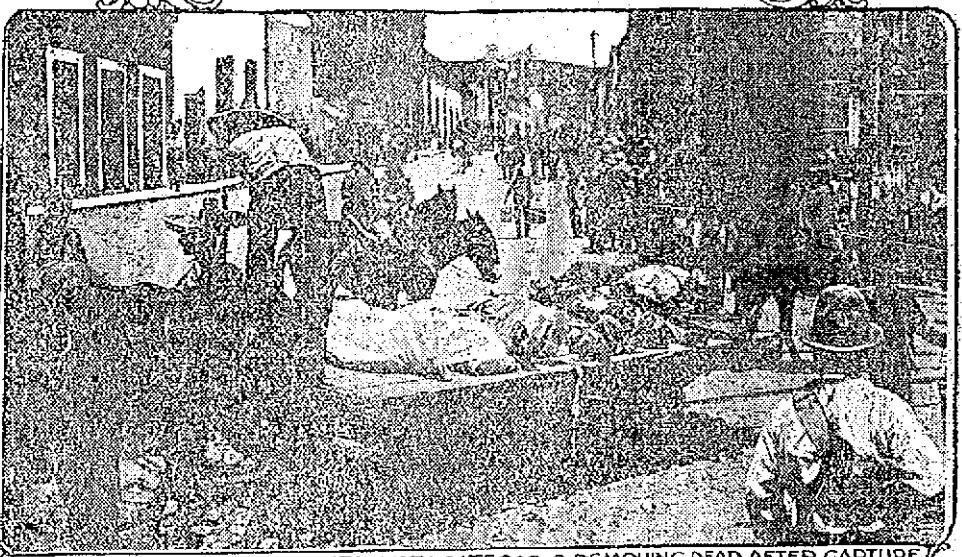

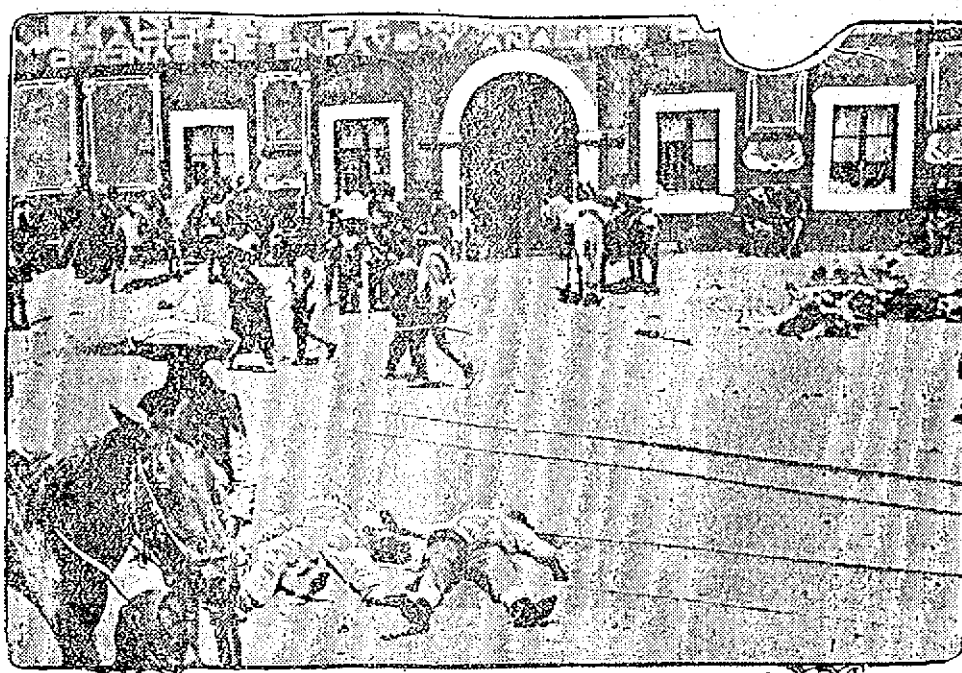

"Councilman Carpenter, who had the floor, became so violent in his reference to the father of the chairman of the school building commission, ex-City Solicitor Nelson Brown, that several other councilmen jumped to their feet and moved that Mr. Carpenter be ejected from the chamber.

The latter continued on his feet and tried to draw all voices with his own. Finally a motion for adjournment was made by Councilman John McEldown and carried.

Despite adjournment, Councilman Carpenter prolonged his remarks and demanded that the school committee, the architects, the school building commission and all other interested persons appear before the next meeting of the common council Thursday evening.

If they think it is something new or original to have a member of the city council talk after adjournment they are greatly mistaken for that is an old and a common practice in this city. Wasn't it after adjournment of a meeting of the municipal council that Commissioner Brown prescribed a "punch in the snout" for former Mayor O'Donnell? And before the new regime went into office when former Commissioner Barrett was an alderman he and Supt. Thomas of the water department used to entertain before and after adjournment. I'll guess they've got nothing on Lowell.

These pictures are the first to reach the United States from Zacatecas after the recent bloody battle in which the rebels gained an important victory. Over 5000 were killed in this struggle, and the streets were littered with the dead when the pictures were taken.

"Joe" for Councilor

"Joe" Hubbard has announced his candidacy for councilor. From congressman to councilor is some drop, but "Joe" isn't fussy. He likes the excitement of running for office whether it has a salary attached or not, though this will be his first experience. "Joe" has been mentioned for about every office in the neighborhood but that of sheriff and he'll probably tackle that at the proper time. And they say that fat men can't run!

Prosecuting the Bartenders

The night clerk at the Merrimack Hotel was hauled into court a few days ago and fined $30 for selling beer after 11 o'clock, on the night before the Fourth. A day or two later the license was taken before the license commissioners on complaint of Supt. Welch and a hearing given. At the hearing evidence was given that while the liquor inspectors, Murphy and Bigelow, were present at the hotel the license came upon the scene and in their presence asked the night clerk if he had been given orders not to sell after hours and the latter replied affirmatively. Then Supt. Welch who had brought the complaint volunteered the information that conditions had improved at the Merrimack during the past three months and liquor inspector Murphy was called to give "expert" testimony as to what he and Philip stated that conditions had improved. Thus under the improved conditions it was necessary to prosecute a bartender while during the period of "unimproved" conditions there was evidence of no cause for complaint. The commissioners were so impressed that they considered the case worthy of mature deliberation before making a finding. Just how the license commissioners will decide the case is not known. The proprietor was not taken into court for violating the terms of his license and hence the commissioners have no conviction against him upon which to rely in fining against him, while the proprietor claims and his clerk admitted without evidence to the contrary, that the clerk had been given strict orders not to sell after hours. In the celebrated "Spotted Golden" liquor case of long ago, former Mayor Courtney, counsel for the defense, got a favorable decision from the supreme court on the contention that the proprietor was not responsible for the acts of his clerks if they disobeyed his orders in his absence. In the old days of no license it was customary when a place was caught violating the law to haul in the bartender while the proprietor was not molested. In those days such procedure was loudly objected to by the Law and Order league, the ministers and the advocates of no-license. But these are the days of "Equal rights for all; special privileges to none," and hence we hear no objections to the procedure from any source.

Break at Library

One can hardly blame the police for wanting to live up so far as holding a break as that which occurred this week at the city library, the thieves approaching the building through an open lawn in a most conspicuous place and entering a public building at that, especially after the recent statements of the superintendent relative to the city's freedom from crime. This is only additional evidence of the fact as stated last week in this column that the city is no more free from crime than it ever was, except that conditions are being more carefully hidden from the public than heretofore. This morning's Courier-Citizen has the item relative to the break hidden away in a few lines. Had the break occurred a year ago undoubtedly it would have been considered of sufficient importance for editorial comment.

Reorganization of Health Board

Much interest is manifest in the new order of things relative to the state health department as the result of the passage of the bill to reorganize the state board of health by abolishing the present board and substituting therefor, a state health commissioner with a salary of $10,000 and six assistant commissioners, salary not stated. A bitter fight was put up against the bill by the republicans, and especially by the corporations, the latter endeavoring to save the official head of Mr. Hiram Mills, of this city, of the Locks and Canals company, who has been a member of the state board for many years. Even at the 11th hour the opponents of the bill attempted to have it referred to next year's legislature, but the attempt was futile. The local democratic members of the legislature voted as a unit for the bill as was proper. The six assistant commissioners according to the new law must be graduates of a medical school and men who have also passed the state board examination for registration in medicine. A clause in the bill prevents the state authorities from overruling the local health officials.

Close of Legislature

The senate and legislature prorogued within a week after a busy session at which much important constructive legislation was put through, largely through democratic influences. Governor Walsh enjoys the distinction of having been sustained in every veto that he sent back to the legislature. It was noticeable that during the year all of the democratic members of the house from Lowell voted as a unit and were recorded on the "right" side of all popular measures. The principal measure of local interest to come before the legislature was the matter of improving the Merrimack river and on this both republicans and democrats from Lowell voted for the measure. On the Fisher-Edwards bill so-called, the "fisher" being Senator Edward Fisher, for the separation of the X. Y. X. H. & H. the local democrats voted for the measure and the republicans against. Reps. Jewett and Achin, the two political peas in a pod, split on one measure for the first time since they have been running together. That was on the bill relative to state contributions to private institutions. The bill was aimed, it is said, at Catholic institutions, but Rep. Thomassey introduced a sweeping amendment that included the Institute of Technology and in fact every institution in the state was not properly a public institution, and the amendment killed the bill. Rep. Jewett voted in favor of the bill and Rep. Achin against.

The local democratic members voted for the two-platoon fire bill so-called and were roundly criticized in some quarters by persons who did not understand its purpose. The passage of the bill by the legislature by no means made it law, for attached to it was not only the referendum but the initiative as well for the bill provided that in the event of its passage, in any city of 6,000 population or over, 15 per cent of the registered voters petitioned to have the bill placed upon the ballot at the next city election it should come before the whole body of the voters for final action. Hence it can readily be seen that there was no attempt or intention on the part of those who favored the bill to slip something over on the taxpayers.

The democratic members from Lowell voted for the repeal of the child labor law having seen the bad results of the law as it operates right here in Lowell, where the husky boys who might well be working are roaming the streets because they are slightly under the age of 16 while their mothers are wearing their hands off to support them.

At the last moment the committee on rules of the legislature attempted to slip through a bill limiting the public's right of petition. The bill provided that each senator be limited to 10 bills and each representative to five, and no member could introduce more than this number unless by a four-fifths vote of the committee on rules. This would limit the right of the taxpayers to petition the legislature and the democrats successfully fought it. They threatened to demand a roll-call on which caused its downfall as many of those who were at first in favor, didn't care to be recorded as supporting such an unpopular measure. Rep. Jewett, a member of the committee on rules favored the measure.

Reps. Jewett and Achin who have had previous experience as members of recess committees were right there in support of two measures for recess committees and may be rewarded with appointments thereon. One of these is for a recess committee to consider the matter of charters for cities and draw up blank forms of charters from which cities will be compelled to choose if they desire to change their charters, a measure that seems antagonistic to the principles of home rule. But then it will not amount to anything and some good fellows will get $1000 or thereabouts and expenses for a little work during the warm weather. The second recess committee measure provides for a committee to consider the method of procedure of the legislature. The local democratic members opposed both measures.

ANARCHIST FUNERAL SCHEDULED FOR TODAY IN NEW YORK, CALLED OFF

NEW YORK, July 11.—Patrolmen in every police station in Manhattan were held in readiness today for duty in Union square where the anti-militarist league, the Mother Earth association and anarchists planned to hold a memorial service for the three men killed in a bomb explosion a week ago. The proposed funeral procession today in honor of Arthur Carran, Carl Hansen and Charles Berg, the victims of the bomb explosion, was definitely abandoned last night after Mayor Mitchell announced that no public parade would be tolerated.

The mayor explained that no interference would be offered in the friends of the dead men assembled in orderly fashion to eulogize their dead comrades or criticize the government, so long as no violence was practiced. The decision calling off the parade was displeasing to the members of the organizations. It had been arranged to have the urns containing the ashes of the three victims borne in a hearse at the head of the procession.

One Can Have A Good Time At Table

without the usual cup of coffee, and feel a whole lot better between meals, too—free from that old "off color feeling"—biliousness, indigestion, nervousness and heart flutter.

The secret is

—instead of coffee.

Try the change for a couple of weeks and observe two noticeable things:

You won't miss the old beverage, for Postum tastes much like rare old Java.

Further, there's the brisk, alert feeling,—free from the logyness of a lazy liver and disturbed digestion.

Thousands of people have made the change and know

"THERE'S A REASON"

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—needs no boiling. A teaspoonful of the soluble powder stirred in a cup of hot water makes a delightful beverage instantly. Add cream and sugar to taste. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

Grocers everywhere sell POSTUM.

SHELLS FALL NEAR HOUSES

Hull Residents, Who Narrowly Escaped, Hold an Indignation Meeting and Make Protest

HULL, July 11.—Excitement has been aroused in this town by the dropping of two 15-pound shells at 1.30 yesterday afternoon on the thickly populated section on Allerton hill. Several summer residents barely escaped being struck, and each projectile landed within a few feet of a house. Both shots were fired from Fort Standish on Lovells Island by members of the 9th company, Coast Artillery corps.

There is no garrison on Lovells Island only a signal being posted there for sentry duty, and soldiers were sent there yesterday afternoon from Fort Warren to target practice.

At 3 o'clock officers from Fort Warren came to Allerton, had the shells dug out of the ground and carried them to Fort Warren.

For several hours it was not known here from which of the three forts the shells were fired. Before this was determined the board of selectmen sent the following message to the war department at Washington, addressed to the secretary of war:

Two solid shells from heavy guns, fired from harbor forts, struck a densely populated district of this town today. Order cessation of firing at once pending investigation. Population hysterical.

One of the shells struck within a few feet of 15-year-old Julian Hesarick, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Desparick, and within 15 yards of the Old Beacon club where a party of women, nearly all summer residents, were playing whist. Some of the women became hysterical, and it was some time before order could be restored in the clubhouse.

The second shot passed over the house of James J. O'Brien, nearly a quarter of a mile away in the Windermere section, and landed near the ocean side at Point Allerton in the yard of the house of J. H. Cannell. It plowed into the ground four feet deep from the side of the house. Here, too, the occupants were badly frightened.

Last evening, in the Old Beacon club, an indignation meeting was held. The clubhouse was crowded and bitter denunciation by the speakers of officers at the fort were greeted with approval.

Francis S. Bryant was in the chair and the speakers included Theodore K. Guth, S. N. Bartlett, Elmer E. Gilman and James J. O'Brien. Pres. Bryant said:

"This matter will be carried farther if the war department ignores it. If necessary it will be carried to congress through Massachusetts congressmen and senators. Those at this meeting are intelligent business men, and we are determined not to subordinate ourselves to danger any longer. If necessary we will take the matter up with the state authorities. The entire summer colony has been jeopardized by the lack of proper supervision on the part of officers at the fort."

Other speakers declared the incident the result of "abuse of government privilege" and said the use of high-powered instruments ought not to be in the hands of incompetent men.

There is a tendency to place the blame on the shoulders of the officers. Chief of Police Reynolds said he saw the shells and that they were 15-pound projectiles. At a late hour last night no answer had been received to the message sent to Washington demanding cessation of firing at all harbor forts.

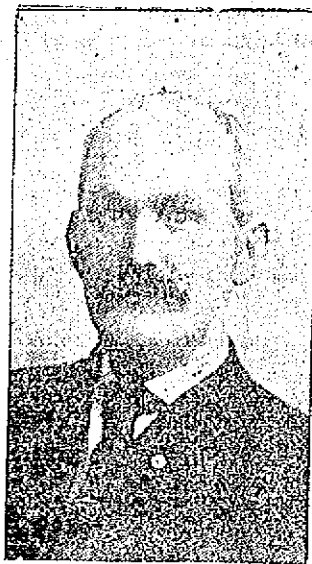

This is the second time that shells fired from harbor forts have landed on Allerton hill. Last August a shell from Fort Andrews struck in Vanhooket avenue, nearly hitting an automobile and a passing express wagon. This projectile also fell in the midst of a residential district.

At that time the matter was brought to the attention of the war department, and official promises were given that stringent measures would be taken to prevent such an accident occurring again.

THE PLAYGROUND WORK

COMMITTEE CONSIDERED PROBLEM OF KEEPING THE CHILDREN INTERESTED TILL 4.30 P. M.

The playground committee of the park commission met with the playground supervisors yesterday afternoon. The oral reports of supervisors showed the work well underway and the attendance very satisfactory. There was some discussion as to keeping the boys interested after 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The afternoon games of baseball finished at 4 o'clock and when the game is over a majority of the boys skidoo. The hour prescribed by the committee for closing is 4.30.

The majority of the supervisors seemed to be of the opinion that greater results would be obtained if the half-hour from 4 to 4.30 were added to the morning session as the school influence is so strong with the children that they want to go home at 4. The playground committee of the park department suggested that the supervisors devise some means to offset the present difficulty and it is probable that the afternoon session will be ended at 4, the other half hour to be added to the morning session, or in some cases, in the early afternoon.

Of the 15 supervisors, only two, namely Miss White of the Paige Street grounds, and Miss Frangler of the Alken street grounds favor the retention of the present time schedule. Miss White says that she often remains with the children until 5 and 5.30 and sometimes even later, and that she has no trouble in keeping them busy and amused according to the reports of the other supervisors, conditions are entirely different on most of the playgrounds, and it would seem that better results would be obtained if the sessions end at 4, the extra time to be fitted in through the day.

After the meeting held yesterday Mr. Patrick Reynolds was elected as head of the supervisors. Mr. Reynolds is intensely interested in the work and has had splendid results in his former connection with the movement. From the plans now made and the activity shown on all sides it is apparent that the playgrounds will be a greater boon than ever to the children of the city during the present season.

These pictures are the first authentic ones to pass the Mexican censors and reach the United States from Zacatecas, where the rebels recently won a telling and decisive victory over the federals. They were taken by a war photographer while stray bullets still whizzed in the air, but after the rebels had won. One of them shows dead soldiers and horses in one of the streets. Most of the city was thus strewn with dead, and the gutters ran red with gore. The other shows rebels carting away some of the dead on a small dry drawn by horses. These bodies were carted to big piles on the outskirts and dumped in. Later they were burned.

MRS. BERTHA PEARSON

FOUND IN SHALLOW WATER AT EDGE OF MERRIMACK RIVER—REMOVED TO HOSPITAL

Mrs. Bertha Pearson, a middle-aged woman, was found lying in shallow water of the Merrimack river on the boulevard at midnight and she was hurried to the Lowell hospital, where it is believed she will recover.

Mrs. Pearson in the early part of the evening went for a walk, with her daughter along the boulevard. Later she told her daughter to return to her home and that she would follow. The daughter did as told but after reaching home the husband set right out to locate his wife. His efforts were aided by those of Patrolman O'Neil and at midnight the woman was found lying in the water near the shore. The ambulance was summoned in haste and she was sent to the hospital. It is believed that the act was committed during temporary depression of mind for only a short time ago Mrs. Pearson suffered from nervous prostration. She is resting comfortably today.

CONTROL OF AIR AN ISSUE IN THE CASE—OFFENSE UNUSUALLY AGGRAVATED, IT IS CLAIMED

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Yesterday's arrests at San Francisco marked the beginning of the first criminal prosecution under the national defense act of March 3, 1911, for disclosure of military secrets.

In the present instance, department officials pointed out, the publication specifically directed attention to alleged shortcomings of the defense system of the canal.

When the magazine reached Washington from headquarters of the western department, Judge Advocate Crowder decided this was a case warranting prosecution and accordingly the secretary forwarded the papers to the attorney general, who caused the arrests.

The fact that the pictures complained of in this case were taken from an aeroplane raises for the first time an interesting point of jurisdiction by the national authorities over the upper air, and involves a decision as to whether a person sailing over a reservation can be held to have unlawfully entered it.

THREE PERISH IN WATER

Boy Attempted to Rescue 250 Pound Man and Both Went Down—Woman Also Lost Life

GLoucester, July 11.—The deadly undertow was fatal to three persons at Bear Neck yesterday afternoon. Two others narrowly escaped.

The Drowned:

FRANZ EDWARD JOHNSON, aged 34, shoe cutter, of 55 French avenue, Brockton.

GEORGE HENRY COLLINS, aged 15, son of Timothy S. Collins of 427 Main street, Gloucester.

MISS BESSIE DUFFY, aged 27, a waitress in the home of Charles Scott, Jr. at Bass Rocks.

All were drowned at about 4.15 p.m. the man and boy on the eastern end of Little Good Harbor beach, opposite Salt Island, and the woman about three-quarters of a mile away on the western end.

Johnson was to have been married tonight. He was one of a party from Brockton which had been staying for the past 10 days at Good Harbor Beach Inn, his sister Annie being one of them. They were to return to their home in Brockton today.

Yesterday afternoon about half-tide Johnson was fishing from what is known as High Rocks at Bear Neck. Evidently a severe storm had prevailed at sea for the undertow was particularly strong.

Grouped back of him were the members of his party sitting on the bluff. In this group was Johnson's fiancée, Miss Alice Smith of Boston. Five minutes before they had all been photographed on the rocks together.

Collins' Heroism Fails:

The spray dashed high about Johnson, who wore a raincoat for protection. Suddenly a comb higher than the rest swept him from his seat in the maelstrom.

Bernard Bergman of Brockton, one of the party, leaped in to rescue him, but Johnson was swept from the shore and it required all of Bergman's strength to save himself by clinging to a jutting piece of crag against which he fortunately was hurled. Then, his strength partially regained, he dragged himself up the bluff.

At this point, George H. Collins, a lad of 16, appeared, jumped into the sea and swam toward Johnson. None of the party had noticed him before. He reached Johnson, who was kept afloat by his raincoat, and grappled with him.

Rescue of a six-foot, 250-pound man in an angry sea by a slender lad was of course impossible, and as the struggling pair they saw little Collins suddenly go down. Johnson, being unconscious by the waves, floated with his head under water.

The cries of the onlookers attracted Nelson Rowe, a lobster fisherman, who ran to the scene and launched a dory. Harold Mitchell, a young man whose home is in Medford, accompanied him. Together they secured the body of Johnson and brought it ashore.

Drowned on Birthday

Then they rowed back to find that of Collins, which was located in about three fathoms of water. Lashing a gaff to an oar handle Rowe reached down and drew the body to the surface. It was found that his arms had become entangled in Johnson's fishing line.

Inspector Sullivan here to the scene. He sent in a call for physicians, and Dr. W. A. Fuller, who has a cottage at Bear Neck, was soon at work. Dr. Torrey Knowles and Medical Examiner Parker Burnham also responded, as did Rev. Dr. Fisher of Tarrytown, N. Y., a resident of Bear Neck.

City Marshal Marchant took a pulmotor to the scene in an auto, and for a time there seemed to be a chance that Johnson might be saved. But the hope was vain.

Young Collins was accounted by his comrades the most daring swimmer of his age in the city. Yesterday was his 16th birthday.

Second Tragedy of Afternoon

On the western edge of the beach a similar tragedy was being enacted at about the same time. Bessie Duffy, a comely waitress, was bathing with other girls employed in the colony.

This was her second season at Bass Rocks, where last year she learned to swim. She was inclined to take risks and her friends repeatedly warned her not to be too venturesome.

She swam out a considerable distance yesterday and was soon in the grip of the undertow. Unfortunately the life-guard was off duty, but Anthony Amaral, a young man who was bathing nearby, rushed to her assistance.

He grasped her and directed her to swim back while he towed her in, but she became so excited and impeded him so that both were in danger until Amaral by a supreme effort shook her off. He succeeded in getting to land, while the girl sank.

BUSINESS AGENT AGAIN

MR. M. A. LEE RE-ELECTED BY THE LOCAL CARPENTERS' UNION AFTER HOT CONTEST

different locals. Since taking up the position eight years ago he has been mainly instrumental in elevating the standard of the carpenters of Lowell. At that time the wages paid union carpenters was $2.85 per day and they had no agreement with the contractors. Since that time the wages were increased to $3.25 per day, and two years ago the carpenters were awarded 45 cents per hour or $3.60 per day. The carpenters now work 14 hours a week. In building up a conservative organization Mr. Lee has been helped not only by the carpenters but by the contractors as well. It is the contention of the members of the Carpenters' union that more rapid strides have been made during Mr. Lee's regime than at any other period in the history of the organization.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL GONE

MISS LEWIS OF MEDFORD AND YOUNG MARRIED MAN ARE MISSING

MEDFORD, July 11.—The mysterious disappearance of Miss Gladys Lewis, 17 years old, a Junior at Medford high school, from her home, 74 Marshall street, some time during the night Thursday and the simultaneous disappearance of Arthur B. Jones, aged 21, married, living at 414 Ashmont street, Dorchester, with whom she had been friendly for about three weeks, not knowing that he was married, caused a sensation last evening in this city when it became known.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Lewis, parents of the girl are nearly prostrated with grief over her disappearance and have sought the aid of the police of Medford, Boston, and other cities in locating their daughter. Circumstances have led them to believe that their daughter has run away with Jones.

LOCAL MILK STATION BUSY

Mothers Taught to Prepare Modified Milk—Nurses Visit Sick Children

One does not hear much about the milk station in Dutton street these days but the work of caring for the babies is going along just the same and there are about 200 babies in care of the milk station at the present time. Tuesdays and Fridays are conference days for the mothers whose babies are being cared for. The doctors who give their services gratis, and no doctor has yet refused to serve at the milk station, meet the mothers on Tuesday and Friday afternoons and talk with them concerning the health and care of their babies. Most of the mothers are foreigners but nearly all of them can speak English and if they can't speak it an interpreter is provided for them. They realize that the lives of their babies are involved and pay strict attention to all the doctors have to say. Two doctors serve two months at a time and the doctors serving at the present time are Drs. Puffer and Blanchard.

Miss Hilda Rosell is the head nurse at the milk station and she is assisted by pupil nurses who come, one at a time, from the different hospitals, each pupil nurse remaining one month. The clerk at the station is Miss Anna Hurd.

While considerable milk is prepared at the station yet the thing most desired is to have the mothers learn to prepare the milk at home. The nurses visit the babies at their homes once a week and if a baby is seriously ill the nurses make daily visits. Most of the babies come to the milk station poorly nourished, but they soon show signs of improvement, much to the delight of the mothers who look upon the milk station as a real life station.

Lowell is one of the very few cities in Massachusetts where a milk station is kept open the year round. In most cities the milk stations are closed during the winter months. By keeping the station open during the winter the nurses and others interested in the work are able to keep track of the babies and it renders the work more complete. Some of the babies need constant care and unless the mothers have become proficient in the process of modifying the milk they must have outside care and that can come only from the milk station and this is another reason why it serves the purpose best to keep the station open during the winter months.

There are not as many sick babies this summer as were listed last summer and this is due of course to the fact that we have not had any very hot weather this summer; no continuous hot weather at least. Milk is being prepared at the milk station for about 35 of the 200 babies that are being cared for by the station and all of the babies it was stated yesterday, are doing nicely. In each instance a formula is prepared to suit the case of the baby and the milk is modified to agree with the child. The mothers get the formula for modified milk suitable for children at different ages and soon learn to prepare it themselves.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The wife and eleven-year-old daughter of Dr. Henry Richter, of No. 293 Pulaski street, Brooklyn, were arrested yesterday afternoon through a trap laid by the police on information given by a stool pigeon, to the effect that the doctor's residence was an agency for the illicit sale of drugs.

Israel Bass, a druggist, of No. 367 South Third street, Williamsburg, also was arrested charged with having directly vended heroin to the doctor's daughter.

The identity of the police informant is being shielded by the Brooklyn detectives, because the police expect through him to make wholesale arrests of cocaine, heroin, morphine and opium venders. The man himself convicted of selling the drugs was arraigned for sentence before County Judge Fawcett in Brooklyn yesterday, but on his agreement to make full disclosures of the drug traffic, Judge Fawcett suspended sentence and turned him over to Detectives Ferris and Flinchett.

Say Child Was Messenger

He guided them, the detectives declare, to the home of Dr. Richter, who was not at home, but they assert Mrs. Rose Richter readily agreed to obtain heroin for them and accepted two $1 bills, which had been marked; that she summoned her little daughter, wrote a note and gave it to the child. The police declare they followed the girl in a motor car to Bass' drug store and that when she came out she carried a package of heroin. They immediately raided Bass' store and charge that they found one of the marked bills and, after arresting Mrs. Richter, they found in her possession the entire stock of the store was locked up in the Stags street station. Mrs. Richter was sent to the Herbert street station and her daughter was placed in care of the Children's society.

The police say their informant has given information through which the entire traffic in Brooklyn, the disclosures concerning which have been little short of appalling, may readily be routed, if not completely destroyed.

Cocaine Supply in Cuff of Cont Sleave
A thin, sunken checked chap, with bloodless lips and a manner so nervous and uncertain that he attracted attention, stood last night at Forty-fourth street and Sixth avenue.

Detectives Dietrich and Fraser of the East Fifty-first street station approached the man and, after talking with him, decided that he was a cocaine fiend. They seized and searched him and in the rolled cuff of his coat-sleeve found a package of cocaine.

The man then admitted, according to the detectives, that he was a drug fiend. He described himself as James Cusick, twenty-five, living at the Olive Tree Inn, in East Twenty-third street. The detectives questioned him in the hope of learning where he bought the cocaine. Then he was locked up, charged with having it in his possession.

2000 SEE 3 DROWNED

Youth and Two Girls Snatched From Log by Heavy Waves at Long Beach

NEW YORK, July 10.—The annual outing of the Richmond Hill Sunday School union to Long Beach, L. I., came to a sudden and tragic ending yesterday afternoon when three of the 2,000 excursionists—a youth and two girls—were drowned in the surf. They had found a drifting log and with a second young man floated out on it.

One of the girls became panic-stricken. Her struggles started the log rolling and sent all four floundering. A brother tried vainly to rescue his sister and was finally able only to reach the beach, where he fell exhausted and it took an hour's work by physicians to revive him. An attack of the Nassau hotel brought the body of one girl ashore, but three hours labor with a pump could not revive her.

The victims were Miss Catharine Reardon, seventeen, of Oak Avenue and Chester street, Richmond Hill; Miss Grace V. Reeve, seventeen, of 125 Walnut street, Richmond Hill; and Norma Beach, 23, of 4001 Ferris street, Woodhaven, L. I. Mrs. Reeve, 15, was the only one to escape death.

The excursionists were from the First Methodist Episcopal church, the Baptist bible school, St. John Evangelical Lutheran Union, Congregational First Presbyterian, Trinity Methodist and Pilgrim Congregational churches of Richmond Hill, the Jamaica Methodist church, the Union Course Baptist church and Congregational Church of Woodhaven, the Forest Park Reformed church and the German Evangelical Reformed church of Woodhaven, and the organization of The Brethren of Queens County.

Young Reeve, after being restored to consciousness, was unable to tell clearly what had occurred, but as far as could be gathered, his sister, and-ing suddenly that the log had carried her beyond her depth, and being unable to swim, tried to climb upon it. She lost her hold, the others in their efforts to seize her, lost control of the log, which slipped from their grasp, and all were struggling in deep and choppy water.

Beach Died a Hero

The girls screamed and young Reeves and Beach shouted frantically. Scores started toward them from the Deauville pavilion, 1,000 feet away. As they ran they saw Reeves' desperate efforts to keep his sister from sinking and prevent her from dragging him under.

The last seen of young Beach he was making heroic efforts to save Miss Reardon, but the heavy sea battered him from her and he went down. Then Miss Reeves sank and her brother began weakly striving to reach shore.

After going down several times, Miss Reardon's body remained on the surface. It was evident that she was unconscious. Charles H. Munter, a clerk in the Hotel Nassau, dashed into the surf, and R. O. Phillips of No. 237 Warburton avenue, Yonkers, who had arrived in his automobile, struck out for the scene of the tragedy as marked by the tumbling log.

Others went out to aid young Reeves. As he staggered upon the sand, he fainted. Mystery brought in Miss Reardon's body.

Drs. Rogers, Blumenthal, Turley and Johnson used the pump on both, but in Miss Reardon's case all efforts were useless.

The special train which had borne the excursionists to Long Beach was hurriedly made up and all the women and children departed, some of them hysterical. The men remained to patrol the beach all night for the bodies.

BOYS IN POLICE COURT

CHARGED WITH BREAKING INTO LAUNDRY AND STEALING VALUABLE MACHINERY

That Judge Enright will make an effort to decrease the number of thefts which are being reported at the police station as the work of juveniles is evident by his statement in court this forenoon when he said that hereafter boys who are brought into court to answer charges of breaking and entering if found guilty will be severely dealt with.

Since the close of the schools last June a great many breaks have been reported in various parts of the city and often times great damage has been caused. Yesterday four boys, James Harrison, Raymond McCaffrey, Eugene Pantano and George L. Calnan, were arraigned charged with breaking and entering the laundry building of Edward Cawley on Church street and stealing therefrom machinery valued in the vicinity of $100. The evidence showed that the stolen articles were found in a junk man for $125.

The break occurred on June 20 and the boys gained their entrance to the building by crossing the river in a boat or raft and entering the back way. The police were notified and the mischievous youngsters gave them quite a hunt but they were finally arrested and all pleaded guilty in court today. Judge Enright placed the boys on probation for the term of one month on condition that restitution of the stolen property is made and if not, sentence will be imposed.

TRADE COMMISSION BILL

EFFECT MAY BE MADE TO CONSOLIDATE IT WITH ANTI-TRUST MEASURES

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Action by senate in deferring consideration of the trade commission bill until the administration trust program can be perfected in committee gave rise today to renewed reports that an effort may be made to consolidate the measures in one bill. The Judiciary committee worked throughout the day on the omnibus trust bill and the inter-state commerce committee took up the railroad securities bill. Recommendations of business men who have conferred with the president may result in changes in those measures.

Some democrats, as well as republican senators, believe the three measures should be consolidated, not only in the interest of legislative simplicity but also to expedite completion of the legislative program. The belief is growing that it would take all summer and probably run the session well into the fall if the senate were to pass three distinct bills.

BROKE INTO THE LIBRARY

Bold Burglary in Which Thieves Rifled Cash Register of the City Library—Police Notified

The public library in the Memorial building was broken into some time last Tuesday night and the library's cash register smashed and robbed of its contents, which fortunately was only about $6. The thieves effected an entrance by breaking a lower window on the lower side of the building next to city hall and then unlocking the window and dropping the upper part. Going upstairs they proceeded to do a job on the cash register which was securely locked. After mutilating the

WORCESTER, July 10.—Thomas Bombard of Cherry Valley, 35 years old, was arraigned in district court today on three charges of assault with intent to kill Mrs. Nelda King, Edward Reithel and Alma Reithel in the Pontville wooden mill in Auburn yesterday. Bombard was held on $2,000 bonds in each case and the hearing was continued. MUTINIOUS PRISONERS ACCUSED OF MURDER

CREATED ANOTHER DISTURBANCE IN PENITENTIARY ON BLACKWELL'S ISLAND

NEW YORK, July 10.—Mutinous prisoners in the penitentiary on Blackwell's island, many of whom have been put on bread and water fare because of outbreaks yesterday and the day before, created another short-lived disturbance today. They had a struggle with keepers in the north corridor. No one was seriously hurt. The rebels were sent back to their cells. Curtailment of certain privileges which had been granted the prisoners caused the disorders.

NEW CRATER OPENED

DETAILS OF VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS IN ALASKA GIVEN BY CAPT. MCMILLAN

SEWARD, Alaska, July 10.—Further details of the tremendous volcanic activity in progress along the Alaska peninsula west of Seward and reaching today by Captain McMillan of the steamer Dirigo which brought first news of the outbreak. Observations made by the crew of the steamer July 1 showed that a new crater had opened on the north side of Mount Shishaldin, the most westerly of the three peaks reported in eruption. Flowing lava had cut a wide path through the snow for miles down the side of the mountain. Mount Shishaldin is one of the most active volcanoes in the world and has been in almost continuous eruption for years.

SENSATIONAL REPORTS

WALL CORRESPONDENT OUBLED OUT OF MEXICO BY SECRETARY GARRISON

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Secretary Garrison has enforced for the first time the new army regulations governing war correspondents in the case of Fred Huall, an American writer with Funston's brigade at Vera Cruz. He was charged with sending out sensational and untrue dispatches. Secretary Garrison has revoked his credentials as a correspondent with the field army and ordered his deportation to the United States. As the dispatches in question also involved the navy, Secretary Garrison has stayed the execution of his order while Secretary Daniels has his order for investigation. It was said the official record shows Huall to be accredited to the Cleveland, O. Press.

SUIT TO DISSOLVE CAN CO.

BOSTON, July 10.—Taking of further testimony in the government's suit to dissolve the American Can Co. for alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust act was postponed today until Monday when the hearings will be resumed in New York. Jesse Atkins, special assistant to the United States attorney general, had intended to resume the hearings at Portland, Me., but owing to the inability of counsel for the defense to supply certain documentary evidence desired by the government for use in examining Maine witnesses he requested a hearing in New York. When that is concluded testimony will be taken at Portland and Eastport, Me.

HUERTA'S MEN FLEE FROM GUAYMAS, AN IMPORTANT SEAPORT OF MEXICO

SALTILLO, July 10.—Guaymas, one of the most important seaports on the Mexican west coast was evacuated by the federals today, according to advices to General Carranza. The constitutionalist commander investing Guaymas was authorized to agree to an armistice until the federals should leave the city by boat, the truce being to save property of non-combatants and unnecessary slaughter. General Carranza has authorized Alvarado to establish a municipal government at Guaymas. It is understood the terms of evacuation announced here in advance yesterday were carried out by which the American naval vessels in the harbor guaranteed the armistice with a promise also that after it was over the federal gunboat would not bombard the newly established constitutionalist garrison.

Has Met Obligations With League—Fitchburg Breaking Even

It looked like old times to see "Grandpa" Fred Lake strolling along the street after the game yesterday with eye as bright and step as lively as when he first struck Lowell. The fact that "Grandpa" has recently added a son-in-law to his list of family connections doesn't make him a day older in baseball activity. Speaking with the writer Fred said in substance: "That article in The Sun on the occasion of my last appearance in this city was entirely without foundation and was unequalled. I have fulfilled all my obligations to the league and to the owners of the New Bedford club up to date and anything to the contrary is utterly false. I have a fairly good team at the present time and just now am in hopes of looking another good pitcher. Things are breaking evenly at Fitchburg, we are going along smoothly and are paying our bills. This has not been a good season for the game in the New England league but by being careful we are getting by without any financial loss." The Fitchburg team went down into Maine today and will play Lewiston today and tomorrow and Portland on Monday and Tuesday. The Sun's sporting writer in his article objected to by Mr. Lake had no intention of doing him or his team any injury and cheerfully publishes Mr. Lake's objection thereto. The sporting writer did not mean to intimate that Mr. Lake was behind in his payments but that one was coming due very soon and unless he met it he might lose the franchise for Fitchburg. But it seems that Fred met the payment before it came due and therefore all is well; Lake is in possession of the Fitchburg team, and good luck to him.

MILITANT SPRANG ONTO KING'S AUTO

Woman Was Seized by Policemen Who Had Difficulty in Holding at Bay Mob Bent on Lynching Her

PERTH, Scotland, July 10.—A militant suffragette, uttering an exultant yell, sprang onto the footboard of an automobile in which King George and Queen Mary were driving through the streets of Perth today.

The woman who was identified as Rhoda Fleming from Glasgow, in making her attempt to reach the king, seized the handle of the door of the royal automobile before the momentarily paralyzed police were able to act.

She was then seized by two policemen and it required a score of mounted soldiers to hold at bay the angry mob bent on lynching Rhoda, who turned out to be armed only with a petition against the forcible feeding of imprisoned suffragettes. A large force of troops was requisitioned to protect her from the populace as she was being conveyed to the lockup.

Earlier in the day while in Dundee the king and queen had received attention from another suffragette, who pitched a bundle of pamphlets into their motor car.

SALEM RELIEF FUND TO BE MADE $10,000

Then the Total Will be Forwarded to Salem—Humphrey O'Sullivan Contributes $50—Very Good Suggestion—Work of Women on Tag Day Commended

At a meeting of the Salem relief committee held in the aldermanic chamber at city hall this forenoon it was voted not to send the money collected and subscribed in this city to Salem until the amount had reached the $10,000 mark. The total amount up to date, as reckoned at the meeting this morning, is $9,534.57, exclusive of a $50 check from Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan which Mayor Murphy said was then on the way. He said Mr. O'Sullivan had telephoned him that the check was in the mail.

At the first meeting of the committee a special appropriation of $50 for a Lowell family was made and that amount will be deducted from the total as announced today. The only expense connected with tag day was $1.75 paid for tags or the printing of them. The special appropriation of $50 will be forwarded the Lowell family in Salem today.

BAD OPERATION AVOIDED

By Timely Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Sowers' Own Statement.
Hodgdon, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Hodgdon, Maine.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to any of the women whose testimonial letters we are constantly publishing. They will tell you their experience and give you confidence to try the medicine.

SUES HAVERHILL CLUB

BILL IN EQUITY ASKING FOR APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVER FILED TODAY

BOSTON, July 10.—A bill in equity asking for an order of notice and for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the assets of the Haverhill Baseball association was filed in the superior court today by the mortgagees. Hugh Donahue, James W. Busfield, Frank W. Amaze and William Rich, all of Haverhill. The defendants are Sherman H. Marshall and Daniel F. Clokey of Haverhill, the Haverhill Baseball association and the Pentucket Athletic Associates. T. H. Murnane, president of the New England league of baseball clubs, is joined as a nominal defendant.

The plaintiffs alleged that in 1910 they loaned $4000 on a mortgage to the Haverhill Baseball association and that no part of it has been paid. The order was asked to establish the debt, order an accounting and restrain the individual defendants from operating or controlling the corporation or the franchise.

Members of Co's C, G & K Return Tomorrow—M Leaves Tomorrow

The members of Companies C, G and K, M. V. M., of this city who have spent the week at their annual encampment at Lakeville, Mass., are expected to return to Lowell tomorrow afternoon. The militiamen were accompanied by Tabor's Sixth Regiment band, which delighted them with excellent music throughout the week, concerts being given every evening. The members of the Sixth regiment are at camp with those of the Second regiment and tomorrow forenoon they will pack up their things and board special trains for their respective homes. Company M, of the Ninth regiment of this city will leave at 8:45 o'clock tomorrow morning by special train for Lakeville, Mass., where they will also hold their annual encampment. Next week will be devoted to the companies of the Eighth and Ninth regiments and their program will be practically the same as that of the Second and Sixth regiments. The Lowell company will be joined at South Framingham by other companies and the travel from the latter place to the camp spot will be made without interruption.

THE TOWN OF BILLERICA

After a hold-up of several months the water commissioners of Billerica have decided to extend the water mains in the vicinity of the Arcadia road, Pinehurst district, Billerica, and consequently a supply of 12-inch pipe has been shipped to this section and the work of laying the mains will be begun immediately. Residents of the Arcadia road and other streets in the Pinehurst district petitioned the water department for extensions of the mains some time ago, but there was some hitch in the matter, and it has just been decided to make the extensions called for.

SHOT HERSELF THROUGH HEART

PORTLAND, Me., July 11.—Leaving her bed early this morning and going to another room, Mrs. George Potts, 35, a resident of the "Kansas district," shot herself through the heart with a 22 calibre revolver, death being instantaneous. She leaves a husband and two sons. Ill health is believed to have been the cause of the act.

PHOTOGRAPH SHOWING SHAMROCK IV IN HER FAMOUS CUTTER RIG

This photo of the cup challenger was taken during the last series of trial races against the Shamrock III, and shows her for the first time in the cutter rig which Nicholson and Burton think will aid her greatly in the attempt to lift the trophy. A great deal of lead has been taken off the keel and a slightly longer bowsprit added to accommodate the larger head rigging.

CHURCH PICNICS

Several are Being Held Today—Excursion to Bass Point

The members of the First Primitive Methodist church of which Rev. N. W. Matthews is pastor, held their annual outing at Milliken's grove, Wilmington today. Four special electric cars left Davis square at 1:47 o'clock this afternoon and conveyed the excursionists to the grounds, where a pleasant afternoon was spent.

The Fifth Street Baptist church is holding its outing at Thompson's grove, Wilmington today. At 5:15 this morning a special left Merrimack square and an hour later another car well filled wended its way to the grove. The affair is in charge of a committee with R. B. Thomas as chairman.

E. M. Lusser of Chelmsford Centre today conducted an excursion to Bass Point and many residents of the town took advantage of the opportunity to go to the seashore. A special car left the Centre at 1:15 o'clock this morning.

The annual outing of the members of the Club Passe-Temps will be held at their summer camp on the shores of Crystal lake a week from Sunday. As usual the affair is expected to be largely attended. The program will consist of a dinner and an entertainment program. The committee in charge consists of the following: Hildert Gagnon, chairman; Thomas Rochette, Judger, Columbus, John Mulvaney and H. A. Toupin.

OUTING AT CANOE

The members of the North Billerica Baptist Sunday school held an outing at Canoe lake this afternoon with over a hundred members and friends of the school in attendance. At 1:30 o'clock two special cars, filled with the jolly picnickers, left Merrimack square and conveyed them to the park where the afternoon was spent at the various amusement places. At six o'clock a luncheon will be served and the return trip will be made early this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Comerford and Miss Loretta Comerford will spend the next three weeks at the different watering places along the Maine coast.

HOLY NAME BRANCHES

OF ST. PATRICK'S AND SACRED HEART CHURCHES TO RECEIVE COMMUNION TOMORROW

Two branches of the Holy Name society of this city, viz.: those of St. Patrick's and the Sacred Heart churches will receive communion tomorrow in a body at their respective parishes, and great crowds are anticipated at both services, because it has been announced that following the communion preliminary preparations will be made to organize the local branches for the great diocesan parade to be held in Boston in October.

The men of St. Patrick's Holy Name society will receive communion at the 7 o'clock mass which will be celebrated by Monsignor O'Brien. A social will then be held in the school hall, followed by a business meeting. The Sacred Heart branch will receive communion en masse at the 7:30 o'clock mass, repatriating afterwards to the school hall where breakfast will be served. After breakfast a social will be enjoyed and the morning's exercises will be brought to a close by a business meeting at which plans for organizing the Sacred Heart branch for the great October parade will be discussed. At the last great parade held a few years ago, New England wondered at the growth of this splendid society and it is now planned to make even a better showing next October.

AT ST. PETER'S CHURCH

Tomorrow will be the regular quarterly communion day of the members of St. Peter's Holy Name society, and as usual, a record-breaking crowd of men is expected to assemble for the occasion. The members will attend the 7:30 o'clock mass, the Holy Name choir rendering a special musical program during the mass. On account of the warm weather it has been deemed inadvisable to hold the breaking of the bread hall as has been the program in the past. The monthly religious meetings have also been dispensed with during July and August. For the big Holy Name parade in the fall the society is working on plans for a big contingent of members. As yet, however, the plans are rather tentative, but just as soon as the cool weather sets in the members will be advised as to the arrangements and efforts put forth for a banner attendance, for St. Peter's society hopes to have the largest number in line of any society in the Lowell division.

THE FLYING SQUADRON

REPRESENTATIVE TO BE AT FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH TOMORROW AT 10:30 O'CLOCK

Mr. Oliver W. Stewart, of Chicago, who is to speak at the First Congregational church on Sunday at 10:30 o'clock is a representative of the Flying Squadron of America which is to be in this city in the fall.

The Flying Squadron is made up of men from all parts of the United States who believe in making the liquor problem a national issue.

Many of the greatest religious bodies of America have expressed themselves for national prohibition as the solution for the great evil and loss which the drinking of liquor produces.

It was for the purpose of crystallizing this sentiment and bringing it to unified action that the Flying Squadron came into existence. It is under the control of no political party, society, league, union, sect or organization, but it is to be managed by its own members.

They expect to spend three days in each of one hundred and fifty cities with the best temperance speakers in America, with special soloists and piano music at each meeting.

Mr. Oliver W. Stewart is to be here tomorrow as advance representative of the work that is to follow later in the year. He is a man of great ability as a speaker and organizer, and will entertain as well as instruct his audience. The speakers who come later are very able speakers.

BAD OPERATION AVOIDED

By Timely Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Sowers' Own Statement.

Hodgdon, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I was beset by tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine." Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Hodgdon, Maine.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you will be cured. Write to any of the women whose testimonials are constantly publishing. They will tell you their experience and give you confidence to try the medicine.

Many Dog Licenses Unpaid

If you haven't paid Towser's license you'd better get a move on unless you want the poor old fellow despatched to the happy hunting ground. Mayor Murphy received a statement from the clerk's office this morning to the effect that there are 500 dog owners in Lowell who have failed to license their dogs. Licenses have been collected on 1460 canines and that makes Lowell's total number of dogs, 1960. The mayor, under the law, must cause to be killed all unlicensed dogs. He is governed in his action by the revised laws.

Contract For New Bandstand

The contract for the new bandstand on the South common has been awarded to Daniel H. Walker. Mr. Walker bid $1500 and Charles P. Conant bid $2228. They were the only bidders. There is only $1827.50 available for the construction of the bandstand as that is the total of the amount remaining out of the original appropriation which was something over $2000. Mr. Walker says he will be able to reduce his price $50. The specifications called for stucco columns and he bid on something more expensive and he can cut his bid $50 on that account. There will then remain the sum of $22.50 over and above the amount available and the $22.50 will have to be transferred from some other fund.

The work of constructing the bandstand will be done under the direction of Stickney & Graves, the architects; the commissioner of public property, and Henry F. Carr, member of the park commission.

Brown Tails Are in Flight

Moist Exterminator Gordon stated this morning that the brown tail moths are in full flight, but that they are being held back by the east winds. He says that if there should come a strong west or northwest wind the moths would probably come in clouds from the infected districts of New Hampshire.

WEAR GOOD CLOTHES

According to a new order issued by the Boston & Maine railroad, the passenger conductors must all carry 20 days and present themselves before the trainmaster for inspection of uniform and general appearance. The order follows the recent increase of 30 cents per day in pay and the fact that the passenger men are now obliged to purchase their own clothes twice a year. The conductors will be asked to investigate the appearance of men employed on their trains.

ROBINSON INDICTMENT STANDS

BOSTON, July 11.—A motion to quash the indictment against Lawrence Robinson, charged with the murder of Thomas J. Norton, a police inspector, was over-ruled by Judge Keating in the superior court today. The motion alleged that the indictment gave Robinson so many aliases as to create the impression that he was a notorious criminal and was therefore prejudicial to his defense. Norton was slain as he was attempting to arrest Robinson for the police of Grand Rapids, Mich., where he is alleged to have killed three persons.

LET EVERYBODY'S MOTTO BE "SAFETY FIRST"

The Chamber of Commerce has embarked upon a campaign which can lead to the conquest of a great evil which stalks among us, mercilessly levying tribute upon life and limb and property.

The Chamber of Commerce has declared war against the habit of carelessness in the conduct of our persons in the midst of dangerous instrumentalities of a modern metropolis. Four hundred and twenty-six accidents on the streets of New York recently, occasioning 173 deaths, were analyzed. It was found that about 90 per cent. of these accidents were due to carelessness on the part of the public, either of the person injured or of someone else.

Last year more than 90,000 persons were killed or injured in Massachusetts alone through industrial accidents. This is more than are hurt in most wars. Of this number, 45,000 need not have been hurt if somebody had not been careless. Now, consider that these 45,000 people who were needlessly injured were all hurt in a single year, and that this tribute to human carelessness goes on in like proportions year after year. In ten years, at this rate, almost half a million people are hurt in Massachusetts alone who ought not to have been hurt.

If we will all co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce we shall be able to reduce the danger of these accidents both to ourselves and to others.

Do you realize, readers, that 90,000 accidents in Massachusetts a year means an accident to every 32 people? Do you realize the danger in which you stand today with accidents when one in every 32 of the people of Massachusetts is being injured every year? If you were taken out into a field with 31 other people and told in the course of a day that unless you were exceedingly careful one of you would be injured, don't you think that YOU WOULD BE EXCEEDINGLY CAREFUL? That is just your situation today. You are running that danger through your own carelessness and the carelessness of those who come in contact with you every year.

If every man does his part to establish a more careful habit, the splendid campaign which the Boston Chamber of Commerce has inaugurated will be successful, and we shall cease to be in the great danger which now confronts the people who are a part and parcel of our very tense and impatient modern American civilization.

Let us get the habit—of carefulness. BOSTON AMERICAN, July 3, 1914.

Read the above carefully and then consider it with equal care. You may be one of the 90,000 during the coming year. One never can tell.

SAFETY FIRST! Carry an accident policy through the agency of T. C. Lee & Co. with offices in the Harrington Building, 52 Central Street.

WAR'S GRIM TOLL—A STRONG PICTURE!

IT SHOWS A DEATH PIT AT ZACATECAS

THROWING DEAD BODIES INTO PIT AFTER BATTLE OF ZACATECAS

This is a remarkable picture. It is gruesome and horrible, but it is real, and war is not pleasant. It was taken by a special war photographer at Zacatecas, Mexico, just after the recent bloody battle in which over 5000 were killed. It shows a pit of death. Rebels are dumping bodies of the victims into the hole without ceremony. Dozens of bodies are already in the pit, and two or three bodies are sliding down. The men at the brink of the hole are preparing to cast others into this horrible open grave. Later these bodies are burned.

THE SPELLBINDER

While the preservation of the public peace, health and safety required the immediate purchase of an automobile and chauffeur for Commissioner Morse of the street department which was used for the first time to convey some of the commissioners on their recent trip to Springfield, Chief Saunders, of the fire department continues to dash through the streets in response to alarms in an auto that threatens to fall apart at any time and which is certainly no machine for the chief of the fire department to operate. The difference is this: In the case of the auto for the street department everybody was agreed upon the make of the machine—the Jeffrey—and hence the emergency clause, that got the purchase through before anyone would have time to change his mind. But in the case of the chief's auto there is a difference of opinion as to what kind of a machine is to be purchased and hence as Chairman Fadden would remark, "Toll" with public peace, health and safety. Chief Saunders would have had a machine some time ago had he simply requested that an auto be purchased for his use. But he specified the kind of make, upholding that older machines had friends at court, while the Jeffrey had the power to carry an emergency clause with it. Chief Saunders is not a man who will head down easily and the mere fact that someone higher up wants him to accept a machine for which he has no particular preference, will not be sufficient reason for him to abandon his quest. Meanwhile if you hear of the chief coming along in route to a fire get as far in on the sidewalk as possible lest some of the flying pieces hit you.

Hennessey for Council

The charges against Supt. Putnam have not been brought about by the municipal council, but by Commissioner Morse as an individual commissioner and yet the citizens, it would appear, are going to be treated to the extraordinary spectacle of the city solicitor, the city's paid counsel, appearing as the prosecuting attorney in the case, a fact that may affect the legality of the hearing. The city solicitor as the counsel for the city in this case should appear simply in the interest and for the protection of the municipal council as a whole, to see that it carries on its deliberations in a manner that will free it from the possibility of a come-back from the man under charges. If City Solicitor Hennessey is going to appear as counsel for Commissioner Morse in the case, to whom are the members of the municipal council to look for advice as the hearing progresses; certainly not to counsel on either side.

Painful Westford Street

"Can you finish Westford street?" was asked of Commissioner Morse by a newspaper man a day or two ago. "How can I, short 500,000 paving blocks?" responded the commissioner. "Buy the blocks," was suggested. "But I haven't enough money to buy what I need," said Charlie. Only a short time ago Commissioner Morse proposed to build a sewer in Pawtucketville at a cost of $35,000 and when not permitted to do so by loan discovered that he had the necessary amount in his sewer appropriation. The announcement that a sewer was proposed for Pawtucketville at the proposed cost of $35,000 caused a general howl and nobody has been found who favors it except the commissioner himself. Several correspondents to the different newspapers have uncharitably indicated that it is to be a repetition of that famous Oakland sewer into which some $75,000 of the city's money was sunk for no apparent purpose other than to keep the boys at work. In view of the fact that the proposed Pawtucketville sewer is not needed and not wanted, and that there is $35,000 available in the sewer appropriation, why does the commissioner commission a portion of section 32 of the charter, a portion of which reads as follows: "At any time the unexpended balance of any sum appropriated for a specific purpose, and not further required for such purpose, may be transferred to another account by vote of the municipal council, and have that amount transferred to an appropriation for the paying of Westford street? The $35,000 is not required for the purpose of a sewer in Pawtucketville and therefore it would seem to be easily and legally transferred. If the "immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety" warranted the purchase of an automobile, it would seem also to demand the transfer of money to make Westford street, one of Lowell's leading thoroughfares, a safe street.

Handling City's Business

In each municipal campaign much is heard about the city being a great corporation and about the manner in which its affairs should be conducted, the candidates always maintaining that if elected they would conduct the city's business as they would their own private business. But did you ever hear of a corporation, great or small, or a business man, big or little, handling a strike or labor tie-up as the municipal council is handling the present trouble over the teamsters' strike? Despite the seriousness of the matter, there is an amusing feature to the whole affair.

Just as Well On

A well known republican who took an active part in the election of the present administration was heard to remark a few days ago: "I guess we'd been just as well off if we held onto the old government." And after only six months of the new regime, at that.

Fourth of July

Fourth of July has come and gone and everyone was tired but happy. Just before the Fourth the superintendent of police read an ominous warning to the small boy and his big brother about exploding certain kinds of firecrackers, cartridges, etc., etc., under penalty of a strict enforcement of the law. But the big bonfires were held despite the emphatic "No" of the state police and the chief of the fire department; the common had as many wheels, with "the pinch" and without, as last year; there were as many drunken men and more drunken women on the common than last year but the law relative to the small boy and his big brother was rigidly enforced and the eagle gaily screamed: "Equal rights for all; special privileges to none."

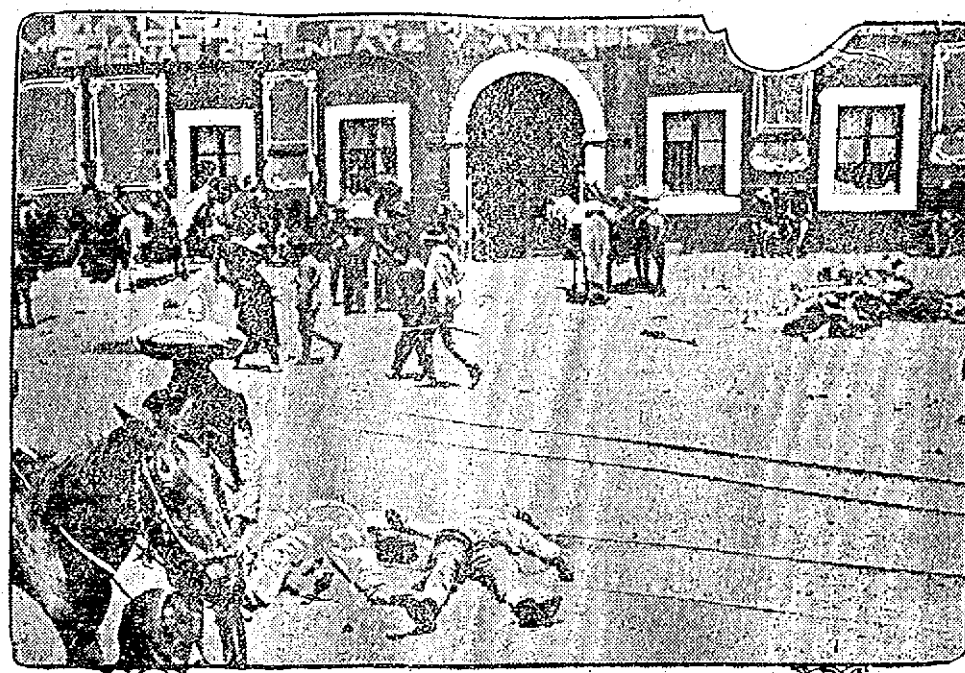

Senator Fisher Out

Hon. Edward Fisher, a democratic senator who has made them sit up and take notice at the state house, announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election in the fall elections. The announcement will be learned with regret at the state house where the Westford senator stood high with men of all parties. The announcement immediately started the political war gossiping as to his political future, for while he may be "laying off" temporarily, he is by no means about to retire from the field permanently, for his constituents wouldn't hear of such a thing. During the past few months Senator Fisher has been asked by men of both parties to be a candidate for congress this fall, but as yet he has not committed himself and probably has not given the matter much thought, for between his legislative duties and his law practice he has been and is still a pretty busy man. When seen by the writer, Senator Fisher said: "I have not given the congressional matter any serious thought up to the present, though I have been asked by men of both parties to be a candidate. I have decided positively, however, not to be a candidate for the senate again."

Everett Initiators

The Boston papers earlier in the week had the following about a recent meeting of the Everett city council: "Councilman Carpenter, who had the floor, became so violent in his reference to the father of the chairman of the school building commission, ex-City Solicitor Nelson Brown, that several other councilmen jumped to their feet and moved that Mr. Carpenter be ejected from the chamber. The latter continued on his feet and tried to drown all voices with his own. Finally a motion for adjournment was made by Councilman John McNeill and carried. After this adjournment, Councilman Carpenter prolonged his remarks and demanded that the school committee, the architects, the school building commission and all other interested persons appear before the next meeting of the common council Thursday evening. If they think it is something new or original to have a member of the city council talk after adjournment they are greatly mistaken for that is an old and a common practice in this city. Wasn't it after adjournment of a meeting of the municipal council that Commissioner Brown prescribed a "punch in the snout" for former Mayor O'Brien? And before the new regime went into office when former Commissioner Barrett was an alderman he and Supt. Thomas of the water department used to entertain before and after adjournment. Huh, guess they've got nothing on Lowell.

PICTURES FROM MEXICO SHOWING SCENES IN ZACATECAS BEFORE SMOKE OF BATTLE CLEARED

1 DEAD IN ONE OF THE STREETS OF ZACATECAS—2 REMOVING DEAD AFTER CAPTURE OF ZACATECAS. PHOTOS COPYRIGHT 1914 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

These pictures are the first to reach the United States from Zacatecas after the recent bloody battle in which the rebels gained an important victory. They were taken while the smoke of battle still hung over parts of the rebel ridden city. Over 5000 were killed in this struggle, and the streets were littered with the dead when the pictures were taken.

"Joe" for Councilor

"Joe" Hubbard has announced his candidacy for councilor. From congressman to councilor is some drop, but "Joe" isn't fussy. He likes the excitement of running for office whether it has a salary attached or not, though this will be his first experience in seeking office where the salary is not. "Joe" has been mentioned for about every office in the neighborhood but that of sheriff and he'll probably tackle that at the proper time. And they say that fat men can't run!

Prosecuting the Intenders

The night clerk at the Merrimack Hotel was hauled into court a few days ago and fined $50 for selling beer after 11 o'clock, on the night before the Fourth. A day or two later the licensee was taken before the license commissioners on complaint of Supt. Welch and a hearing given. At the hearing evidence was given that while the liquor inspectors, Murphy and Rigelow, were present at the hotel the licensee came upon the scene and in their presence asked the night clerk if he hadn't been given orders not to sell after hours and the latter replied affirmatively. Then Supt. Welch who had brought the complaint volunteered the information that conditions had improved at the Merrimack during the past three months and liquor inspector Murphy was called to give "expert" testimony, as it were, and Philip stated that conditions had improved. Thus under the improved conditions it was necessary to prosecute a bartender while during the period of "unimproved" conditions there was evidence of no cause for complaint. The commissioners were so impressed that they considered the case worthy of mature deliberation before making a finding. Just how the license commissioners will decide the case is not known. The proprietor was not taken into court for violating the terms of his license, but the commissioners have no conviction against him, and which to rely in finding against him, while the proprietor claims and his clerk admitted without evidence to the contrary, that the clerk had been given strict orders not to sell after hours. In the celebrated "Spotter Golden" liquor case of long ago, former Mayor Courtney, counsel for the defense, got a favorable decision from the supreme court on the contention that the proprietor was not responsible for the acts of his clerks if they disobeyed his orders in his absence. In the old days of no license it was customary when a place was caught violating the law to haul in the bartender while the proprietor was not molested. In those days such procedure was loudly objected to by the Law and Order league, the ministers and the advocates of no-license. But these are the days of "Equal rights for all; special privileges to none," and hence we hear no objections to the procedure from any source.

Break at Library

One can hardly blame the police for wanting to hush up so daring and bold a break as that which occurred this week at the city library. The thieves appropriating the building through an open lawn in a most conspicuous place and entering a public building at that, especially after the recent statements of the superintendent relative to the city's freedom from crime. This is only additional evidence of the fact as stated last week in this column that the city is no more free from crime than it ever was, except that conditions are being more carefully hidden from the public than heretofore. This morning's Courier-Citizen has the item relative to the break hidden away in a few lines. Had the break occurred a year ago undoubtedly it would have been considered of sufficient importance for editorial comment.

Reorganization of Health Board

Much interest is manifest in the new ed of things relative to the state health department as the result of the passage of the bill to reorganize the state board of health by abolishing the present board and substituting therefor, a state health commissioner with a salary of $10,000 and six assistant commissioners, salary not stated. A bitter fight was put up against the bill by the republicans, and especially by the corporations, the latter endeavoring to save the official head of Mr. Hiram Mills, of this city, of the Lows and Canals company who has been a member of the state board for many years. Even at the 11th hour the opponents of the bill attempted to have it referred to next year's legislature but the attempt was futile. The local democratic members of the legislature voted as a unit for the bill as was proper. The six assistant commissioners according to the new law must be graduates of a medical school and men who have also passed the state board examination for registration in medicine. A clause in the bill prevents the state authorities from overriding the local health officials.

Close of Legislature

The senate and legislature prorogued within a week after a busy session at which much important constructive legislation was passed, largely through democratic influences. Governor Walsh enjoys the distinction of having been sustained in every veto that he sent back to the legislature. It was noticeable that during the year all of the democratic members of the house from Lowell voted as a unit and were recorded on the "right" side of all popular measures. The principal measure of local interest to come before the legislature was the matter of improving the Merrimack river and on this both republicans and democrats from Lowell voted for the measure. On the Fisher-Elis bill so-called; the "Fisher" being Senator Edward Fisher, for the separation of the N. Y. N. H. & H. the local democrats voted for the measure and the republicans against. Reps. Jewett and Achin, the two political pawns in a pot, split on one measure for the first time since they have been running together. That was on the bill relative to state contributions to private institutions. The bill was aimed, it is said, at Catholic institutions, but Rep. Lomasney introduced a sweeping amendment that included the Institute of Technology and in fact every institution in the state was not properly a public institution, and the amendment killed the bill. Rep. Jewett voted in favor of the bill and Rep. Achin against.

The local democratic members voted for the two-platoon fire bill so-called and were roundly criticized in some quarters by persons who did not understand its purpose. The passage of the bill by the legislature by no means made it law, for attached to it was not only the referendum but the initiative as well for the bill provided that in the event of its passage, in any city of 50,000 population or over, if 25 per cent of the registered voters petitioned to have the bill placed upon the ballot at the next city election it should come before the whole body of the voters for final action. Hence it can readily be seen that there was no attempt or intention on the part of those who favored the bill to slip something over on the taxpayers.

The democratic members from Lowell voted for the repeal of the child labor law having seen the bad results of the law as it operates right here in Lowell, where big husky boys who might well be working are roaming the streets because they are slightly under the age of 15 while their mothers are wearing their hands off to support them.

At the last moment the committee on rules of the legislature attempted to slip through a bill limiting the public's right of petition. The bill provided that each senator be limited to 10 bills and each representative to five, and no member could introduce more than this number unless by a four-fifths vote of the committee on rules. This would limit the right of the taxpayers to petition the legislature and the democrats successfully fought it. They threatened to demand a roll-call on it which caused its downfall as many of those who were at first in favor, didn't care to be recorded as supporting such an unpopular measure. Rep. Jewett, a member of the committee on rules favored the measure.

Reps. Jewett and Achin who have had previous experience as members of recess committees were right there in support of two measures for needless recess committees and may be rewarded with appointments thereon. One of these is for a recess committee to consider the matter of charters for cities and draw up blank forms of charters from which cities will be compelled to choose if they desire to change their charters, a measure that seems antagonistic to the principles of home rule. But then it will not amount to anything and some good fellows will get $1000 or thereabouts and expenses for a little work during the warm weather. The second recess committee measure provides for a committee to consider the method of procedure of the legislature. The local democratic members opposed both measures.

Of the Lowell democrats in the legislature Messrs. Brennan, Gilbride and Higgins are first year men and each made a most favorable showing. At this writing it looks as if none of them would have any opposition this fall. Rep. Murphy has had previous experience at the state house and is a familiar and a popular figure there. Rep. Lewis of ward eight is the only republican first year man and he will have no opposition this fall, while Reps. Achin and Jewett would make it a life job if permitted. In the senate, Henry Draper was strong on all labor measures and will be a candidate for re-election. Mr. George P. Green and Hon. John J. McManis are announced as candidates against him and as was stated above, Senator Fisher will not be a candidate.

ANARCHIST FUNDRAISING SCHEDULED FOR TODAY IN NEW YORK, CALLED OFF

NEW YORK, July 11.—Patrolmen in every police station in Manhattan held in readiness today for duty in Union square where the anti-militarist league, the Mother Earth association and anarchists planned to hold a memorial service for the three men killed in a bomb explosion a week ago.

The proposed service was postponed in honor of Arthur Carson, Carl Hansen and Charles Berg, the victims of the bomb explosion, was definitely abandoned last night after Mayor Mitchell announced that no public parade would be tolerated.

The mayor explained that no interference would be offered in the friends of the dead men assembled in orderly fashion to eulogize their dead comrades or criticize the government, so long as no violence was preached.

The decision calling off the parade was displeasing to the members of the organizations. It had been arranged to have the urn containing the ashes of the three victims borne in a hearse at the head of the procession.

One Can Have A Good Time At Table

without the usual cup of coffee, and feel a whole lot better between meals, too—free from that old "off color feeling"—biliousness, indigestion, nervousness and heart flutter.

The secret is

—instead of coffee.

Try the change for a couple of weeks and observe two noticeable things:

You won't miss the old beverage, for Postum tastes much like rare old Java.

Further, there's the brisk, alert feeling,—free from the logyness of a lazy liver and disturbed digestion.

Thousands of people have made the change and know

"THERE'S A REASON"

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—needs no boiling. A teaspoonful of the soluble powder stirred in a cup of hot water makes a delightful beverage instantly. Add cream and sugar to taste. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

Grocers everywhere sell POSTUM.

SHELLS FALL NEAR HOUSES

Hull Residents, Who Narrowly Escaped, Hold an Indignation Meeting and Make Protest

HULL, July 11.—Excitement has been aroused in this town by the dropping of two 15-pound shells at 1:20 yesterday afternoon in the thickly populated section on Allerton hill. Several summer residents barely escaped being struck, and each projectile landed within a few feet of a house. Both shells were fired from Fort Standish on Lovells island by members of the 9th company, Coast Artillery corps.

There is no garrison on Lovells island, only a squad being posted there for sentry duty, and soldiers were sent there yesterday afternoon from Fort Warren to target practice.

At 5 o'clock officers from Fort Warren came to Allerton, had the shells dug out of the ground and carried them to Fort Warren.

For several hours it was not known here from which of the three forts the shells were fired. Before this was determined the board of selectmen sent the following message to the war department at Washington, addressed to the secretary of war:

Two solid shots from heavy guns, fired from harbor forts, struck a densely populated district of this town today. Order cessation all firing at once pending investigation. Population hysterical.

One of the shells struck within a few feet of 18-year-old Julian Besarick, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Besarick, and within 15 yards of the Old Beacon club where a party of women, nearly all summer residents, were playing whist. Some of the women became hysterical, and it was some time before order could be restored in the clubhouse.

The second shot passed over the house of James J. O'Brien, nearly a quarter of a mile away in the Windermere section, and landed near the ocean side at Point Allerton in the yard of the house of J. H. Cannell. It plowed into the ground four feet from the side of the house. Here, too, the occupants were badly frightened.

Last evening, in the Old Beacon club, an indignation meeting was held. The clubhouse was crowded and bitter denunciation by the speakers of officers at the fort were greeted with approval.

Pres. Francis S. Bryant was in the chair and the speakers included Theodore K. Guth, S. N. Bartlett, Elmer E. Gilden and James J. O'Brien. Pres. Bryant said:

"This matter will be carried farther if the war department ignores it. If necessary it will be carried to congress through Massachusetts congressmen and senators. Those at this meeting are intelligent business men, and we are determined not to subordinate ourselves to danger any longer. If necessary we will take the matter up with the state authorities. The entire summer colony has been jeopardized by the lack of proper supervision on the part of officers at the fort."

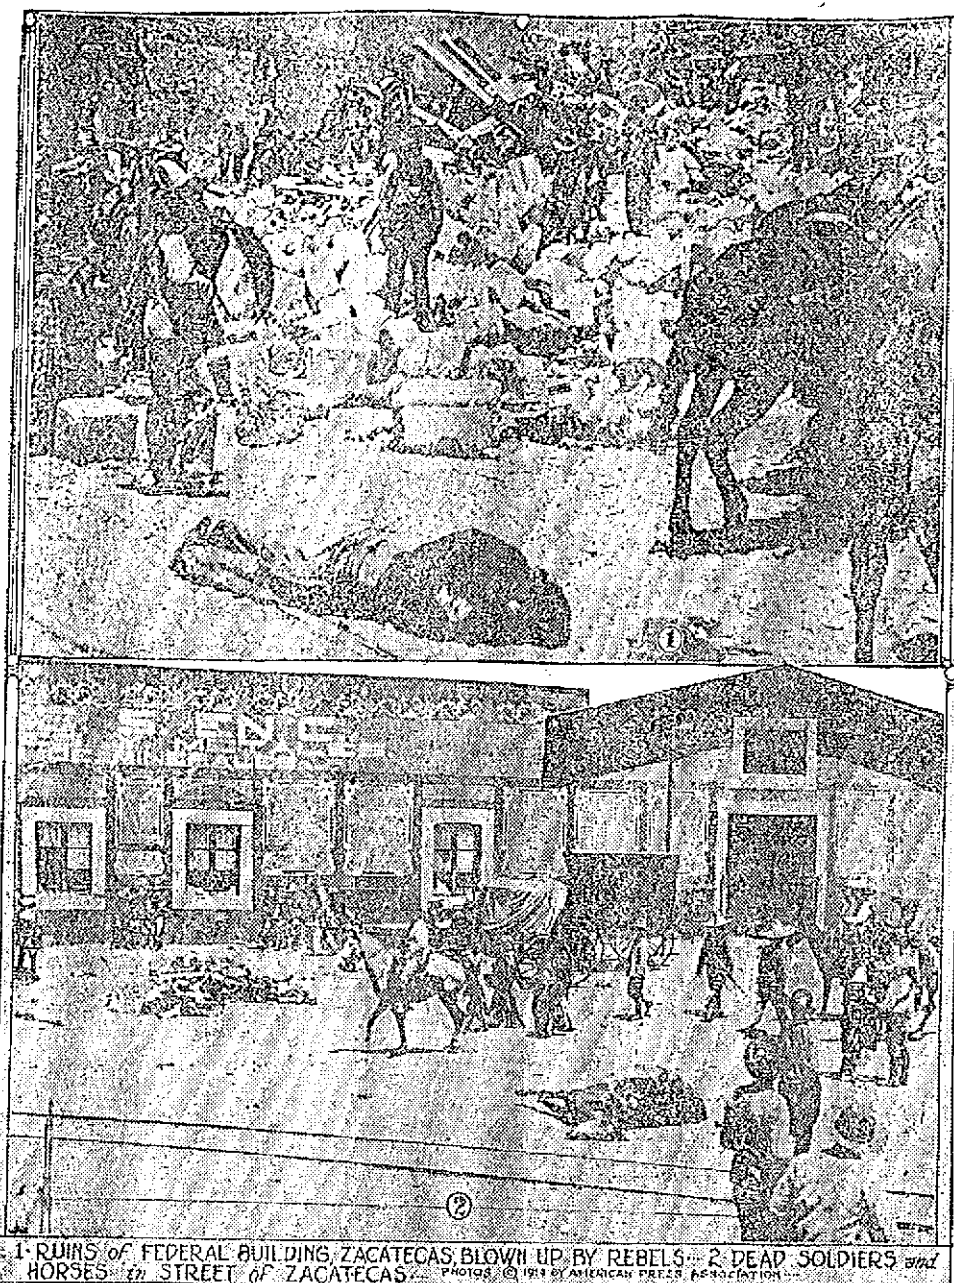

Other speakers declared the incident the result of "abuse of government privilege," and said "the use of high-powered instruments ought not to be in the hands of incompetent men." There is a tendency to place the blame on the shoulders of the officers.

Chief of Police Reynolds said he saw the shells and that they were 15-pound projectiles. At a late hour last night no answer had been received to the message sent to Washington demanding cessation of firing at all harbor forts.

This is the second time that shells fired from harbor forts have landed on Allerton hill. Last August a shell from Fort Andrews struck in Nantasket avenue, nearly hitting an automobile and a passing express wagon. This projectile also fell in the midst of a residential district.

At that time the matter was brought to the attention of the war department, and official promises were given that stringent measures would be taken to prevent such an accident occurring again.

FIRST ACTUAL PICTURES FROM ZACATECAS SHOWING CARNAGE OF THE AWFUL FIGHT

1. RUINS OF FEDERAL BUILDING, ZACATECAS BLOWN UP BY REBELS. 2. DEAD SOLDIERS LIES ON STREET OF ZACATECAS. PHOTO © 1914 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

These pictures are the first authentic ones to pass the Mexican censors and reach the United States from Zacatecas, where the rebels recently won a telling and decisive victory over the federals. They were taken by a war photographer while stray bullets still whizzed in the air, but after the rebels had won. One of them shows dead soldiers and horses in one of the streets. Most of the city was thus strewn with dead, and the gutters ran red with gore. The other shows rebels carting away some of the dead on a small dory drawn by horses. These bodies were carted to big pits on the outskirts and dumped in. Later they were burned.

MRS. BERTHA PEARSON

FOUND IN SHALLOW WATER AT EDGE OF MERRIMACK RIVER—REMOVED TO HOSPITAL

Mrs. Bertha Pearson, a middle-aged woman, was found lying in shallow water of the Merrimack river on the boulevard at midnight and she was hurried to the Lowell hospital, where it is believed she will recover.

Mrs. Pearson in the early part of the evening went for a walk with her daughter along the boulevard. Later she told her daughter to return to her home and that she would follow. The daughter did as told but after reaching home the husband set right out to locate his wife. His efforts were aided by those of Patrolman O'Neil and at midnight the woman was found lying in the water near the shore. The ambulance was summoned in haste and she was sent to the hospital. It is believed that the act was committed during temporary depression of mind for only a short time ago Mrs. Pearson suffered from nervous prostration. She is resting comfortably today.

DANCING ON PUBLIC STREET

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 11.—Dancing on a public street brought to a close last night the third day of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges of America. Grant boulevard, one of the busiest thoroughfares in the Oakland section was cleaned and raved off by the city because the heat made dancing in the hotel ballrooms almost unbearable. More than 2000 persons took part in contests on the unique dancing floor.

The delegates spent the afternoon on a steamboat excursion down the Ohio river.

FIRST UNDER NEW LAW

CONTROL OF AIR AN ISSUE IN THE CASE—OFFENSE UNUSUALLY AGGRAVATED, IT IS CLAIMED

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Yesterday's arrests at San Francisco marked the beginning of the first criminal prosecution under the national defense act of March 3, 1911, for disclosure of military secrets.

In the present instance, department officials pointed out, the publication specifically directed attention to alleged shortcomings of the defense system of the canal.

When the magazine reached Washington from headquarters of the western department, Judge Advocate Crowder decided this was a case warranting prosecution and accordingly the secretary forwarded the papers to the attorney general, who caused the arrests.

The fact that the pictures complained of in this case were taken from an airplane raises for the first time an interesting point of jurisdiction by the national authorities over the upper air, and involves a decision as to whether a person sailing over a reservation can be held to have unlawfully entered it.

THREE PERISH IN WATER

Boy Attempted to Rescue 250 Pound Man and Both Went Down—Woman Also Lost Life

GLoucester, July 11.—The deadly undertow was fatal to three persons at Briar Neck yesterday afternoon. Two others narrowly escaped.

The Drowned:

FRANZ EDWARD JOHNSON, aged 34, shoe cutter, of 55 French avenue, Brockton.

GEORGE HENRY COLLINS, aged 16, son of Timothy S. Collins of 427 Main street, Gloucester.

MISS BESSIE DUFFY, aged 27, a waitress in the home of Charles Scott, Jr. at Bass Rocks.

All were drowned at about 4:15 p. m. the man and boy on the eastern end of Little Good Harbor beach, opposite Fall Island and the woman about three-quarters of a mile away on the western end.

Johnson was a well married man. He was one of a party from Brockton which had been staying for the past 10 days at Good Harbor Beach Inn, his sister Annie being one of them. They were to return to their home in Brockton today.

Yesterday afternoon about half-tide Johnson was fishing from what is known as High Rocks, at Briar Neck. Evidently a severe storm had prevailed at sea for the undertow was particularly strong.

Grouped back of him were the members of his party sitting on the bluff. In this group was Johnson's fiancée, Miss Alice Smith of Boston. Five minutes before they had all been photographed on the rocks together.

Collins' Heroic Fall

The spray dashed high about Johnson, who wore a raincoat for protection. Suddenly a comb higher than the rest swept him from his seat in the maelstrom.

Bernard Bergman of Brockton, one of the party, leaped in to rescue him, but Johnson was swept from the shore and it required all of Bergman's strength to save himself by clinging to a jutting piece of crag against which he fortunately was hurled. Then, his strength partially regained, he dragged himself up the bluff.

At this point, George H. Collins, a lad of 16, appeared, jumped into the sea and swam toward Johnson. None of the party had noticed him before. He reached Johnson, who was kept afloat by his raincoat, and grappled with him.

Rescue of a six-foot, 250-pound man

Then they rowed back to find that Collins, which was located in about three fathoms of water. Lashing a gaff to an oar handle, towed reached down and drew the body to the surface. It was found that his arms had become entangled in Johnson's fishing line.

Inspector Sullivan happened to be near Briar Neck and went to the scene. He sent in a call for physicians, and Dr. W. A. Fuller, who has a cottage at Briar Neck, was soon at work. Dr. Terrey Knowles and Medical Examiner Parker Burnham also responded, as did Rev. Dr. Usher of Tarrytown, N. Y., a resident of Briar Neck.

A City Marshal Marchant took a pulmotor to the scene in an auto, and for a time there seemed to be a chance that Johnson might be saved. But the hope was vain.

Young Collins was accounted by his comrades the most daring swimmer of his age in the city. Yesterday was his 16th birthday.

Second Tragedy of Afternoon

On the western edge of the beach a similar tragedy was being enacted at about the same time. Bessie Duffy, a comely waitress, was bathing with other girls employed in the colony.

Reckless, where last year she learned to swim. She was inclined to take risks, and her friends repeatedly warned her not to be too venturesome.

She swam out a considerable distance yesterday and was soon in the grip of the undertow. Unfortunately the life-guard was off duty, but Anthony Amaral, a young man who was bathing nearby, rushed to her assistance.

He grasped her and directed her to swim toward the shore. She turned her head, but she became dizzy and impeded him so that both were in danger until Amaral by a supreme effort shook her off. He succeeded in getting to land, while the girl sank.

BUSINESS AGENT AGAIN

MR. M. A. LEE RE-ELECTED BY THE LOCAL CARPENTERS' UNION AFTER HOT CONTEST

Mr. Michael A. Lee is again the business agent of the carpenters of this city. The final result was made known this morning and Mr. Lee won different locals. Since taking up the position eight years ago he has been mainly instrumental in elevating the standard of the carpenters of Lowell. At that time the wages paid union carpenters was $2.80 per day and they had to agree with the contractors that time the wages were increased to $3.20 per day, and two years ago the carpenters were paid 45 cents per hour or $3.60 per day. The carpenters now work 14 hours a week. In building up a conservative organization Mr. Lee has been helped not only by the carpenters but by the contractors as well. It is the contention of the members of the Carpenters' union that more rapid strides have been made during Mr. Lee's regime than at any other period in the history of the organization.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL GONE

MISS LEWIS OF MEDFORD AND YOUNG MARRIED MAN ARE MISSING

MEDFORD, July 11.—The mysterious disappearance of Miss Gladys Lewis, 17 years old, a junior at Medford high school, from her home, 74 Marshall street, some time during the night Thursday and the simultaneous disappearance of Arthur B. Jones, aged 21, married, living at 414 Ashmont street, Dorchester, with whom she had been friendly for about three weeks, not knowing that he was married, caused a sensation last evening in this city when it became known.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Lewis, parents of the girl are nearly prostrated with grief over her disappearance and have sought the aid of the police of Medford, Boston, and other cities in locating their daughter. Circumstances have led them to believe that their daughter has run away with Jones.

THE PLAYGROUND WORK

COMMITTEE CONSIDERED PROBLEM OF KEEPING THE CHILDREN INTERESTED TILL 4:30 P. M.

The playground committee of the park commission met with the playground supervisors yesterday afternoon. The oral reports of supervisors showed the work well underway and the attendance very satisfactory. There was some discussion as to keeping the boys interested after 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The afternoon game of baseball finishes at 4 o'clock and when the game is over a majority of the boys skidoo. The four prescribed by the committee for closing is 4:30. The majority of the supervisors seemed to be of the opinion that greater results would be obtained if the half-hour from 4 to 4:30 were added to the morning session at the school

Influence is so strong with the children that they want to go home at 4. The playground committee of the park department suggested that the supervisors devise some means to offset the present difficulty and it is probable that the afternoon session will be ended at 4, the other half hour to be added to the morning session, or in some cases, in the early afternoon.

Of the 15 supervisors, only two, namely Miss White of the Police Street grounds and Miss Frappier of Allen street grounds favor the retention of the present time schedule. Miss White says that she often remains with the children until 5 and 5:30 and sometimes even later, and that she has no trouble in keeping them busy and amused. According to the reports of the other supervisors, conditions are entirely different on most of the playgrounds, and it would seem that better results would be obtained if the sessions end at 4, the extra time to be fitted in through the day.

After the meeting held yesterday Mr. Patrick J. Reynolds was elected as head of the supervisors. Mr. Reynolds is intensely interested in this work and has had splendid results in his former connection with the movement.

From the plans now made and the activity shown on all sides it is apparent that the playgrounds will be a greater boon than ever to the children of the city during the present season.

LOCAL MILK STATION BUSY

Mothers Taught to Prepare Modified Milk—Nurses Visit Sick Children

One does not hear much about the milk station in Dutton street these days but the work of caring for the babies is going along just the same and there are about 200 babies in care of the milk station at the present time. Tuesdays and Fridays are conference days for the mothers whose babies are being cared for. The doctors who give their services gratis, and no doctor has yet refused to serve at the milk station, meet the mothers on Tuesday and Friday afternoons and talk with them concerning the health and care of their babies. Most of the mothers are foreigners but nearly all of them can speak English and if they can't speak it an interpreter is provided for them. They realize that the lives of their babies are involved and pay strict attention to all the doctors have to say. Two doctors serve two months at a time and the doctors serving at the present time are Mrs. Pulsifer and Blanchard.

Miss Hilda Rosell is the head nurse at the milk station and she is assisted by pupil nurses who come one at a time, from the different hospitals, each pupil nurse remaining one month. The clerk at the station is Miss Annie Hurd.

While considerable milk is prepared at the station yet the thing most desired is to have the mothers learn to prepare the milk at home. The nurses visit the babies at their homes once a week and if a baby is seriously ill the nurses make daily visits. Most of the babies come to the milk station poorly nourished, but they soon show signs of improvement, much to the delight of the mothers who look upon the milk station as a real life station.

Lowell is one of the very few cities in Massachusetts where a milk station is kept open the year round. In most cities the milk stations are closed during the winter months. By keeping the station open during the winter the nurses and others interested in the work are able to keep track of the babies and it renders the work more complete. Some of the babies need constant care and unless the mothers have become proficient in the process of modifying the milk they must have outside care and that can come only from the milk station and this is another reason why it serves the purpose best to keep the station open during the winter months.

There are not as many sick babies this summer as were listed last summer and this is due of course to the fact that we have not had any very hot weather this summer; no continued hot weather at least. Milk is being prepared at the milk station for about 35 of the 200 babies that are being cared for by the station and all of the babies, it was stated yesterday, are doing nicely. In each instance a formula is prepared to suit the case or, in other words, the milk is modified to agree with the child. The mothers get the formula for modified milk suitable to children at different ages and soon learn to prepare it themselves.

DROWNING AT SCITUATE, R. I. SCITUATE, R. I., July 11.—Charles McCauley of Rockland, R. I., was drowned in the Clayville reservoir yesterday, when a fishing craft containing him and four other men overturned in the dark. His companions swam to the shore.

DROWNS AT MANCHESTER, N. H. MANCHESTER, N. H., July 11.—Cyril Houde, 14, son of Joseph Houde of West Manchester, was drowned late yesterday just above Kelley's falls in the Piscataquog river, when he fell from a railroad bridge on the North Waro branch of the Boston & Maine railroad.

Young Houde was playing with several other boys. He slipped and fell over the side of the trestle, his companions assert. The body was recovered after two hours' search.

THE NEW SALEM

What has been true of every great fire in this country, with regard to its immediate effect on the community directly interested has been true of Salem where plans have been already made for reconstruction on a better and greater basis. The fire, like a great and vengeful pulitzer, has pointed out the defects that made the city unsanitary, unsafe and ugly, and has brushed aside the petty political pretence that masqueraded under the name of municipal government. Now the cost of inadequate fire protection of hasty building, of unscientific and insecure government has been counted in millions of money and in immeasurable suffering, and the disillusioned citizens are facing the future, filled with the wisdom of bitter experience.

It is well to know that the Salem fire could have been stopped at the outset had the Kora leather factory been provided with sprinklers or had the elevator doors been closed. The authority for this statement is none other than Deputy Neal of the state police who so stated before the New England fire chiefs in Boston. It is not for Lowell to accept this statement merely as such; it is for us to see that no factory in the heart of this city is so poorly equipped as to constitute a menace such as the Salem factory was to the stricken city.

The great mills and other manufacturing plants to which Salem owes its existence were the first to show a rejuvenated spirit and already the black walls of the fire ruins have been levelled and the work of rehabilitation has begun. Until the factories are completed there will be a great deal of real want and suffering, for what is needed even more than modern houses, and wide streets is an opportunity for the thousands of homeless workers to earn a living. This phase of Salem's want must be met by public generosity if at all, and judging by the ready response to the appeals thus far, there is every reason to hope that the entire country will not forget those who have been left homeless and penniless.

Aside from the private enterprises of the industrial leaders and the manufacturers, Salem is making plans which show Lowell and all cities the real trend of scientific and desirable city planning, though because of the fire, the opportunity of putting them in practice in Salem is almost unique. The city engineer has drawn up a code of requirements subject to municipal approval; that his suggestions or similar ones will be approved in the main is a foregone conclusion.

The main object in preparing the new plans has been to arrange for wider streets which will operate against the spread of any fire in the future and which will simplify traffic. Salem, like some sections of this city, was built piecemeal and without any definite plan, and there were veritable lanes where the flames of the great conflagration swept both sides of the street at the same time. With the network of narrow passages, shingled roofs, overlapping and slanted construction of tenements, the fire was inevitable once it had gone beyond control, which was not long in a city of poor water pressure and inadequate fire equipment.

It is apparent that other cities, even though suffering from the same undesirable features as Salem, cannot all at once adopt these or similar regulations, but the principle of them can be ascertained and demanded in some degree. In the matter of combustible roofs, for instance, all cities should at once make stringent regulations to provide against a repetition of the great calamity. At the beginning such regulations may impose some hardship on individual property owners but strict municipal demands will make the city a better place to live in and they will eventually protect those whom they affect at the beginning. What inducement is there for property owners to keep their premises up to modern requirements when next door is a fire trap with wrapping paper walls and shingled roof? At present we have one of these rare times when wide-awake citizens will approve stringent precautions on the part of municipal heads, and the story of Salem is too recent to be easily forgotten. By watching the new Salem that is getting ready to put away her blemishes, Lowell and every similar city of New England will learn what we must do to be a safe beautiful and progressive municipality.

ANOTHER PUBLICITY BILL

By a vote of 133 to 19, the national house has just passed a campaign publicity bill similar in some features to the corrupt practices act passed by the last legislature of this state. The federal laws and the state laws have already provided against this form of political corruption at campaigns, but such laws were honored more in the breach than the observance. The chief feature of the federal measure is a provision to limit the money which a political committee may use for campaign purposes in any state to an amount not exceeding the aggregate contributed to the committee by the actual residents of the state. Candidates for the house and senate would be required, from 10 to 15 days of primaries or elections, to file itemized reports of all things of value received for their campaign. It is not expected that this bill will receive the sanction of the senate without being toned down a little. It surely will not be profoundly admired by men of the type of him whom a distinguished aspirant to office, recently called "the most useful progressive," or by his brother in any party. Parties are finding it harder and harder yearly to get campaign money, and those who would supply it find it harder to give their gift a legal appearance. This is as it ought to be, and may conditions progress materially in the same direction for the next few years!

BURNING UP REFUSE

The Salem-News—which speaks authoritatively on fire hazards at present—is very pointed in outlining the danger of piling loose litter on dumps and allowing it to take fire, with possible consequences of a most serious nature. "The menace of the fire dump," it says, "will hardly need to be emphasized upon reflective people. For all that, it is one of the menaces that are constantly being winked at in many communities." It goes on to state that the great Chelsea fire was occasioned by a neglected blaze on a dump, and urges prudent precautionary steps so that a like danger may be averted in other cities.

All of this can be applied to Lowell for in the past this city was criminally negligent with regard to its disposal of refuse. The Alken dump has become a malodorous memory and the first street dump was a recent menace. Now, however, it seems that Lowell is alive to the danger of carelessness and has made adequate provision for checking any incipient flame in the city dumps. The Salem paper suggests the purchase of iron cages for the burning of paper and dump waste, but this is scarcely necessary here. What is necessary is that the authorities continue to be vigilant with regard to how refuse is dumped and kept under surveillance.

TWELFTH OF JULY

Flashes the news from over seas that the "provisional government" of Ulster has authorized Sir Edward Carson to take any steps he may see fit in opposition to home rule. This could not have been a very difficult proceeding when it is remembered that Mr. Carson is the provisional government. On the eve of the 12th of July celebration which has always provoked animosity between the descendants of those who fought on the banks of an Irish river under the respective banners of an Englishman and a Dutchman, it is to be feared that Orange bigotry may burst out to a flame that only blood will quench. It is now for the Carsonite leaders to show if they have the mastery of the Nationalist leaders, for when the bill passed its earlier stages there was no public celebration in any part of Ireland, the peace-loving leaders, civil and religious, having advised their people to avoid anything that might lead to trouble. Nationalist Ireland does not want civil strife, but, thanks to the Irish Nationalist Volunteers it is ready for any emergency that may be forced upon it.

It will fight against the permanent division of Ireland on religious lines which is the sum total of the amendments proposed by the house of lords.

U. S. ARMY SECRETS

The arrest of an editor, aviator and photographer of the Pacific coast for having betrayed army secrets connected with the fortifications of the Panama canal, reads more like a item of European news than American but it tends to call attention to the great license of this country in all relating to press and public speech. One unfamiliar with our temperamental might be led to believe that the country is ready for revolution by the carters, open accusations against high officials, and the treacherous frankness with which sacred and secret things are discussed in the papers and magazines. Army and navy officials even have been known to reflect on their official superiors when addressing these intimates to the administration. President Wilson has more than once called the attention of the

MODERN FAGIN GANG

The growth of the gang spirit on which The Sun has frequently commented, and its demoralizing effect on its members may be traced all too plainly in the capture of five juvenile burglars, all under 15, by the police of Boston. It is believed that the five boys, with another possible addition, have been responsible for 17 burglaries in Dorchester and some of them have been before the courts for other offences. All belonged to a well known hoodlum gang that had annoyed a section of Dorchester for some time past. The prosaic recital of the crimes with which they are charged as reported by the police, sounds more lurid than a chapter out of Oliver Twist, relating the deeds of Fagin and his juvenile tools of crime.

THE STATE TAX

The Massachusetts state tax, like the Lowell city tax, is rising like mercury in a thermometer in July and the wise ones who look ahead are inclined to predict worse conditions instead of better. The 1914 tax will exceed by three-quarters of a million the tax of last year, which was $8,000,000, and still the ardent humanitarians are proposing far more expensive schemes to be passed on by the next legislature. It seems that each succeeding year brings fresh demands upon the public treasury which overcome all opposition on the plea of public necessity.

There are 11 smallpox cases in the contagious hospital of Marlboro. If there were 11 cases in Lowell, where would we put them?

Congress gives $200,000 to Salem. Good for congress, and for President Wilson, Governor Walsh and all others who have striven for it.

ELWOOD T. BARDES

FREEMONT, N. Y., July 11.—Elwood T. Bardes, an insurance agent, is the most important witness so far in the mysterious murder case of Mrs. William D. Bailey, who was killed by a shot fired through the window of Dr. Edwin Carman's office, where she was a patient at the time. Bardes says he saw a woman, hatless and dressed like Mrs. Carman, who is now under arrest charged with the murder, walking away from the window just after the shot was fired. He was walking in front of the doctor's home at the time. His testimony before the coroner led to Mrs. Carman's arrest.

Everybody who has seen "The House of Temperley" agrees that it is one of the most absorbing motion picture dramas yet put on in this city. Alive with thrilling scenes and closing with one of the best of situations it holds audiences throughout. The background is wholly English, the rustic type, and the interest largely centers about a sporting gentleman who stakes his all on the outcome of a prize fight. The scene is set in the last minute of a young army officer jumps in and whips the bully, incidentally winning the hand of the gentleman's daughter. Admission is 10 cents in the greater part of the theatre, with a few seats reserved at 15 cents. Children five cents.

CANOE LAKE THEATRE
Tonight affords the last opportunity to witness that particularly entertaining program that is being offered by the Honan's Musical Revue at Canoe Lake Park theatre. This week and those who have neglected to enjoy it as yet should take advantage of this final opportunity. The Oxford quartet, who are among the many new ones, offer a series of numbers that will stir the enthusiasm in the most fastidious, their harmony numbers being the best that has been heard hereabouts in many a day.

Barney Williams, a "one-in-a-few" comedian, has caught on quick and fast with the patrons and is already on the road of popularity with all. He's a cyclonic kind of comedian who keeps things going every minute and one seems never to tire of his fun-making. May Wright, a winsome miss, is gathering fresh laurels daily. Besides a particularly handsome appearance and personality, she possesses an excellent voice and is given a number of chances to show her worth in this week's show. Nance Shannon, of course, is just the same big favorite as usual. This was to be expected for with a voice never to tire of his fun-making, else could happen.

Gordon and The Elgin Sisters carry off the honors in dancing and their execution of the Texas Tommy Dance, and the five popular society dances is causing all kinds of comment among the patrons.

For Sunday between the hours of 3 and 10 o'clock the theatre will offer another of those splendid programs which have caused so much favorable comment the past few Sundays. Of course, the bill will include one of the famous productions of the Famous Players of America and that means an excellent show.

CANOE LAKE PARK
There will be a concert by the Lawrence brass band, Reinhardt, Myers, director, on Sunday afternoon, 3 to 5 p. m. The program: Grand Triumphant march, "Aida"; Characteristic, "The Whistler and His Concert Valse, "Fairy Bells"; Overture, "Morning, Noon and Night"; Popular Melody, "B. M. C."; Minstrel, "Dancing Around; You and the Moon and a Ragtime Tune; I Miss You most of All; Your Mother's Gone to Join the Army; I'm Going Just for You; My Orchid is Short of Grand Flowers; International"; "A Celebrated Laugh"; "Narcissus"; Hilarious on "Everybody Works But Father"; Descriptive Fantasy, "A Day at West Point";

BIRD MAY NOT RUN AGAIN
Progressives Expect to Know Today—Party Not Anxious to Defeat Gov. Walsh for Reelection

BOSTON, July 11.—The state committee of the progressive party will meet today, and it is expected that at the meeting Charles Sumner Bird will state whether he will consent to be a candidate for governor next fall.

None of the party leaders is in Mr. Bird's confidence, but most of them are inclined to think that he will decline to head the state ticket again. This belief is based in part on the way in which the call for today's meeting was sent out.

The members of the state committee received an invitation to be present from Mr. Bird himself, and with the invitation was a statement that he would have something important to say at the meeting. The men who know Mr. Bird well think he would not have used that combination of words if he had intended to tell them that he would be a candidate in another campaign; they fear he will ask them to choose some other candidate for governor.

If Mr. Bird says he will not be the party leader next fall, some of the prominent men in the new party will make a determined effort to convince him that it is his duty to head the ticket again. They will urge him to lay aside his own wishes and to give the party the benefit of his prestige, experience and popularity, and they hope that those arguments will persuade him to take up the fight again.

There has been a widespread impression that the progressives were not particularly anxious to defeat Gov. Walsh for re-election; his course has been, on the whole, satisfactory to them, and they are disposed to give him full credit for what he has done. For this reason some of the progressives have suggested that only a perfunctory campaign for the governorship should be made and that the attention of the state organization should be turned chiefly to the congressional districts and the election of members of the next legislature.

But that policy has its dangers. It might bring about the desertion of many voters from the progressive to the republican party, and thus lead not only to a decrease in the progressive vote, but also to the defeat of Gov. Walsh, neither of which results is desired by the progressives. The progressives, therefore, will probably nominate as strong a ticket as they can—from top to bottom.

It is no secret that the progressives look forward with equanimity and even with encouragement to the nomination of Samuel W. McCall as the republican candidate for governor. Nothing, of course, can be said against Mr. McCall personally, and most of the progressives like him, but they believe that his record as a long-time member of "the Old Guard" in congress will lay him open to legitimate political attack, and they are preparing to improve this opportunity.

STATE BOARD SCORES SPEED UP WORK ON IN TEAMSTERS' STRIKE ANTI-TRUST PROGRAM

Succeeds in Getting Teamsters to Yield a Point and Make Alternate Propositions to Dealers —Early Settlement Expected

Senate Committees Determined to Complete the Entire Program by Monday —Results of First Day's Labor Summarized

The striking coal teamsters, through the state board of conciliation and arbitration, have submitted two new propositions to the coal dealers, but the end of the strike is not yet in sight.

In the first of the two propositions offered by the strikers, they agreed to abandon the request for Saturday afternoon off during the year and to demand a nine-hour instead of a ten-hour day the year round. In their second proposition they agreed to eliminate their demand for a nine-hour day at ten-hour wage, and to ask only for Saturday afternoon off, with pay, during the four summer months, with a dollar a week extra to be given the helpers, who now receive $11 weekly. There are about 20 helpers concerned in the strike.

These propositions were submitted to the coal dealers last night by Charles C. Wood of the state board of arbitration, but neither of the propositions was passed upon at the conference between Mr. Wood and the dealers.

Mr. Wood, discussing the matter last night, did not pretend to offer any hope for immediate settlement, but stated that the propositions submitted by the union were the first signs since the beginning of the strike of a desire to end the trouble. It is understood that the dealers were asked if they would not make concessions of as much importance as did the strikers and it is expected that the dealers will give their answer today.

Dealers Buying Auto Trucks

It is an ill wind that blows nobody good. The coal teamsters' strike has made business good for the automobile men as a number of the coal dealers are purchasing auto trucks as a way out of their present difficulty. The chances are, however, that the strike was not directly responsible for the purchase of the trucks, though it may have hastened matters.

The Home Coal Co. and the Stanley Coal and Transportation Co. have used trucks for delivery purposes for some time and they allow that the truck is the proper carrier.

Fred H. Bourke yesterday purchased a three-ton truck, which will take the place of three horses and their drivers. This machine will require two helpers besides the chauffeur.

D. T. Sullivan purchased a five-ton truck a few days ago; Charles Lague has purchased a six-ton truck and the William J. Livingston company has a new two-ton truck.

President Fennell Talks

President Fennell of the Coal Teamsters' union was interviewed by a Sun reporter this morning, and said: "We are in hopes that the strike will be brought to a close today. The teamsters have no wish to further inconvenience the public in prolonging the strike and have done their share toward bringing the matter to a head. It is now up to the dealers. The state board of arbitration and conciliation will be in the city again today and I am holding my committee in readiness to appear before them. Our concessions have been just and fair, and we hope that the public will look favorably on our side of the matter. I can tell you one thing, Mr. Reporter, and that is that the state board was surprised at the conditions that exist here as compared with the conditions of other cities. We have left the whole thing in their hands to settle."

WASHINGTON, July 11.—With considerable progress already made toward perfecting the administration's anti-trust program senate committees were prepared to speed up the work today on these measures. They were determined to complete the entire program by Monday.

The results of the first day's labor of the interstate commerce and the judiciary committees may be summarized as follows:

The interstate commerce committee perfected the inter-state trade commission bill now before the senate by adding two important amendments bearing on the Sherman law, decided not to amend the much discussed section five, in which unfair competition is declared unlawful and took up and considered amendments to the railroad securities bill. The judiciary committee considered the Clayton anti-trust bill, discussed among other sections those relating to interlocking directorates and holding companies and to labor unions and mere numerous tentative changes in the phraseology of the bill.

The interstate commerce committee when it met today expected to complete its amendments to the railroad securities bill by tonight. A suggested amendment would give the interstate commerce commission absolute control over the issuance of railroad securities at all times. The judiciary committee was expected to resume consideration of the sections of the Clayton bill relating to labor unions and some change in the phraseology would probably be made. Both committees hoped to have their reports on the two measures ready by Monday.

Possibility of consolidating all three anti-trust bills with a view to expediting completion of the program was being discussed by senators today.

The two amendments added to the trade commission bill by the interstate commerce committee provide:

That no order of the proposed trade commission for or against a corporation shall be used as evidence in any subsequent prosecution brought against a corporation under the Sherman law.

That nothing in the act to create the trade commission shall be construed as amending the Sherman act, nor in any way affecting the provisions of that act as it stands on the statute books.

The latter amendment was added because of widespread claims that the proposed measure would weaken the Sherman act.

MOTHER JAILED BY SON

12-YEAR-OLD BOY TESTIFIED THAT PARENT RECEIVED GOODS STOLEN BY HIM

BOSTON, July 11.—Twelve-year-old William Holland took the stand in Judge Bennett's session of the police court yesterday and testified against his mother, Margaret Holland of 257 Shawmut avenue. The woman stood in the dock charged with receiving stolen property which the boy admitted he had stolen from a pawnshop and a jewelry store in the South End.

Holland and another boy were later arraigned in the juvenile session of the police court, charged with breaking and entering.

After the boy had told of breaking into the jewelry store of Samuel Ullian, at 113 Washington street and the pawnshop of J. J. Sisson at 8 Dey street and stealing jewelry and other goods worth $102, which he turned over to his mother, Judge Bennett ordered the lad to discontinue his story.

The boys were arrested in Dorchester Thursday night, while attempting to sell bicycles which they were riding. Sergeant Irwin and Patrolman Trafnor of the East Dedham street station were notified, and they arrested the boy's mother.

The officers testified to having found in Mrs. Holland's trunk pawn tickets for the goods which were stolen by the two boys.

The work of the boys resembled greatly that of professional burglars. The little fellows saved iron bars on the rear windows of the two stores, and then cut out panes of glass.

Judge Bennett found Mrs. Holland guilty and sentenced her to six months in the house of correction at Deer Island. She appealed, and was held in $500 bonds for trial in the superior court next month.

National Bureau of Employment

The bill which has been introduced into congress, calling for the establishment of a national bureau of employment will attract a great deal of attention, and is deserving of careful consideration. Whether it will accomplish the purpose sought is quite another matter. According to its author, its intention is to lessen the amount of unemployment in the United States. The central agency of this new concern would be in Washington, and would be augmented by a system of free labor exchanges at important industrial and commercial centers throughout the country. These last named to be in charge of superintendents clothed with authority to cooperate as fully as possible with the state, municipal and private agencies. There would be under the strict supervision of the Federal bureau, which, in turn, would be a part of the department of labor.

TEDDY PELL, OLYMPIC TENNIS PLAYER, MAY MAKE THE DAVIS CUP TEAM

Teddy Pell, who represented America in the tennis tournament at the last Olympic, is looming up as a Davis cup team possibility. Murray's injured shoulder may keep him out of it, and as Karl Behr and Fred Alexander are both on the sick list Pell's chances look good. McLaughlin is the only man sure of a place, although Williams has improved greatly of late and will probably be in first class shape by August.

ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

It is said that Matty Baldwin, providing he defeats Gilbert Gallant next Tuesday night at the Atlas A. A., will be given a bout with Freddie Welsh in England. Baldwin has boxed across the water many times and is well known to British sportsmen. Matty fought three bouts with Owen Moran, winning the first, losing the second, and fighting a draw in the third encounter.

Worcester and Lawrence are now practically tied for the lead. Today's results may change the leadership of the league. At this time last season Pieter's men had a substantial lead on the other clubs. The Lawrence team this year does not appear to be as fragile as was last year's aggregation and if they climb to the top the others will have a hard time displacing them.

Detroit is hot on the trail of the Athletics. The Tigers went after yesterday's contest with a vengeance but the best that the eleven innings produced was an 8-3 tie. With Ty Cobb back in the lineup Hughie Jennings' team will look much more dangerous.

Gunboat Smith is the favorite in the coming of Smith-Carpenter battle next Thursday. The Welsh-Ritchie affair has evidently stirred English fandom to its depths and an immense crowd is expected. The reason for the odds being placed on Smith is his defeat of Langford in Boston. If some of those who are laying wagers on the American had seen the Langford-Smith affair they wouldn't feel so confident. Langford was beaten beyond a doubt but he was in no condition to fight.

Dukette, the Brown university player, who filled in during Burke's absence, left town yesterday for Providence. He is a good ball player and should not have much trouble in picking up a job.

Mechanical errors are bound to occur on any ball club and the greatest exposure of the game slip up occurred yesterday. In the third inning of yesterday's contest Ring was on second and Dee on first when Bruggy was guilty of a past ball. Ring made third on the Lawrence catcher's miscalculation but Dee never stirred off first. Shortly was too busy talking to the coach on the lines to pay attention to the game. Such a culpable offence as this should not be looked over by a club's manager. If a player isn't awake on the paths he shouldn't be drawing down pay from a club.

The Lowell team certainly plays the game like a group of veterans. There isn't a first ball hitter on the club. They are waiting on the pitcher on every time at bat. The only time when it is good baseball to hit the first of a series is when a batter is up a pinch. Then go to it, boys, and slam it as far as you like. Waiting until the pitcher is one of the first rudiments of the game up in the big show.

Next Thursday afternoon Bill Carrigan and Helene Wagner will take a trip out to Spalding park and look over Jimmy Gray's boys. The three who are being thought the most about are Burke, Ring and Lohman. "Pete" Waco's name has also been mentioned quite frequently by the big leaguers who have seen the locals in action.

COBB IS LEADER Of American League Batters—Burns Heads National—Averages

NEW YORK, July 11.—Burns of Philadelphia leads the National league batters with an average of .364, according to figures published here today. Next come Hummel, Brooklyn, .345; Grant, New York, .337; Dalton, Brooklyn, .334; Becker, Philadelphia, .331; Hyatt, Philadelphia, .321 and Devore, Boston, .317. In club batting New York leads with .267 and Brooklyn is next with .256. With 29 thefts Ty Cobb leads the American league, though he is out of the game. Next are C. Walker, St. Louis, .340; Baker, Philadelphia, .332; Jackson, Cleveland, .323; Crawford, Detroit, .319; F. Collins, Philadelphia, .316; Covelanki, Detroit, .311, and Speaker, Boston, .295. Philadelphia and Detroit lead the clubs with .250 and .245. Maisei of New York, with 23, leads in stolen bases. Leonard of Boston, with 11 won and 3 lost leads the regular pitchers and Bender of Philadelphia with 7 and 2 is next.

Kritcheff, Toronto, with .400 tops the International league batters. Then come Cren, Baltimore, also with the Yankees, .357; Walsh, Rochester, .340; Whitman, Montreal, .332; McIntyre, Providence, .317 and Platte, Providence, .316. Batters with .270 and Providence with .265 lead in club batting. In stolen bases J. Priest, Rochester, is ahead with 21. Bentley, Providence, and Wagner, Toronto, with four and one each lead the pitchers.

LOWELL BLANKED

Game Lost Through Errors and Inability to Hit Thompson

For the eighth time this season, the two teams have played but nine games. Lowell went down before the bat swingers of Louis Pieter yesterday afternoon at Riverside Park by the score of 4-0. Errors at critical points and inability to hit Thompson when his mean runs were the two things that spelled disaster for the locals.

Yesterday's defeat was all the more discouraging from the fact that several hundred Lowell fans accompanied the team down river. The better team won, however, for Lawrence's play was superior ball all the way through.

Thompson was on the mound for Pieter's men and Ring, Lowell's great youngster, faced the Lawrence batters. Both Thompson and Ring pitched good ball but the southpaw had the edge on him. Thompson was in a hole, on several occasions and pitched himself out of it in fine style. Ring, with good support, would have given Lawrence a pretty battle.

The Lowell team looked very bad at times yesterday and did not play with the cohesive force which goes to make up a pennant winning aggregation. While Lawrence was after the contest every minute of the game. Stimpson connected for two of Lowell's four hits and played a great game in left field. The score:

offered from the infield it certainly involves upon Burke to give it and let the other infielder to keep quiet. It is about time that this fact became apparent to everyone concerned in the success of the local team. There have been several mistakes made this season for the same reason that Thompson hit, which resulted in the first run of the game. Either let Burke disperse with the advice or get another captain. However, on past experiences we think that Burke is the right man in the right place and little attention to what he has to say on matters relative to the team while on the field will be highly profitable to everybody concerned.

WHO IS CAPTAIN?

Lowell Club Would be Better Off if Field Advice Was Left to Burke

Here's something that ought to be corrected on the Lowell club at once—there's too much advice offered when a fly ball is hit which one of several players can reach, and on other occasions when a choice is necessary.

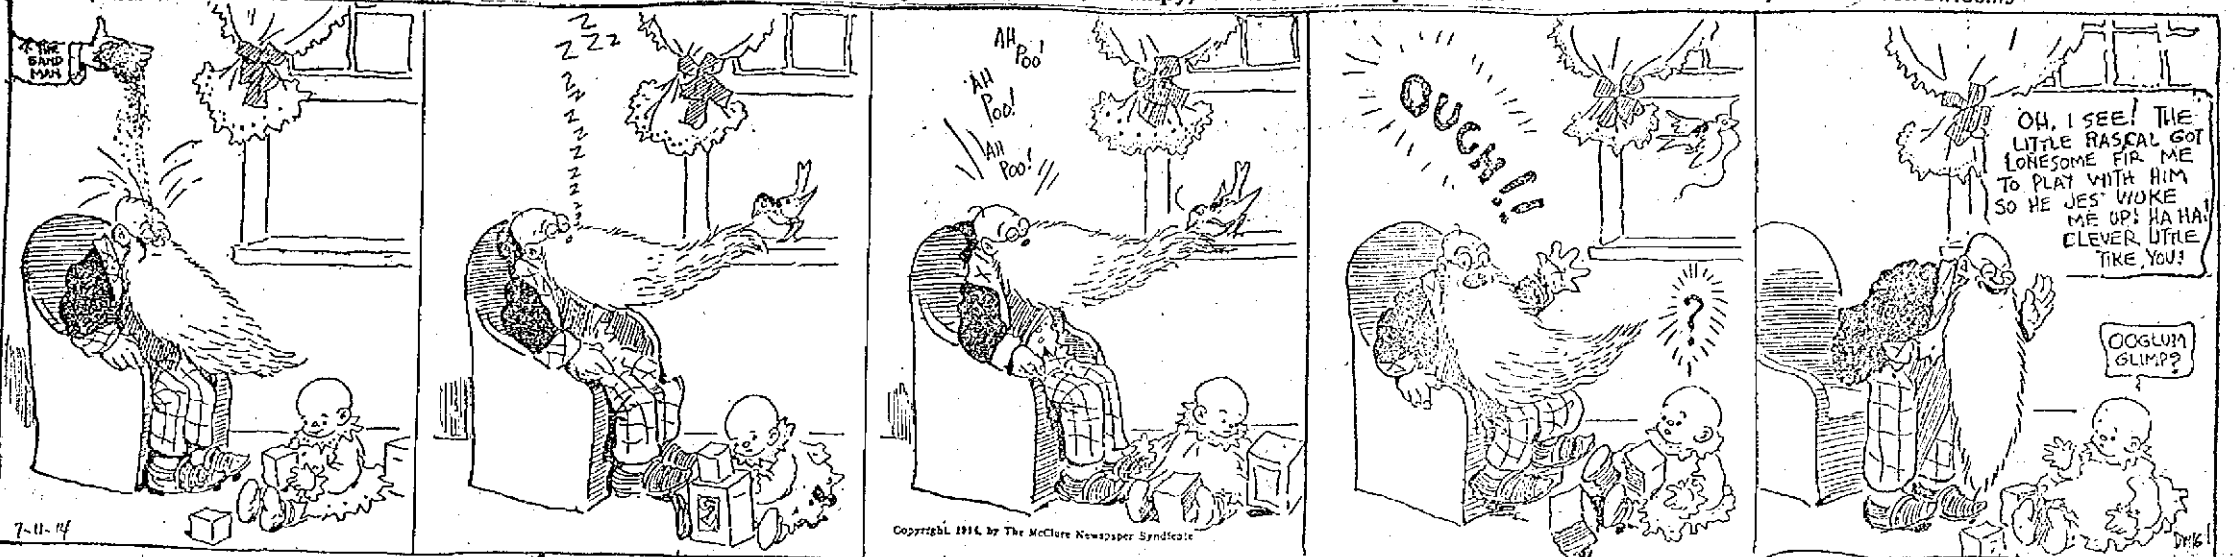

We had a good example of this yesterday. Thompson sent a fly to right center and Mathews and DeGoff both started for the ball. Dee shouted out for DeGoff to take the ball and Matty showed up. The Rubs did not get over for it and Mathews consequently started too late to reach it.

Burke is captain of the Lowell ball club and is in a position to take in every play unless it is a long fly to the outfield. If there is any advice to be

SMALL BUILDING JOBS

Great Activity Throughout City—Real Estate Business Active—Transactions for the Week

A prominent local real estate man is organizing a realty company among business men of this city and Boston and it is believed that the new organization will be doing business in Lowell within a short time. The company was well organized some time ago and it applied to the secretary of state for a charter, but unfortunately there is another company now working in the commonwealth under the name selected by the new organization and for this reason the charter was not granted. However, new arrangements are being made and within a short time another request will be sent to Boston for a charter and if this attempt proves successful the company will be in operation shortly afterward.

This will be the third organization of its kind in this city. The other two are the Modern Investment Co. and the Federal Association, both being composed of twenty-five members. The Modern Investment Co. was organized about two years ago and a few months ago it purchased a large tract of real estate in the Westford street district and the company is now in a very prosperous condition. The other, the Federal Association, was organized sixteen months ago and is composed of residents of West Centralville. It has a substantial sum in the treasury and at its last meeting a committee was appointed to look into real bargains in the real estate line and it is probable that within a few weeks the organization will own several pieces of property, for it is said that already it has an option on a beautiful parcel of land with tenement houses. The committee on investment is composed of Messrs. Charles Leguin, Edmund Traversy and Charles E. Bourne.

A large real estate transaction was effected a short time ago when the Xenos Specialty Co. purchased a tract of 21,000 feet of land in Fernald and Smith streets with two wooden buildings, one a two-story affair 26 feet by 35 feet, and the other a one-story structure 30 by 60 feet. The latter is now being occupied by the company. Mr. Hogue.

The general contract and sub-contracts for the erection of the brick and cement building in Gorham street which will be occupied by Henry Carr have been given and work on demolishing the old structure has been started. The new building will be the property of Walter Colson of Lawrence, but Mr. Carr has taken a 20-year lease on the entire structure. The building will be one story in height and the dimensions will be 127 by 67 feet and will be located at 100-102 Gorham street. The approximate cost of the building will be about $15,000. One end of the building will be converted into a lunch room to be occupied by Henry Summers, while the other part will be occupied by Henry Carr, who will install 11 bowling alleys and 15 pool and billiard tables.

Work in demolishing the old structure is progressing rapidly and the contractors expect to get busy within a short time. Mr. Carr expects to open the building by Sept. 1. The general contract has been given to E. A. Douglass, while the sub-contracts were awarded as follows: Brick work, Archie Perron; plumbing, George Roache; foundation, A. Filato.

St. Jean Baptiste Church
John Grady of M. J. Grady & Son, stucco workers of Boston, who are doing the stucco work at St. Jean Baptiste church, informed the writer yesterday that by the latter part of next week the stucco work will be practically finished and the painters will then get busy. This particular work in the reconstruction of the temple is really artistic and is well worth inspection. The designs, which by the way were made right on the spot by Mr. Grady, are handsome and very attractive and the entire job is really a credit to the personnel of this company. The walls and ceiling as well as the borders of the two balconies are finished and all that remains to be done is a part of the sanctuary and a touch here and there. The stucco work will cost approximately $25,000. The electrical work which is being done by L. A. Derby is also advancing rapidly and practically all the wiring is completed. The large switch board in the sanctuary is set in and there remains but a few days' work to finish the job with the exception of the installing of the fixtures, which will be done at a later date.

The carpenters under the supervision of William Draper are hustling on the finishing of the interior and several door sashes have already been put in. The men are now at work on rebuilding the main entrance in Merrimack street, while other workmen are putting in the stained windows. At the rate that the work is being pushed along it is possible that the dedication of the church will take place some time in December.

Work on the three-story brick building on Dionysios A. Sakelarios at the corner of Warden and Market streets is progressing, and the construction of the new building demonstrates the fact that the Greeks are a progressive class of people, and strange as it may be, it is a fact that no other workmen but Greeks are employed on this job. The building will contain six tenements and three stores and the brick work is now passed the second story.

Thomas Gray is building a piazza at his home, 84 Billerica street. James S. Turner has started work on changing over a cottage into a two-tenement house at 34 Stevens street. A rear entrance will be made and a separate entrance will be constructed in the front of the building.

A. W. Haines is having a poultry house constructed at the rear of his home, 15 Upham street. A new piazza is being built at the home of Emma Pearson, 71 Bowden street, and a roof to the piazza will be constructed.

Freda Mayotte is changing the location of her kitchen at his property at 123 Suffolk street. Two small rooms will be converted into a kitchen and the old kitchen will be used for a chamber.

The property owned by the Ellen Hennessy estate at 458 Market street, will contain another tenement for the upper story, it being converted into a four-room flat. General repairs are also being made throughout the house.

A. W. Dows & Co. druggists at the corner of Central and Merrimack streets will occupy their new quarters in the Russell building at 11 Bridge street on or about Sept. 1 and a gang of men will soon be put to work on making changes about the place which was formerly occupied by the Caswell and Smith store front will be made modern and alterations in the interior of the store will be made.

Walter S. Coburn has made plans for the construction of a residence at 75 Fairmount street. The building will contain seven rooms with bath, both front and rear, and will be converted into a four-room flat. General repairs are also being made throughout the house.

Peter Leclair is building a piazza at his home, 53 Sutherland street. Mary R. MAYOR HURLEY HERE VISITS CITY HALL

Gets a Cordial Reception From Mayor Murphy and Other Commissioners—Mr. Donnelly Dons the Hat His Father Wore—Party Goes in Auto to Cricket Grounds

Mayor John F. Hurley, Salem's chief executive, rode up Merrimack street shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon in the tonneau of a huge touring car on his way to city hall looking just as hale and hearty as when he first attracted attention by his tall hat as mayor of Salem. In fact, no one would ever have suspected Mayor Hurley's three score and ten from the brisk tilt whenever he was recognized and greeted.

The famous public character of the Witch City was dressed in the same frock coat and tilt hat which distinguished him during Salem's recent awful conflagration. The knowledge that Mayor Hurley would be at city hall early this afternoon attracted quite a crowd about Monument square who tendered him a great reception as he was whirled by to the entrance of the building. A doffing of the tall hat and a quick smile from Mayor Hurley was the result.

Mayor Hurley came here today in response to a request from the U. S. Bunting club that he attend the "tall hat" cricket game scheduled for today at Bunting park, the receipts of which are to be turned over to the Salem sufferers. Mayor Hurley replied without delay that he would be glad to be present and hence his appearance this afternoon.

The Salem executive was given an informal reception at city hall by Mayor Murphy and the commissioners, several of whom he had met on previous occasions, and was shown through the most interesting parts of the building.

Mayor Hurley was accompanied by other Salem city officials including Charles H. Danforth, director of finance; Patrick J. Kelley, director of public works; Wallace L. Gifford, director of public property; Charles M. Meece and the chauffeur, Patrick F. O'Hara.

Immediately upon his arrival at city hall Salem's celebrated chief executive was met by a topnotcher on his list of Lowell friends, City Messenger Owen Monahan. Owen escorted Mayor Hurley and his party to Mayor Murphy's office and everybody in the hall wanted to have a peak at the famous mayor with the famous hat. The tilt showed the effects of the fire, but it is still in condition for service.

In Mayor Murphy's office, Mayor Hurley and his party were met by

STORSTAD BLAMED FOR WRECK OF EMPRESS IN WHICH 1000 PERISHED

Wreck Commission Holds Disaster Was Due to Storstad's Change of Course Ordered by Third Officer Without Instructions From the First Officer Who Was in Charge of Collier at Time of Collision

QUEBEC, July 11.—The collier Storstad is held to blame for the Empress of Ireland disaster in the findings of the wreck commission, handed down today. The commission holds that the disaster was due to the Storstad's change of course ordered by the third officer without instructions from the first officer who was in charge of the collier at the time. The Empress was sunk in the St Lawrence on May 29 with a loss of more than 1000 lives.

Wrong and Negligent

The collier's third officer found responsible is Alfred Tuffeneau. He was officer in charge of the deck at the time of the catastrophe.

"Mr. Tuffeneau," says the finding, "was wrong and negligent in allowing his course in the fog as he undoubtedly did and he was wrong and negligent in keeping the navigation of the vessel in his own hands and in failing to call the captain when he saw the fog coming on."

"It is not to be supposed that this disaster was in any way attributable to any special characteristics of the St. Lawrence waterway. It was a disaster which might have occurred in the Thames, in the Clyde, in the Mersey or elsewhere in similar circumstances."

"Such is the conclusion at which we have arrived on the question as to who was to blame for the disaster. The question of much greater importance remains to be considered; why the ship sank so quickly and what steps, if any, can be taken to prevent the terrible consequences which so often follow such disasters."

"The main difference between the two stories of the officers of the Empress and the Storstad respectively, is to be found in the description of the way in which the two vessels were approaching each other at the time the Empress of Ireland changed her course."

ARRESTED IN THIS CITY DOUBLE FUNERAL

LYNN MAN HELD ON CHARGE OF RECEIVING MONEY STOLEN IN LOWELL

Peter P. Leesburt, real estate, insurance and interpreter, with offices at 597 Summer street, Lynn, was arrested in this city today for the Lynn authorities, charged with receiving stolen money from Joseph Keris of this city, who was apprehended by Lynn police last Monday, on a warrant charging him with the larceny of $500 from one John Shoben of 14 Auburn street, Lowell, where Keris had been stopping for some time.

It seems that Keris, who admitted his guilt in police court this morning, after committing the theft, went to Haverhill, where he purchased a gold watch and chain as well as a lot of new clothes, and later went to Lynn, where he claims, according to the police, he met Peter P. Leesburt and asked the latter to take care of him (Keris) for a few days, or until the steamship sailed for the old country, for he had purchased a steamship ticket for Europe. It is alleged that Keris gave Leesburt $10 for his troubles and the latter found shelter for Keris in a shed in the rear of his house. This was on Monday and later in the afternoon Keris claims he gave Leesburt $550, the said money to be mailed to him after he reached Europe.

The case is quite complicated.

The Bodies of Oliver St. Onge and Daughter Laid at Rest

A double funeral took place in this city this afternoon, when the bodies of Oliver St. Onge, aged 33 years, and that of his daughter, Mrs. Rosanna Archambault, aged 37 years, both of Peabody were laid at rest side by side in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Mr. St. Onge passed away on Monday and arrangements were made to hold the funeral in this city yesterday, but just as the party was about to leave with the body, a daughter of deceased, Mrs. Rosanna Archambault died suddenly. Accordingly the funeral of the father was postponed until today when both bodies were brought to Lowell. Undertaker Amos Archambault who had charge of the funeral arrangements received the bodies at the Northern station this afternoon and the funeral procession which consisted of two hearse and several carriages wended its way to the cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Armand Baron, O. M. I.

LOWELL'S STATE TAX WILL RAISE TAX RATE

State and County Taxes This Year Heavier Than Last — Civil Service Board Inquires About Recent Appointments — 500 Unlicensed Dogs in Lowell

Lowell's tax rate for 1914 reckoned on the basis of the valuation for 1913 would be $22.65, an increase of $3.25 over last year, but it is believed that the increase in valuation for the present year will bring the rate down to about $22.20, an increase of $2.80 over the present rate of $19.40. It was stated today that the increase in valuation for the present year would be substantially $2,500,000.

Lowell's state tax for 1914 shows an increase of over $14,000 and the same is true of the county tax. There is also a considerable increase in the state grade crossing tax. The story is told in the following statement submitted, this forenoon, to the commissioner of finance:

Assessors' Office, Lowell, Mass., July 11, 1914.
Hon. George H. Brown, Commissioner of Finance, Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir: The several warrants for taxes due the state were received this a. m. and we respectfully report the same as follows:
State tax	$170,800.00
State highway tax	352.54
State grade crossing tax	8,447.26
State auditing of municipal accounts	4,582.25
We also submit:
County tax	93,665.59
City appropriations	1,662,000.00
Increase over that of 1913	$282,621.53

On the basis of the valuation of the year 1913, these increased figures would indicate an increase in the rate equal to $3.25 per $1000 of valuation. This may be affected, somewhat, by whatever the board may be able to show as an increase in valuation. We have no warrant, as yet, for the Lowell Textile school tax, though we assume it to be the same as in 1913, namely, $9000.

Respectfully submitted,
Board of Assessors.
By Wm. J. Reardon, Secretary.

SHOT HERSELF THROUGH HEART

PORTLAND, Me., July 11.—Leaving her bed early this morning and going to another room, Mrs. George Polts, 35, a resident of the "Kansas district," shot herself through the heart with a 22 calibre revolver, death being instantaneous. She leaves a husband and two sons. Ill health is believed to have been the cause of the act.

HOLY NAME BRANCHES

OF ST. PATRICK'S AND SACRED HEART CHURCHES TO RECEIVE COMMUNION TOMORROW

Two branches of the Holy Name society of this city, viz.: those of St. Patrick's and the Sacred Heart churches will receive communion tomorrow in a body at their respective parishes, and great crowds are anticipated at both services, because it has been announced that following the communion preliminary preparations will be made to organize the local branches for the great October parade to be held in Boston in October.

The men of St. Patrick's Holy Name society will receive communion at the 7 o'clock mass which will be celebrated by Monsignor O'Brien. A social will then be held in the school hall, followed by a business meeting. The Sacred Heart branch will receive communion in mass at the 7:30 o'clock mass, repelling afterwards to the school hall where breakfast will be served. After breakfast a social will be enjoyed and the morning's exercises will be brought to a close by a business meeting at which plans for organizing the Sacred Heart branch for the great October parade will be discussed. At the last great parade held a few years ago, New England wondered at the growth of this splendid society and it is now planned to make even a better showing next October.

At St. Peter's Church
Tomorrow will be the regular quarterly communion day of the members of St. Peter's Holy Name society and, as usual, a record-breaking crowd of men is expected to assemble for the occasion. The members will attend the 7:30 o'clock mass, the Holy Name choir rendering a special musical program during the mass. On account of the warm weather it has been deemed advisable to hold the breakfast at Lincoln hall as has been the program in the past. The monthly religious meetings have also been dispensed with during July and August. For the big Holy Name parade in the fall the society is working on plans for his turn-out of members. As yet, however, the plans are rather tentative, but just as soon as the cool weather sets in the members will be advised as to the arrangements and efforts put forth for a banner attendance, for St. Peter's society hopes to have the largest number in line of any society in the Lowell division.

THE FLYING SQUADRON

REPRESENTATIVE TO BE AT FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH TOMORROW AT 10:30 O'CLOCK

Mr. Oliver W. Stewart, of Chicago, who is to speak at the First Congregational church on Sunday at 10:30 o'clock is a representative of the Flying Squadron of America which is to be in this city in the fall.

The Flying Squadron is made up of men from all parts of the United States who believe in making the liquor problem a national issue.

Many of the greatest religious bodies of America have expressed themselves for national prohibition as the solution for the great evil and less which the drinking of liquor produces. It was for the purpose of crystallizing this sentiment and bringing it to unified action that the Flying Squadron came into existence. The members of the Flying Squadron are men of political party, society, league, union, sect or organization, but it is to be managed by its own members. They expect to spend three days in each of one hundred and fifty cities with the best temperance speakers in America, with special soloists and piano music at each meeting. Mr. Oliver W. Stewart is to be here tomorrow as advance representative of the work that is to follow later in the year. He is a man of great ability as a speaker and organizer, and will entertain as well as instruct his audience. The speakers who come later are very able speakers.

BAD OPERATION AVOIDED

By Timely Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Sowers' Own Statement.
Hodgdon, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Hodgdon, Maine.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to any of the women who have written to our editorial letters; we are constantly publishing. They will tell you their experience and give you confidence to try the medicine.

Many Dog Licenses Unpaid
If you haven't paid Towser's License you'd better get a move on unless you want the poor old fellow despatched to the happy hunting ground. Mayor Murphy received a statement from the city clerk's office this morning to the effect that there are 500 dog owners in Lowell who have failed to license their dogs. Licenses have been collected on 1450 canines and that makes Lowell's total number of dogs, 1550.

The mayor, under the law, must cause to be killed all unlicensed dogs. He is governed in his action by the revised laws.

Contract For New Bandstand
The contract for the new bandstand on the South common has been awarded to Daniel H. Walker. Mr. Walker bid $1200 and Charles P. Conant bid $2228. They were the only bidders. There is only $1827.50 available for the construction of the bandstand, as that is the total of the amount remaining out of the original appropriation which was something over $2000. Mr. Walker says he will be able to reduce his price $50. The specifications called for stucco columns and he bid on something more expensive and he can cut his bid $50 on that account. There will then remain the sum of $2250 over and above the amount available and the $22.50 will have to be transferred from some other fund.

Brown Tails Are in Flight

LET EVERYBODY'S MOTTO BE "SAFETY FIRST"

The Chamber of Commerce has embarked upon a campaign which can lead to the conquest of a great evil which stalks among us, mercilessly levying tribute upon life and limb and property.

The Chamber of Commerce has declared war against the habit of carelessness in the conduct of our persons in the midst of dangerous instrumentalities of a modern metropolis. Four hundred and twenty-six accidents on the streets of New York recently, occasioning 173 deaths, were analyzed. It was found that about 90 per cent. of these accidents were due to carelessness on the part of the public, either of the person injured or of someone else.

Last year more than 90,000 persons were killed or injured in Massachusetts alone through industrial accidents. This is more than are hurt in most wars. Of this number, 45,000 need not have been hurt if most had not been careless.

Now, consider that these 45,000 people who were needlessly injured were all hurt in a single year, and that this tribute to human carelessness goes on in like proportions year after year. In ten years, at this rate, almost half a million people are hurt in Massachusetts alone who ought not to have been hurt.

If we will all co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce we shall be able to reduce the danger of these accidents both to ourselves and to others.

Do you realize, readers, that 90,000 accidents in Massachusetts a year means an accident to every 32 people? Do you realize the danger in which you stand today with accidents, when one in every 32 of the people of Massachusetts is being injured every year? If you were taken out into a field with 31 other people and told in the course of a day that unless you were exceedingly careful one of you would be injured, don't you think that YOU WOULD BE EXCEEDINGLY CAREFUL? That is just your situation today. You are running that danger through your own carelessness and the carelessness of those who come in contact with you every year.

If every man does his part to establish a more careful habit, the splendid campaign which the Boston Chamber of Commerce has inaugurated will be successful, and we shall cease to be in the great danger which now confronts the people who are a part and parcel of our very tense and impatient modern American civilization.

Let us get the habit—of carefulness.

BOSTON AMERICAN, July 3, 1914.

Read the above carefully and then consider it with equal care. You may be one of the 90,000 during the coming year. One never can tell.

SAFETY FIRST! Carry an accident policy through the agency of T. C. Lee & Co. with offices in the Harrington Building, 52 Central Street.

TO DISCUSS INDICTMENT—COURT ALLOWS MOTION FOR EXPERTS

BOSTON, July 11.—Judge Keating of the superior court has denied the motion of Lawrence Robinson that the indictment recently returned charging him with having caused the death of Inspector Thomas J. Norton be quashed. The court has allowed his motion for a medical expert and an expert on firearms, and has allowed him $100 for the former and $25 for the latter.

Counsel for Robinson filed a motion on his behalf to quash the indictment because it was claimed the description of Robinson by aliases had no relation to the crime charged and was apparently introduced with the sole purpose of showing that the defendant was a notorious criminal, or that he had committed offenses other than that charged at divers times and places; and because the allegation of aliases could be proved by evidence.

LEFT HAND INJURED

Walter Sutton, a young man residing at 476 Merrimack street, sustained a severe injury to his left hand shortly before noon today while at work on a cutting machine in the Tremont & Suffolk mills. The ambulance was called and he was removed to the cause the allegation of aliases could be proved by evidence.

WAR'S GRIM TOLL—A STRONG PICTURE!

IT SHOWS A DEATH PIT AT ZACATECAS

THROWING DEAD BODIES INTO PIT AFTER BATTLE OF ZACATECAS

This is a remarkable picture. It is gruesome and horrible, but it is real, and war is not pleasant. It was taken by a special war photographer at Zacatecas, Mexico, just after the recent bloody battle in which over 5000 were killed. It shows a pit of death. Rebels are dumping bodies of the victims into the hole without ceremony. Dozens of bodies are already in the pit, and two or three bodies are sliding down. The men at the brink of the hole are preparing to cast others into this horrible open grave. Later these bodies are burned.

THE SPELLBINDER

While the preservation of the public peace, health and safety required the immediate purchase of an automobile and chauffeur for Commissioner Morse of the street department which was used for the first time to convey some of the commissioners on their recent trip to Springfield, Chief Saunders, of the fire department continues to dash through the streets in response to alarms in an auto that threatens to fall apart at any time and which is certainly no machine for the chief of the fire department to operate. The difference is this: In the case of the auto for the street department everybody was agreed upon the make of the machine—the Jeffrey—and hence the emergency clause, that got the purchase through before anyone would have time to change his mind. But in the case of the chief's auto there is a difference of opinion as to what kind of a machine is to be purchased and hence as Chief Saunders would remark, "Well, with public peace, health and safety." Chief Saunders would have had a machine some time ago and he simply requested that an auto be purchased for his use. But he specified the kind of make, reminding that other machines had friends at court, while the Jeffrey had the power to carry charges. If City Solicitor Hennessey is not a man who will back down easily and the mere fact that someone higher up wants him to accept a machine for which he has no particular preference, will not be sufficient reason for him to abandon his quest. Meanwhile, if you hear or see the chief coming along en route to a fire get as far in on the sidewalk as possible lest some of the flying pieces hit you.

Hennessey for Counsel

The charges against Supt. Putnam have not been brought about by the municipal council, but by Commissioner Morse as an individual commissioner. Hennessey, the city solicitor, is going to be tried to the extraordinary spectacle of the city solicitor, the city's paid counsel, appearing as the prosecuting attorney in the case, a fact that may affect the legality of the hearing. The city solicitor is counsel for the city in this case should appear simply in the interest and for the protection of the municipal council as a whole, to see that it carries out its deliberations in a manner that will free it from the possibility of a come-back from the much abused council. If City Solicitor Hennessey is going to appear as counsel for Commissioner Morse in the case, to whom are the members of the municipal council to look for advice as the hearing progresses; certainly not to counsel on either side.

Finch Westford Street

"Can you finish Westford street?" was asked of Commissioner Morse by a newspaper man a day or two ago. "How can I, short $60,000 paving blocks?" responded the commissioner. "Buy the blocks," was suggested. "But I haven't enough money to buy what I need," said the commissioner. Only a short time ago Commissioner Morse proposed to build a sewer in Pawtucketville at a cost of $20,000 and when not permitted to do so by the council, he had the necessary amount in his sewer appropriation. The announcement that a sewer was proposed for Pawtucketville at the point mentioned caused a general howl and nobody has been found who favors it except the commissioner himself. Several correspondents to the different newspapers have uncharitably intimated that it is to be a repetition of the sewer in Pawtucketville, which some $75,000 of the city's money was sunk for no apparent purpose other than to keep the boys at work. In view of the fact that the proposed Pawtucketville sewer is not needed and not wanted, and that there is $35,000 available in the sewer appropriation, why does not the commissioner take advantage of section 32 of the charter, a portion of which reads as follows: "At any time the unexpended balance of any sum appropriated for a specific purpose, and not further referred to another account by vote of the municipal council," and have that amount transferred to an appropriation for the paving of Westford street? The $35,000 is not required for the purpose of a sewer in Pawtucketville and therefore it would seem could be easily and legally transferred. If the "immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety" warranted the purchase of an automobile, it would seem also to demand the transfer of money to make Westford street, one of Lowell's leading thoroughfares, a safe street.

Handling City's Business

In each municipal campaign much is heard about the city being a great corporation and about the manner in which its affairs should be conducted. The candidates always maintaining that it elected they would conduct the city's business as they would their own private business. But did you ever hear of a corporation, great or small, or a business man, big or little, handling a strike or labor tie-up as the municipal council is handling the present trouble over the teamsters' strike? Despite the seriousness of the matter, there is an amusing feature to the whole affair.

Just as Well On

A well known republican who took an active part in the election of the present administration was heard to remark a few days ago: "I guess we'd been just as well off if we held onto the old government." And after only six months of the new regime, at that.

Fourth of July

Fourth of July has come and gone and everyone was tired but happy. Just before the Fourth the superintendent of police read an ominous warning to the small boy and his big brother about exploding certain kinds of firecrackers, cartridges, etc., under penalty of a strict enforcement of the law. But the big bonfires were held despite the emphatic "No" of the state police and the chief of the fire department; the common had as many wheels, with "the pinch" and without, as last year; there were as many drunken men and more drunken women on the common than last year. But the law relative to the small boy and his big brother was rigidly enforced and the eagle gaily screamed: "Equal rights for all; special privileges to none."

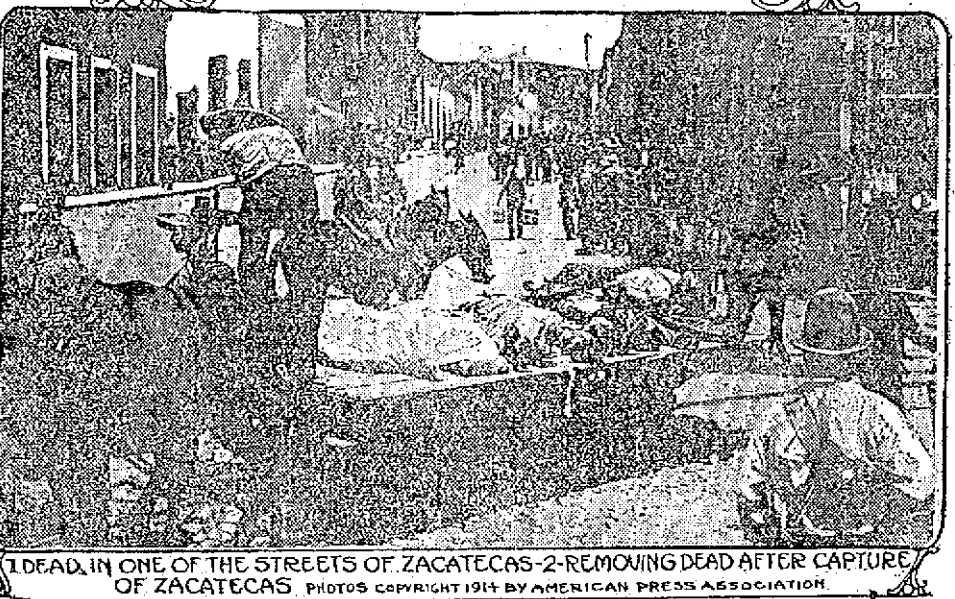

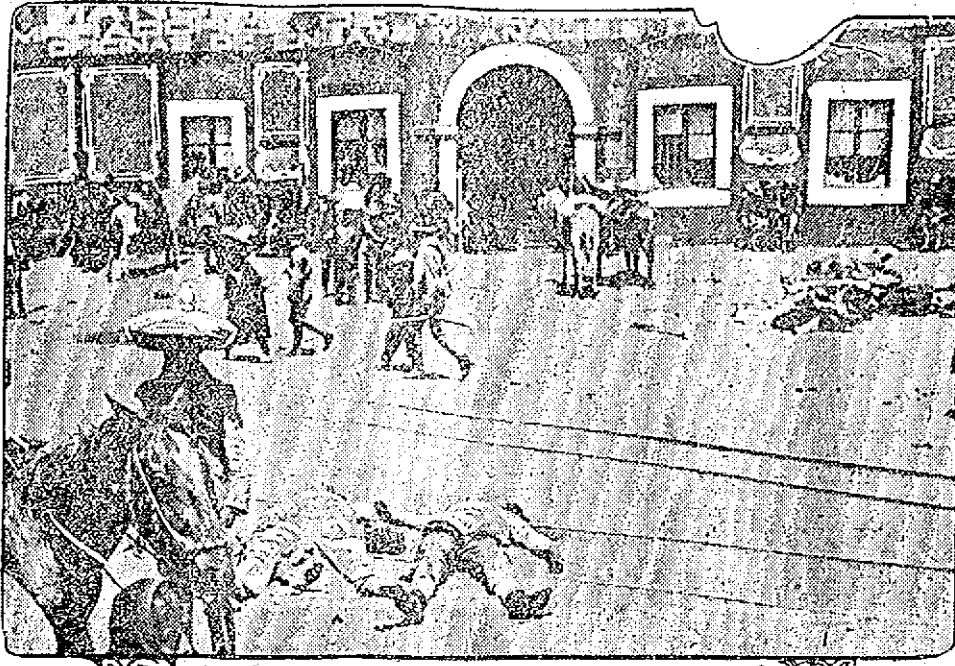

Senator Fisher Out

Hon. Edward Fisher, a democratic senator who has made them sit up and take notice at the state house, announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election in the fall session. The announcement will be learned with regret at the state house where the Westford senator stood high with men of all parties. The announcement immediately started the political wags gossiping as to his political future, for while he may be "laying off" temporarily, he is by no means about to retire from the field permanently, for his constituents wouldn't hear of such a thing. During the past few months Senator Fisher has been asked by men of both parties to be a candidate for congress this fall, but as yet he has not committed himself and probably has not given the matter much thought for between his legislative duties and his law practice he has been and is still a pretty busy man. When seen by the writer, Senator Fisher said: "I have not given the congressional matter any serious thought up to the present, though I have been asked by men of both parties to be a candidate. I have decided positively, however, not to be a candidate for the senate again."

Everett Initiators

The Boston papers earlier in the week had the following about a recent meeting of the Everett city council: "Councilman Carpenter, who had the floor, became so violent in his reference to the father of the chairman of the school building commission, ex-City Solicitor Nelson Brown, that several other councilmen jumped to their feet and moved that Mr. Carpenter be ejected from the chamber. The latter continued on his feet and tried to draw all voices with his own. Finally a motion for adjournment was made by Councilman John McNeill and carried. Despite adjournment, Councilman Carpenter prolonged his remarks and demanded that the school committee, the architects, the school building commission and all other interested persons appear before the next meeting of the common council Thursday evening." If they think it is something new or original to have a member of the city council talk after adjournment they are greatly mistaken for that is an old and a common practice in this city. Wasn't it after adjournment of a meeting of the municipal council that Commissioner Brown prescribed a "punch in the snout" for former Mayor O'Donnell? And before the new regime went into office when former Commissioner Barrett was an alderman he and Supt. Thomas of the water department used to entertain before and after adjournment. Huh, guess they've got nothing on Lowell.

These pictures are the first to reach the United States from Zacatecas after the recent bloody battle in which the rebels gained an important victory. They were taken while the smoke of battle still hung over parts of the bullet ridden city. Over 5000 were killed in this struggle, and the streets were littered with the dead when the pictures were taken.

"Joe" for Councilor

"Joe" Hubbard has announced his candidacy for councilor. From congressman to councilor is some drop, but "Joe" isn't fussy. He likes the excitement of running for office whether it has a salary attached or not, though this will be his first experience in seeking office where the salary is not. "Joe" has been mentioned for several offices in the neighborhood, but that of sheriff and he'll probably tackle that at the proper time. And they say that fat men can't run!

Prosecuting the Bartenders

The night clerk at the Merrimack Hotel was hauled into court a few days ago and fined $30 for selling beer after 11 o'clock, on the night before the Fourth. A day or two later the license was taken before the license commissioners on complaint of Supt. Welch and a hearing given. At the hearing evidence was given that while the liquor inspectors, Murphy and Bigelow, were present at the hotel the license came upon the scene and in their presence asked the night clerk if he hadn't been given orders not to sell after hours and the latter replied affirmatively. Then Supt. Welch who had brought the complaint volunteered the information that conditions had improved at the Merrimack during the past three months and liquor inspector Murphy was called to give "expert" testimony, as it were, and Philip stated that conditions had improved. Thus under the improved conditions it was necessary to prosecute a bartender while during the period of "unimproved" conditions there was evidently no cause for complaint. The commissioners were so impressed that they considered the case worthy of mature deliberation before making a finding. Just how the license commissioners will decide the case is not known. The proprietor was not taken into court for violating the terms of his license and hence the commissioners have no conviction against him upon which to rely in finding against him, while the proprietor claims and his clerk admitted without evidence to the contrary, that the clerk had been given strict orders not to sell after hours. In the celebrated "Spotter" Golden liquor case of long ago, former Mayor Courtney, counsel for the defense, got a favorable decision from the supreme court on the contention that the proprietor was not responsible for the acts of his clerks if they disobeyed his orders in his absence. In the old days of no license it was customary when a place was caught violating the law to haul in the bartender while the proprietor was not molested. In those days such procedure was loudly objected to by the law and order league, the ministers and the advocates of prohibition. But these are the days of "Equal rights for all; special privileges to none," and hence we hear no objections to the procedure from any source.

Break at Library

One can hardly blame the police for wanting to hush up so daring and bold a break as that which occurred this week at the city library, the thieves appropriating the building through an open lawn in a most conspicuous place, and entering a public building at that, especially after the recent statements of the superintendent relative to the city's freedom from crime. This is only additional evidence of the fact as stated last week in this column that the city is no more free from crime than it ever was, except that conditions are being more carefully hidden from the public than heretofore. This morning's Courier-Citizen has the item relative to the break hidden away in a few lines. Had the break occurred a year ago undoubtedly it would have been considered of sufficient importance for editorial comment.

Reorganization of Health Board

Much interest is manifest in the new order of things relative to the state health department as the result of the passage of the bill to reorganize the state board of health by abolishing the present board and substituting therefor, a state health commissioner with a salary of $10,000 and six assistant commissioners, salary not stated. A bitter fight was put up against the bill by the republicans, and especially by the corporations, the latter endeavoring to save the official head of Mr. Hiram Mills, of this city, of the Locks and Canals company, who has been a member of the state board for many years. Even at the 11th hour the opponents of the bill attempted to have it referred to next year's legislature but the attempt was futile. The local democratic members of the legislature voted as a unit for the bill as was proper. The six assistant commissioners according to the new law must be graduates of a medical school and men who have also passed the state board examination for registration in medicine. A clause in the bill prevents the state authorities from overruling the local health officials.

Close of Legislature

The senate and legislature prorogued within a week after a busy session at which much important constructive legislation was put through, largely through democratic influences. Governor Walsh enjoys the distinction of having been sustained in every vote that he sent back to the legislature. It was noticeable that during the year all of the democratic members of the house from Lowell voted as a unit and were recorded on the "right" side of all popular measures. The principal measure of local interest to come before the legislature was the matter of improving the Merrimack river and on this both republicans and democrats from Lowell voted for the measure. On the Fisher-Ellis bill so-called, the "Fisher" being Senator Edward Fisher, for the separation of the N. Y., N. H. & H. the local democrats voted for the measure and the republicans against. Reps. Jewett and Achin, the two political peas in a pod, split on one measure for the first time since they have been running together. That was on the bill relative to state contributions to private institutions. The bill was aimed, it is said, at Catholic institutions, but Rep. Lomasney introduced a sweeping amendment that included the Institute of Technology and in fact every institution in the state was not properly a public institution, and the amendment killed the bill. Rep. Jewett voted in favor of the bill and Rep. Achin against.

The local democratic members voted for the two-plateau fire bill so-called and were roundly criticized in some quarters by persons who did not understand its purpose. The passage of the bill by the legislature by no means made it law, for attached to it was not only the referendum but the initiative as well for the bill provided that in the event of its passage, in any city of 50,000 population or over, if 25 percent of the registered voters petitioned to have the bill placed upon the ballot at the next city election it should come before the whole body of the voters for final action. Hence it can readily be seen that there was no attempt or intention on the part of those who favored the bill to slip something over on the taxpayers.

The democratic members from Lowell voted for the repeal of the child labor law having seen the bad results of the law as it operates right here in Lowell, where big husky boys who might well be working are running the streets because they are illicitly under the age of 16 while their mothers are wearing their hands off to support them.

At the last moment the committee on rules of the legislature attempted to slip through a bill limiting the public's right of petition. The bill provided that each senator be limited to 10 bills and each representative to five, and no member could introduce more than this number unless by a four-fifths vote of the committee on rules. This would limit the right of the taxpayers to petition the legislature and the democrats successfully fought it. They threatened to demand a roll-call on it which caused its downfall as many of those who were at first in favor, didn't care to be recorded as supporting such an unpopular measure. Rep. Jewett, a member of the committee on rules favored the measure.

Reps. Jewett and Achin who have had previous experience as members of recess committees were right there in support of two measures for needless recess committees and may be rewarded with appointments thereon. One of these is for a recess committee to consider the matter of charters for cities and draw up blank forms of charters from which cities will be compelled to choose if they desire to change their charters, a measure that seems antagonistic to the principles of home rule. But then it will not amount to anything and some good fellows will get 1000 or thereabouts and expenses for a little work during the warm weather. The second recess committee measure provides for a committee to consider the method of procedure of the legislature. The local democratic members opposed both measures.

ANARCHIST FUNERAL SCHEDULED FOR TODAY IN NEW YORK, CALLED OFF

NEW YORK, July 11.—Patrolmen in every police station in Manhattan were held in readiness today for duty in Union square where the anti-militaristic league, the Mother Earth association and anarchists planned to hold a memorial service for the three men killed in a bomb explosion a week ago.

The proposed funeral procession today in honor of Arthur Caron, Carl Hansen and Charles Berg, the victims of the bomb explosion, was definitely abandoned last night after Mayor Mitchell announced that no public parade would be tolerated.

The mayor explained that no interference would be offered in the friends of the dead men assembled in orderly fashion to eulogize their dead comrades or criticize the government, so long as no violence was preached.

The decision calling off the parade was displeasing to the members of the organizations. It had been arranged to have the urns containing the ashes of the three victims borne in a hearse at the head of the procession.

One Can Have A Good Time At Table

without the usual cup of coffee, and feel a whole lot better between meals, too—free from that old "off color feeling"—biliousness, indigestion, nervousness and heart flutter.

The secret is

—instead of coffee.

Try the change for a couple of weeks and observe two noticeable things:

You won't miss the old beverage, for Postum tastes much like rare old Java.

Further, there's the brisk, alert feeling,—free from the logginess of a lazy liver and disturbed digestion!

Thousands of people have made the change and know

"THERE'S A REASON"

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—needs no boiling. A teaspoonful of the soluble powder stirred in a cup of hot water makes a delightful beverage instantly. Add cream and sugar to taste. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

Grocers everywhere sell POSTUM.

SHELLS FALL NEAR HOUSES

Hull Residents, Who Narrowly Escaped, Hold an Indignation Meeting and Make Protest

HULL, July 11.—Excitement has from the side of the house. Here, been aroused in this town by the dropping of two 15-pound shells at 1:30 yesterday afternoon in the thickly populated section on Allerton hill. Several summer residents barely escaped being struck, and each projectile landed within a few feet of a house. Both shots were fired from Fort Standish on Lovell island by members of the 9th company, Coast Artillery corps.

There is no garrison on Lovell island, only a squad being posted there for sentry duty, and soldiers were sent there yesterday afternoon from Fort Warren to target practice.

At 3 o'clock officers from Fort Warren came to Allerton, had the shells dug out of the ground and carried them to Fort Warren.

For several hours it was not known here from which of the three forts the shells were fired. Before this was determined the board of selectmen sent the following message to the war department at Washington, addressed to the secretary of war:

Two solid shots from heavy guns, fired from harbor forts, struck a densely populated district of this town today. Order cessation all firing at once pending investigation. Population hysterical.

One of the shells struck within a few feet of 15-year-old Julian Besarick, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Besarick, and within 15 yards of the Old Beacon club where a party of women, nearly all summer residents, were playing whist. Some of the women became hysterical, and it was some time before order could be restored in the clubhouse.

The second shot passed over the house of James J. O'Brien, nearly a quarter of a mile away in the Windmere section, and landed near the ocean side at Point Allerton in the yard of the house of J. H. Cannell. It plowed into the ground four feet from the side of the house. Here, too, the occupants were badly frightened.

Last evening in the Old Beacon club, an indignation meeting was held. The clubhouse was crowded and bitter denunciation by the speakers of officers at the fort were greeted with approval.

Pres. Francis S. Bryant was in the chair and the speakers included Theodore K. Guth, S. N. Bartlett, Elmer E. Gilman and James J. O'Brien. Pres. Bryant said:

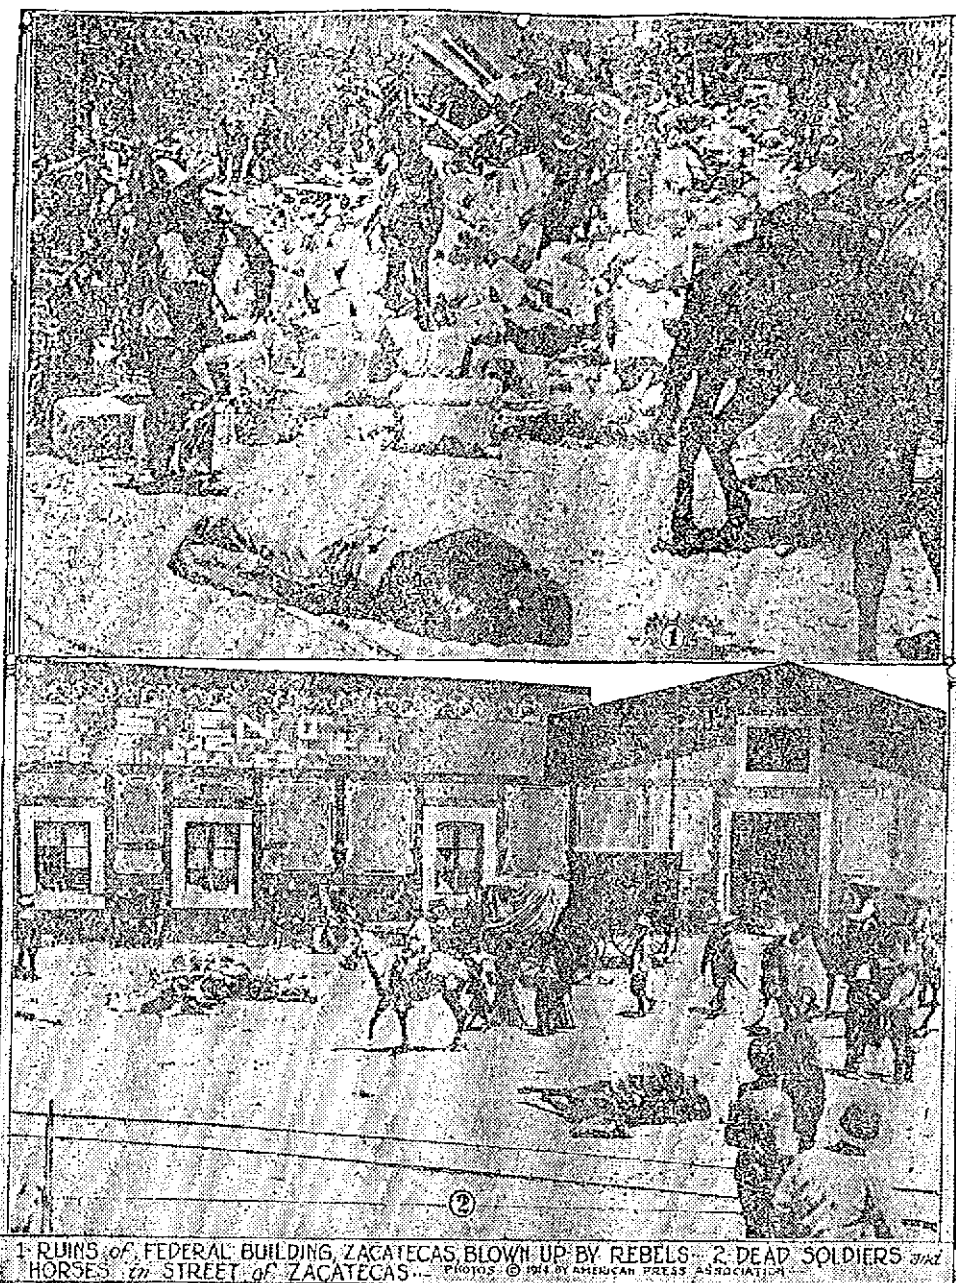

"This matter will be carried farther if the war department ignores it. If necessary it will be carried to congress through Massachusetts congressmen and senators. Those at this meeting are intelligent business men, and we are determined not to subjugate ourselves to danger any longer. If necessary we will take the matter up with the state authorities. The entire summer colony has been jeopardized by the lack of proper supervision on the part of officers at the fort."

"Other speakers declared the incident the result of 'abuse of government privilege,' and said 'the use of high-powered instruments ought not to be in the hands of incompetent men.' There is a tendency to place the blame on the shoulders of the officers. Chief of Police Reynolds said he saw the shells and that they were 15-pound projectiles. At a late hour last night no answer had been received to the message sent to Washington demanding cessation of firing at all harbor forts.

This is the second time that shells fired from harbor forts have landed on Allerton hill. Last August a shell from Fort Andrews struck in Nantasket avenue, nearly hitting an automobile and a passing express wagon. This projectile also fell in the midst of a residential district.

At that time the matter was brought to the attention of the war department, and official promises were received that stringent measures would be taken to prevent such an accident occurring again.

1. RUINS OF FEDERAL BUILDING, ZACATECAS, BLOWN UP BY REBELS. 2. DEAD SOLDIERS LIES HORSES IN STREET OF ZACATECAS. PHOTOS BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.

These pictures are the first authentic ones to pass the Mexican censors and reach the United States from Zacatecas, where the rebels recently won a telling and decisive victory over the federals. They were taken by a war photographer while stray bullets still whizzed in the air, but after the rebels had won. One of them shows dead soldiers and horses in one of the streets. Most of the city was thus strewn with dead, and the gutters ran red with gore. The other shows rebels carting away some of the dead on a small dray drawn by horses. These bodies were carted to big pits on the outskirts and damped in. Later they were burned.

Mrs. Bertha Pearson, a middle-aged woman, was found lying in shallow water of the Merrimack river on the boulevard at midnight and she was hurried to the Lowell hospital, where it is believed she will recover.

Mrs. Pearson in the early part of the evening went for a walk with her daughter along the boulevard. Later she told her daughter to return to her home and that she would follow. The daughter did as told but after reaching home the husband set right out to locate his wife. His efforts were aided by those of Patrolman O'Neil and at midnight the woman was found lying in the water near the shore. The ambulance was summoned in haste and she was sent to the hospital. It is believed that the act was committed during temporary depression of mind for only a short time ago Mrs. Pearson suffered from nervous prostration. She is resting comfortably today.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 11.—Dancing on a public street brought to a close last night the third day of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges of America. FIRST UNDER NEW LAW

CONTROL OF AIR AN ISSUE IN THE CASE—OFFENSE UNUSUALLY AGGRAVATED, IT IS CLAIMED

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Yesterday's arrests at San Francisco marked the beginning of the first criminal prosecution under the national defense act of March 3, 1911, for disclosure of military secrets.

In the present instance, department officials pointed out, the publication specifically directed attention to alleged shortcomings of the defense system of the canal.

When the magazine reached Washington from headquarters of the western department, Judge Advocate Crowder decided this was a case warranting prosecution and accordingly the secretary forwarded the papers to the attorney general, who caused the arrests.

The fact that the pictures complained of in this case were taken from an aeroplane raises for the first time an interesting point of jurisdiction by the national authorities over the upper air, and involves a decision as to whether a person sailing over a reservation can be held to have unlawfully entered it.

THREE PERISH IN WATER

Boy Attempted to Rescue 250 Pound Man and Both Went Down—Woman Also Lost Life

GLoucester, July 11.—The deadly undertow was fatal to three persons at Briar Neck yesterday afternoon. Two others narrowly escaped.

The Drowned:

FRANZ EDWARD JOHNSON, aged 34, shoe cutter, of 35 French avenue, Brockton.

GEORGE HENRY COLLINS, aged 16, son of Timothy S. Collins of 127 Main street, Gloucester.

MISS BESSIE DUFFY, aged 27, a waitress in the home of Charles Scott, Jr. at Bass Rocks.

All were drowned at about 4:15 p. m. the man and boy on the eastern end of Little Good Harbor beach, opposite Salt Island, and the woman about three-quarters of a mile away on the western end.

Johnson was to have been married tonight. He was sent to a sanatorium in Brockton, which had been staying for the past 10 days at Good Harbor Beach Inn, his sister Anne being one of them. They were to return to their home in Brockton today.

Yesterday afternoon about half-tide Johnson was fishing from what is known as High Rocks, at Briar Neck. Suddenly a severe storm had prevailed at sea for the undertow was particularly strong.

Grouped back of him were the members of his party sitting on the bluff. In this group was Johnson's fiancée, Miss Alice Smith of Boston. Five minutes before they had all been photographed on the rocks together.

Collins' Heroism Fails

The spray dashed high about Johnson, who wore a raincoat for protection. Suddenly a comber higher than the rest swept him from his seat in the rock.

Bernard Bergman of Brockton, one of the party, leaped in to rescue him, but Johnson was swept from the shore and it required all of Bergman's strength to save himself by clinging to a jutting piece of rock against which he fortunately was hurled. Then, his strength partially regained, he dragged himself up the bluff.

At this point, George H. Collins, a lad of 16, appeared, jumped into the sea and swam toward Johnson. None of the party had noticed him before. He reached Johnson, who was kept afloat by his raincoat, and grappled with him.

Rescue of a six-foot, 250-pound man

In an angry sea, by a slender lad was of course impossible, and as the screaming outlookers watched the unequal struggle they saw little Collins suddenly go down, Johnson, beaten unconscious by the waves, floated with his head under water.

The cries of the onlookers attracted Nelson Rowe, a lobster fisherman, who ran to the scene and launched a dory. Harold Mitchell, a young man whose home is in Medford, accompanied him. Together they secured the body of Johnson and brought it ashore.

Drowned on Birthday

Then they rowed back to find that of Collins, which was located in about three fathoms of water. Lashing a gaff to an oar handle Rowe reached down and drew the body to the surface. It was found that his arms had become entangled in Johnson's fishing line.

Inspector Sullivan happened to be near Briar Neck and went to the scene. He sent in a call for physicians, and Dr. W. A. Fuller, who has a cottage at Briar Neck, was soon at work. Dr. Torrey Knowles and Medical Examiner Parker Durham also responded, as did Rev. Dr. Usher of Tarrytown, N. Y., a resident of Briar Neck.

Motor to the scene in an auto, for a time there seemed to be a chance that Johnson might be saved. But the hope was vain.

Young Collins was accounted by his comrades the most daring swimmer of his age in the city. Yesterday was his 16th birthday.

Second Tragedy of Afternoon

On the western edge of the beach a similar tragedy was being enacted at about the same time. Bessie Duffy, a comely waitress, was bathing with other girls employed in the colony.

This was her second season at Bass Rocks, where last year she learned to swim. She was invited to take risks and her friends repeatedly warned her not to be too venturesome.

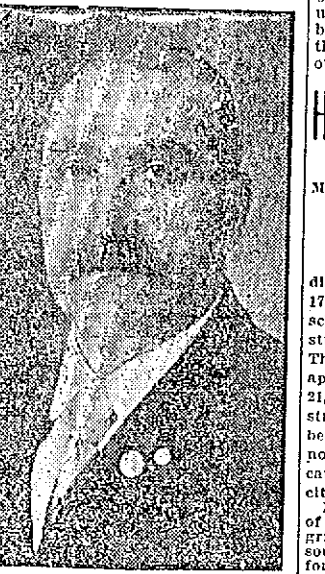

She swam out a considerable distance, yesterday and was soon in the grip of the undertow. Unfortunately the life-guard was off duty, but Anthony Amara, a young man who was bathing nearby, rushed to her assistance.

He grasped her and directed her to swim on her back while he towed her in, but she became panic-stricken and impeded him so that both were in danger until Amara by a supreme effort shook her off. He succeeded in getting to land, while the girl sank.

BUSINESS AGENT AGAIN

MR. M. A. LEE RE-ELECTED BY THE LOCAL CARPENTERS' UNION AFTER HOT CONTEST

Mr. Michael A. Lee is again the business agent of the carpenters of this city. The final result was made known this morning and Mr. Lee won different locals. Since taking up the position eight years ago he has been mainly instrumental in elevating the standard of the carpenters of Lowell. At that time the wages paid union carpenters was $2.50 per day and they had no agreement with the contractors. Since that time the wages were increased to $3.20 per day, and two years ago the carpenters were granted 15 cents per hour or $3.50 per day. The carpenters now work 41 hours a week. In building up a cooperative organization Mr. Lee has been helped not only by the carpenters but by the contractors as well. It is the contention of the members of the Carpenters' union that more rapid strides have been made during Mr. Lee's regime than at any other period in the history of the organization.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL GONE

MEDFORD, July 11.—The mysterious disappearance of Miss Gladys Lewis, 17 years old, a junior at Medford high school, from her home, 74 Marshall street, some time during the night Thursday and the simultaneous disappearance of Arthur B. Jones, aged 21, married, living at 414 Ashmont street, Dorchester, with whom she had been friendly for about three weeks, not knowing that he was married, caused a sensation last evening in this city when it became known.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Lewis, parents of the girl are nearly prostrated with grief over her disappearance and have sought the aid of the police of Medford, Boston, and other cities in locating their daughter. Circumstances have led them to believe that their daughter has run away with Jones.

THE PLAYGROUND WORK

The playground committee of the park commission met with the playground supervisors yesterday afternoon. The oral reports of supervisors showed the work well underway

and the attendance very satisfactory. There was some discussion as to keeping the boys interested after 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The afternoon game of baseball finishes at 4 o'clock and when the game is over a majority of the boys skidoo. The hour prescribed by the committee for closing is 4:30. The majority of the supervisors seemed to be of the opinion that greater results would be obtained if the half-hour from 4 to 4:30 were added to the morning session as the school

Influence is so strong with the children that they want to go home at 4. The playground committee of the park department suggested that the supervisors devise some means to offset the present difficulty and it is probable that the afternoon session will be ended at 4, the other half hour to be added to the morning session, or in some cases, in the early afternoon.

Of the 15 supervisors, only two, namely Miss White of the Paige Street grounds and Miss Frappier of the Alken street grounds favor the retention of the present time schedule. Miss White says that she often remains with the children until 5 and 5:30, and sometimes even later, and that she has no trouble in keeping them busy and amused. According to the reports of the other supervisors, conditions are entirely different on most of the playgrounds, and it would seem that better results would be obtained if the sessions end at 4, the extra time to be fitted in through the day.

After the meeting held yesterday Mr. Patrick J. Reynolds was elected as head of the supervisors. Mr. Reynolds is intensely interested in the work and has had splendid results in his former connection with the movement. From the plans now made and the activity shown on all sides it is apparent that the playgrounds will be a greater boon than ever to the children of the city during the present season.

Mothers Taught to Prepare Modified Milk—Nurses Visit Sick Children

One does not hear much about the milk station in Dutton street these days but the work of caring for the babies is going along just the same and there are about 200 babies in care of the milk station at the present time. Tuesdays and Fridays are conference days for the mothers whose babies are being cared for. The doctors who give their services gratis, and no doctor has yet refused to serve at the milk station, meet the mothers on Tuesday and Friday afternoons and talk with them concerning the health and care of their babies. Most of the mothers are foreigners but nearly all of them can speak English and if they can't speak it an interpreter is provided for them. They realize that the lives of their babies are involved and pay strict attention to all the doctors have to say. Two doctors serve two months at a time and the doctors serving at the present time are Drs. Pulsifer and Blanchard.

Miss Hilda Rosell is the head nurse at the milk station and she is assisted by pupil nurses who come, one at a time, from the different hospitals, each pupil nurse remaining one month. The clerk at the station is Miss Annie Hurd.

While considerable milk is prepared at the station yet the thing most desired is to have the mothers learn to prepare the milk at home. The nurses visit the babies at their homes once a week and if a baby is seriously ill the nurses make daily visits. Most of the babies come to the milk station poorly nourished, but they soon show signs of improvement, much to the delight of the mothers who look upon the milk station as a real life station. Lowell is one of the very few cities in Massachusetts where a milk station is kept open the year round. In most cities the milk stations are closed during the winter months. By keeping the station open during the winter the nurses and others interested in the work are able to keep track of the babies and it renders the work more complete. Some of the babies need constant care and unless the mothers have become proficient in the process of modifying the milk they must have outside care and that can come only from the milk station and this is another reason why it serves the purpose best to keep the station open during the winter months.

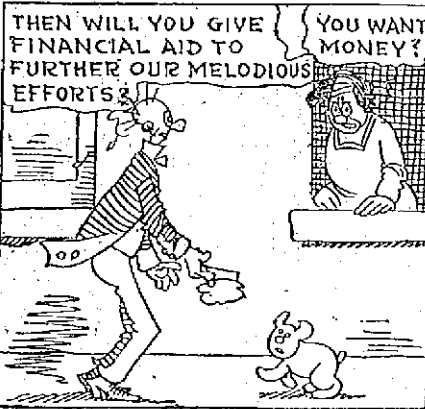

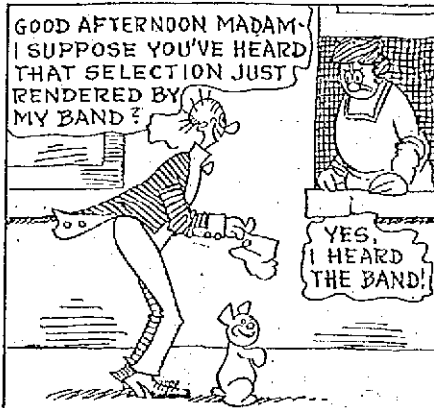

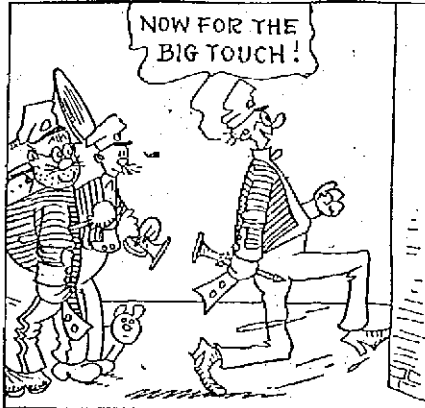

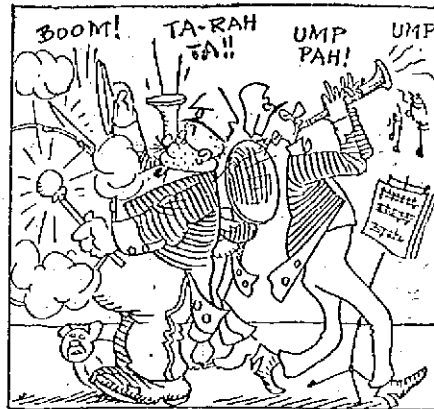

There are not as many sick babies this summer as were listed last summer and this is due of course to the fact that we have not had any very hot weather this summer; no continuous hot weather at least. Milk is being prepared at the milk station for about 35 of the 200 babies that are being cared for by the station and all of the babies, it was stated yesterday, are doing nicely. In each instance a formula is prepared to suit the case or, in other words, the milk is modified to agree with the child. The mothers get the formula for modified milk suitable to children at different ages and soon learn to prepare it themselves.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 11.—Cyril Houde, 14, son of Joseph Houde of West Manchester, was drowned late yesterday just above Kelley's falls in the Piscataquog river, when he fell from a railroad bridge on the North Ware branch of the Boston & Maine railroad.

Young Houde was playing with several other boys. He slipped and fell over the side of the trestle, his companions assert. The body was recovered after two hours' search.

THE NEW SALEM

What has been true of every great fire in this country, with regard to its immediate effect on the community directly interested has been true of Salem where plans have been already made for reconstruction on a better and grander basis. The fire, however great and successful as it has been, is not the end of the matter. It is the beginning of a new era. The city is not only a better place, but it is a more beautiful one. The new Salem is not only a better place, but it is a more beautiful one. The new Salem is not only a better place, but it is a more beautiful one.

It is well to know that the Salem fire could have been stopped at the outset had the Kora leather factory been provided with sprinklers or had the elevator doors been closed. The authority for this statement is none other than Deputy Neal of the State police who so stated before the New England fire chiefs in Boston. It is not for Lowell to accept this statement merely as such; it is for us to see that no factory in the heart of this city is so poorly equipped as to constitute a menace such as the Salem factory was to the city.

The great mills and other manufacturing plants to which Salem owes its existence were the first to show a rejuvenated spirit and already the black walls of the fire ruins have been leveled and the work of rehabilitation has begun. Until the factories are completed there will be a great deal of real want and suffering, for what is needed even more than modern houses and wide streets is an opportunity for the thousands of homeless workers to earn a living. This phase of Salem's want must be met by public generosity if at all, and judging by the ready response to the appeals thus far, there is every reason to hope that the entire country will not forget those who have been left homeless and penniless.

Aside from the private enterprises of the industrial leaders and the manufacturers, Salem is making plans which show Lowell and all cities the real trend of scientific and desirable city planning, though because of the fire, the opportunity of putting them in practice in Salem is almost unique. The city engineer has drawn up a code of requirements subject to municipal approval; that his suggestions or similar ones will be approved in the near future is a foregone conclusion.

The main object in preparing the new plans has been to arrange for wider streets which will operate against the spread of any fire in the future and which will simplify traffic. Salem, like some sections of this city, was built piecemeal and without any definite plan, and there were veritable lanes where the flames of the great conflagration swept both sides of the street at the same time. With the network of narrow passages, shingled roofs, overlapping and slanted construction of tenements, the fire was inevitable once it had gone beyond control, which was not long in a city of poor water pressure and inadequate fire equipment.

It is apparent that other cities, even though suffering from the same undesirable features as Salem, cannot all at once adopt these or similar regulations, but the principle of them can be applied and demanded in some degree. In the matter of combustible roofs, for instance, all cities should at once make stringent regulations to provide against a repetition of the great calamity. At the beginning such regulations may impose some hardship on individual property owners, but strict municipal demands will make the city a better place to live in and they will eventually protect those whom they affect at the beginning. What inducement is there for property owners to keep their premises up to modern requirements when next door is a fire trap with wicker paper walls and shingled roofs? At present we have one of those rare times when widespread officials will approve stringent precautions on the part of municipal heads, and the story of Salem is too recent to be easily forgotten. By watching the new Salem that is being ready to put away her blunders, Lowell and every similar city of New England will learn what we must do to be a safe, beautiful and progressive municipality.

ANOTHER PUBLICITY BILL

By a vote of 123 to 19, the national House has just passed a campaign publicity bill similar in some respects to the corrupt practices act passed by the last Legislature of this state. The federal laws and the state laws had already provided against this form of political corruption at campaigns, but such laws were honored more in the breach than the observance. The chief feature of the federal measure is a provision to limit the money which a political committee may use for campaign purposes in any state to an amount not exceeding the aggregate contributed to the committee by the actual residents of the state. Candidates for the House and Senate would be required, from 10 to 15 days of primaries or elections, to file itemized reports of all things of value received for their campaign. It is not expected that this bill will receive the sanction of the Senate without being toned down a little. It surely will not be adopted by a man of the type of him whom a distinguished assistant to Chief Justice called "the most useful progressive," or by his brother in any party. Parties are finding it harder and harder yearly to get campaign money, and these who would supply it find it harder to give their gift a legal appearance. This is as it ought to be, and may condition progress materially in the same direction for the next few years!

BURNING UP REFUSE

The Salem News, which speaks authoritatively on fire hazards at present, is very pointed in outlining the danger of piling loose litter on dumps and allowing it to take fire, with possible consequences of a most serious nature. "The menace of the fire dump," it says, "will hardly need to be emphasized upon reflective people. For all that, it is one of the menaces that are constantly being winked at in many communities." It goes on to state that the great Chelsea fire was occasioned by a neglected blaze on a dump, and urges prudent precautionary steps so that a like danger may be averted in other cities.

All of this can be applied to Lowell for in the past this city was criminally negligent with regard to its disposal of refuse. The Alken dump has become a notorious memory and the first street dump was a recent menace. Now, however, it seems that Lowell is alive to the danger of carelessness and has made adequate provision for checking any incipient flame in the city dumps. The Salem paper suggests the purchase of iron cages for the burning of paper and dump waste, but this is scarcely necessary here. What is necessary is that the authorities continue to be vigilant with regard to how refuse is dumped and kept under surveillance.

TWELFTH OF JULY

Flashes the news from over seas that the "provisional government" of China has authorized Sir Edward Carson to take any steps he may see fit in opposition to home rule. This could not have been a very difficult proceeding when it is remembered that Mr. Carson is the provisional government. On the eve of the 12th of July celebration which has always provoked animosity between the descendants of those who fought on the banks of an Irish river under the respective banners of an Englishman and a Dutchman, it is to be feared that Orange victory may burst out in a flame that only blood will quench. It is now for the Carsonite leaders to show if they have the mastery of the Nationalist leaders, for when the bill passed its earlier stages there was no public celebration in any part of Ireland, the peace-loving leaders, civil and religious, having advised their people to avoid anything that might lead to trouble. Nationalist Ireland does not want civil strife, but, thanks to the Irish National Volunteers it is ready for any emergency that may be forced upon it.

It will fight against the permanent division of Ireland on religious lines which is the sum total of the amendments proposed by the house of lords.

U. S. ARMY SECRETS

The arrest of an editor, aviator and photographer of the Pacific coast for having betrayed army secrets connected with the fortifications of the Panama canal, reads more like a dream of European news than American. It tends to call attention to the great license of this country in all relating to press and public speech. One unfamiliar with our temperamental might be led to believe that the country is ready for revolution by the cartoons, open accusations against high officials, and the irreverent frankness with which sacred and secret things are discussed in the papers and magazines. Army and navy officials even have been known to reflect on their official superiors when addressing those inherent to the administration. President Wilson has more than once called the attention of the country to the danger of foreign misunderstanding, based on our regrettable abuse of freedom in such matters.

MODERN FAGIN GANG

The growth of the gang spirit on which The Sun has frequently commented, and its demoralizing effect on its members may be traced all too plainly in the capture of five juvenile burglars, all under 15, by the police of Boston. It is believed that the five boys, with another possible addition, have been responsible for 17 burglaries in Dorchester and some of them have been before the courts for other offenses. All belonged to a well known hoodlum gang that had annoyed a section of Dorchester for some time past. The prosaic recital of the crimes with which they are charged as reported by the police, sounds more lurid than a chapter out of Oliver Twist, relating the deeds of Fagin and his juvenile tools of crime.

THE STATE TAX

The Massachusetts state tax, like the Lowell city tax, is rising like mercury in a thermometer in July and the wise ones who look ahead are inclined to predict worse conditions instead of better. The 1914 tax will exceed by three-quarters of a million the tax of last year, which was $8,000,000, and still the ardent humanitarians are proposing far more expensive schemes to be passed on by the next legislature. It seems that each succeeding year brings fresh demands upon the public treasury which overcome all opposition on the plea of public necessity.

There are 11 smallpox cases in the contagious hospital of Marlboro. If there were 11 cases in Lowell, where would we put them?

Congress gives $250,000 to Salem. Good for congress, and for President Wilson, Governor Walsh and all others who have striven for it.

AN IMPORTANT WITNESS

ELWOOD T. BARDES, WHO SAID HE SAW WOMAN WALK FROM WINDOW AFTER SHOT WAS FIRED

ELWOOD T. BARDES

FREEMPORT, N. Y., July 11.—Elwood T. Bardes, an insurance agent, is the most important witness so far in the mysterious murder case of Mrs. William D. Bailey, who was killed by a shot fired through the window of Dr. Edwin Carman's office, where she was a patient at the time. Bardes says he saw a woman, hatless and dressed like Mrs. Carman, who is now under arrest charged with the murder, walking away from the window just after the shot was fired. He was walking in front of the doctor's home at the time. His testimony before the coroner led to Mrs. Carman's arrest.

NORTHAMPTON MAN DROWNED

B. F. KENTON'S THEATRE
Everybody who has seen "The House of Temperley" agrees that it is one of the most absorbing motion picture dramas yet put on in this city. Alive with thrilling scenes and closing with one of the best of situations it holds audiences throughout. The background is wholly English, the rustic type, and the interest largely centers about a young gentleman who stakes his all on the outcome of a prize fight. He does not lose because at the last minute a young army officer jumps in and whips the bully, incidentally winning the hand of the gentleman's daughter. Admission is 10 cents to the greater part of the theatre, with a few seats reserved at 15 cents. Children five cents.

CANOBIE LAKE THEATRE

Tonight affords the last opportunity to witness that particularly entertaining program that is being offered by the Honan's Musical Revue at Canobie Lake Park theatre this week and those who have neglected to enjoy it as yet should take advantage of this final opportunity. The Oxford quartet, who are among the many new ones, offer a series of numbers that will stir the enthusiasm in the most fastidious, their harmony numbers being the best that has been heard hereabouts in many a day.

Barney Williams, a "one-in-a-few" comedian, has caught on quick and fast with the patrons and is already on the road of popularity with all. He's a cyclonic kind of comedian who keeps things going every minute and one seems never to tire of his fun-making. May Wright, a winsome miss, is gathering fresh laurels daily. Besides a particularly handsome appearance and person, she possesses an excellent voice and gives a number of chances to show her worth in this week's show. Nance Shannon, of course, is just the same big favorite as usual. This was to be expected for with a voice such as she possesses nothing else could happen.

Gordon and The Elgin Sisters carry off the honors in dancing and their execution of the Texas Tommy Dance, and the five popular society dances is causing all kinds of comment among the patrons. For Sunday between the hours of 5 and 10 o'clock the theatre will offer another of those splendid programs which have caused so much favorable comment the past three Sundays. Of course, the bill will include one of the famous productions of the Famous Players of America and that means an excellent show.

CANOBIE LAKE PATIO

There will be a concert by the Lawrence brass band, Holmard Myers, director, on Sunday afternoon, 3 to 5 p. m. The program: Grand Triumphant march, "Alma"; Characteristic, "The Whistler and His Concert Valse, "Bally Belle"; Overture, "Morning Noon and Night"; Popular Medley, "B. M. C."; Synopses: "Dancing Around, You and the Moon and a Ragtime Tune; I Miss You Most of All, Your Mother's Gone to Join the Army; I'm Crying Just for You; My Orchard is Shriveling; A Peach Like You—Fiddle"; Grand Fantasy, "International"; "A Celebrated Largo"; "Narcissus"; Impromptu on "Everybody Works But Father"; Descriptive Fantasy, "A Day at West Point"; Synopses: Six a. m.: Revellie; Assemblage; Sunrise Chorus; Revellie; Army Blue Song; West Point Yell; Adieu to the Call; Dress Parade; Retreat; Salute to Colors; Assembly; Boots and Saddles; Cavalry Drill; Passing the View; Garry Owen; Benny Haven's; Taps; Army Blue; Finale, Auld Lang Syne. "All Aboard for Dixie Land"; Final, "Star Spangled Banner".

THE KASINO

This afternoon and evening the Kasino will give you wholesome, healthful, pleasant entertainment, with minor orchestra playing two excellent concert programs prior to dancing. Whenever you wish to pass a happy two hours, the Kasino is at your disposal. Comfortable seats are provided on the spacious promenade, and from there you may enjoy the music to your heart's desire.

OWL THEATRE

The three-part feature entitled "Wives," being shown at the Owl to-day, contains an unusual plot. The acting is fine and the photography perfect. BIRD MAY NOT RUN AGAIN

Progressives Expect to Know Today—Party Not Anxious to Defeat Gov. Walsh for Re-election

BOSTON, July 11.—The state committee of the progressive party will meet today, and it is expected that at the meeting Charles Sumner Bird will state whether he will consent to be a candidate for governor next fall. None of the party leaders is in Mr. Bird's confidence, but most of them are inclined to think that he will decline to head the state ticket again. This belief is based in part on the way in which the call for today's meeting was sent out.

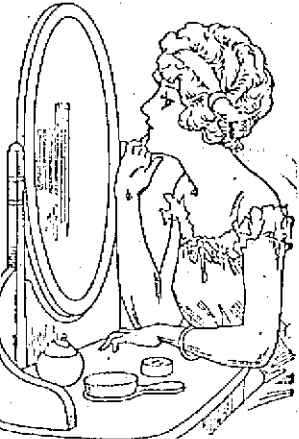

The members of the state committee received an invitation to be presented from Mr. Bird himself, and with the invitation was a statement that he would have something important to say at the meeting. The men who know Mr. Bird well think he would not have used that combination of words if he had intended to tell them of his campaign; they fear he will ask them to choose some other candidate for governor.

If Mr. Bird says he will not be the party leader next fall, some of the prominent men in the new party will make a determined effort to convince him that it is his duty to head the ticket again. They will urge him to lay aside his own wishes and to give the party the benefit of his prestige, experience and popularity, and they hope that those arguments will persuade him to take up the fight again. There has been a widespread impression that the progressives were not particularly anxious to defeat Gov. Walsh for re-election; his course has been, on the whole, satisfactory to them, and they are disposed to give him full credit for what he has done. For this reason some of the progressives have suggested that only a perfunctory campaign for the governorship should be made and that the attention of the state organization should be turned chiefly to the congressional districts and the election of members of the next legislature.

But that policy has its dangers. It might bring about the desertion of many voters from the progressive to the republican party, and thus lead not only to a decrease in the progressive vote, but also to the defeat of Gov. Walsh, neither of which results is desired by the progressives. The progressives, therefore, will probably nominate as strong a ticket as they can—from top to bottom. It is no secret that the progressives look forward with equanimity and even with encouragement to the nomination of Samuel W. McCall as the republican candidate for governor. Nothing, of course, can be said against Mr. McCall, personally, and most of the progressives like him, but they believe that his record as a long-time member of "the Old Guard" in congress will lay him open to legitimate political attack, and they are preparing to improve this opportunity.

JOS. WILFRID BLAIS ALLEGED MURDERER

Held Without Bail Till September Term of Court — Appeared in Police Court Today But Little Concerned at the Proceedings —May Go to Insane Asylum

Joseph Wilfrid Blais, the man who walked into the police station at 3 a. m. on the morning of Saturday, June 27, and informed the officer in charge that he had killed his wife, Catherine, in the bedroom of their home at 46 Alken avenue and wished to be locked up for the crime was arraigned before Judge Enright in police court today but was not asked to enter a plea and the case was again continued until September 18. Defendant was represented by Lawyer William A. Hogan.

The murder occurred just two weeks ago this morning and after the police had investigated and found the body of the woman lying across a bed in the tenement in Alken avenue, Blais was brought before the court but at the request of his counsel was not asked to plead. A few days later he was indicted by the grand jury of Middlesex county and committed to the Lowell jail, without bail, until September the day following Labor day, when he will be called in superior court, probably at East Cambridge.

As the indictment had been returned and the prisoner had been ordered to appear in superior court at the September sitting, Lawyer Hogan requested that the case be continued until Sept. 18, and as this was agreeable to all parties, the court ordered this held at the Lowell jail until that date.

While the court proceedings were going on the defendant sat on the bench in front of the dock in charge of an officer and seldom lifted his eyes from the floor. Once he glanced at the spectators who were seated opposite him but he did not look long enough to recognize anyone whom he might know and paid little attention to his surroundings. When Clerk Torgue read the order of the court relating to the holding of the case until September, Blais slightly nodded his head and then walked with Officer Dwyer to the police patrol which was stationed outside the building to convey him back to the jail.

During his two weeks in the Lowell jail Blais had had little to say to anyone and it is said, at times has asked for friends or relatives.

STORSTAD BLAMED

after having obtained an office from Father Point.

"There is, in our opinion, no ground for saying that the course of the Empress of Ireland was even changed in the sense that the wheel was vitally moved; but as the hearing proceeded another explanation was propounded, namely, that the vessel changed her course, not by reason of any willful alterations of her wheel but in consequence of some uncontrollable movement, which was accounted for at one time on the hypothesis that the steering gear was out of order and at another by the theory that having regard to the fullness of the stern of the Empress of Ireland the area of the rudder was insufficient.

Evidence was called in support of this explanation. It is not necessary to examine this evidence in detail. The principal witness on this point as to the steering gear was a man named Galway, one of the quartermasters on the Empress of Ireland. He said he recalled the jamming incident to Williams, the second officer of the bridge, (who was drowned) and to Pilot Bernier. He said he also mentioned the matter to Quartermaster Murphy, who relieved him at midnight of the disaster. Pilot Bernier and Murphy were called and they denied that Galway had made any complaint whatever to them about the steering gear.

Galway gave his evidence badly and made so unsatisfactory a witness that we cannot rely on his testimony. Some evidence was called however, to confirm Galway. This was the evidence of three men and the pilot from another Norwegian collier called the Aden, at the time under charter to the Dominion Coal Co., who were the charterers of the Empress of Ireland on the evening of the 25th of May and they said she was swinging and steering badly, changing from red to green lights.

"On the whole question of the steering gear and the area of the rudder, the opinion that the allegations as to their conditions are not well founded. We have consulted our advisers and they concur in this opinion.

"It was said on behalf of the Storstad that the order to put the liner full speed ahead was probably given because the Empress of Ireland had become unmanageable by reason of her defective steering gear. We cannot accept this suggestion, but we do think the stopping evidences unreasonableness on the part of Capt. Kendall and a consequent failure of the Empress of Ireland to stop in time was possibly in too close proximity to the Storstad.

"We think that he had given the Storstad a wider berth and had navigated his ship so as to pass the Storstad at a greater distance on his beam than he originally intended. We do not think, however, that his stopping, which was really done for greater caution, can be said to have been an unreasonable act nor do we consider his failure to give the wider berth as a contributory cause of the disaster."

The report found there was no lack of discipline on board the Empress and that the Empress complied with all the regulations regarding boat equipment, watertight doors, etc.

To prevent such loss of life in the future the commission made these suggestions:

1. That in foggy weather all water-

Larceny Charge
Charged with the larceny of $300 from his brother-in-law, John Shewen of Auburn street, one Joseph Kerrigan today and at the request of Lawyer J. Joseph O'Connor, counsel for the government, the case was continued until Monday for trial. It is said that in the meantime the police will make an effort to recover the money which was stolen from a bag in Shewen's room. Defendant is held in $1000 bonds.

Other Cases
Jos. P. Lamotte had two complaints against him in the local court today, the first charging him with drunkenness and the second with failing to properly support his six minor children. When asked to plead by Acting Clerk Torgue the defendant admitted that he was guilty of the first count but said not guilty to the second charge. However, the testimony of his wife, who claims that she has received no money from him for several weeks, satisfied the court that he was guilty of both charges and a five month sentence to the house of correction was ordered.

James R. Williams has violated the conditions of his probation for failing to support his wife and children and he was sent to the house of correction for four months, during which time his wife will receive $3 per week. William E. Mayo, another man who was in the custody of the probation officer, several weeks ago according to her testimony and a three month sentence to the house of correction was imposed.

Joseph Dwyer, Morris Soud and Benjamin Snider were charged with receiving stolen property from the Church street owned by Edward Cawley. The case was continued for one week at the request of Bennett Silverblatt, counsel for the defendants.

Dennis J. Mahoney was sent to jail for six months. He appealed and was held for the superior court. Luke Pelletier, who yesterday appeared from two months' sentence to the Lowell jail, withdrew his appeal and the sentence was affirmed. One second offender was asked to pay a fine of $6 and there were a few releases by Probation Officer Slattery.

Light doors and portholes below the top of the watertight bulkheads had closed. Preferably they should have closed all the time between sunset and sunrise.

2. That it might be desirable to consider whether rafts could not be placed in a position on the upper deck that they would float automatically on the water as the ship sank.

ALL PASSENGERS SAVED

TAKEN OFF STEAMER INVERMORON WHICH STRUCK ON ROCKS ON LABRADOR COAST

ST. JOHNS, N. F., July 11.—All of the passengers on the coastwise steamer Invermoron, which struck on the rocks near Brig Harbor point on the Labrador coast last night were landed safely today. Messages from the scene of the wreck said that the steamer was tilted rapidly after striking and was today resting on the rocks with only her top deck above water.

The Invermoron, struck while trying to cross the ice north of the Strait of Belle Isle. She left here July 4 to go as far north as the ice would permit. She carried many passengers, most of them Labrador fishermen and planters who were bound north for the summer.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

WEAKNESS IN NEW HAVEN

AGAIN FEATURE OF EARLY TRADING—DECLINES IN TEL. & TEL. STOCK—CLOSE IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, July 11.—Further acute weakness in New Haven shares was the feature of the early dealings on the stock exchange today. Within the first half hour the stock declined abruptly on small dealings to 55¢, compared with yesterday's low price of 58¢. Ontario and Western, a New Haven subsidiary, also fell to the lowest quotation in several years. Otherwise price changes were mostly nominal, except for Canadian Pacific, which recovered a point of yesterday's loss, and Baltimore & Ohio, which rose 1/4¢. Missouri Pacific reacted after an initial advance and soon went lower than before. Ches. & Ohio and Missouri, Kansas & Texas also established lower prices. Trading was in diminished volume.

Recoveries were made by high grade stocks and some of the low-priced issues rebounded 1 to 2 points. The movement was checked, however, by sudden declines in Western Union and American Telephone & Telegraph which fell from 1 to over 2 points, respectively.

Another selling movement occurred today in New Haven, Ches. & Ohio, the Gould issues and some more obscure stocks producing new low records. The selling appeared to be largely of bear origin, which followed an announcement that the interest on the St. Paul road to reduce rates between Minnesota and North and South Dakota points. The closing was irregular.

COTTON SPOT
Cotton spot closed quiet. Middling uplands, 12.25. Middling Gulf, 13.50. No sales.

BOSTON MARKET
BOSTON, July 11.—Hutts & Superior was the only active stock in the copper list today, others being neglected. The decline in New Haven continued, the stock touching a low mark at 55¢ and closing slightly higher. American Telephone was also heavy, but the remainder of the list was generally firm.

TRAGEDY AT METHUEN
ADOLPH OBST SHOT HIMSELF AND ATTEMPTED TO KILL OTTO MUELLER

METHUEN, July 11.—Adolph Obst, 32, committed suicide by shooting today after discharging his shotgun in an attempt to kill Otto Mueller, a mill operative. Mueller was removed to a hospital and is expected to recover. The police know of no reason for Obst's act. He was unmarried.

WAS SHOT BY BOMBARD
SUPT. REITHEL OF WORCESTER WOUNDED BULL WITHOUT REGARDING CONSEQUENCES

WORCESTER, July 11.—Erhardt Reithel, superintendent of the Pondville woolen mill in Auburn who was shot Thursday afternoon by Thomas Bombard of Worcester, died today in city hospital without regaining consciousness. Mr. Reithel was shot while trying to prevent Bombard from killing Mrs. Edith King, of whom Bombard was jealous. Mrs. King and Miss Anna Reithel, who were also wounded by Bombard, are improving.

700 POLICEMEN CALLED
PATROL UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK, WHERE ANARCHISTS, I. W. W.'S, ETC., GATHERED

NEW YORK, July 11.—Seven thousand persons—some professed anarchists, some industrial workers of the world and kindred organizations, and some merely curious—gathered in Union square this afternoon for a demonstration in memory of the three men killed in the bomb explosion of July 4. The ashes of the victims were not exhibited in urns, the mayor having forbidden it.

Seven hundred police surrounded the square before the services were begun. There was no immediate disorder.

TO KEEP "TEDDY" OUT
PROGRESSIVE LEADERS PROTEST AGAINST ROOSEVELT FOR GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK

OSTER HAY, N. Y., July 11.—Protests from progressive leaders in all parts of the country against the proposal that Col. Roosevelt run for governor of New York poured in on the former president today by mail and wire.

Ever since the possibility of Col. Roosevelt's candidacy has been under discussion progressives in other states have been expressing their opposition to the idea, but it was the attempt of the New York leaders to win him last Wednesday when the colonel went to the city that brought forth the most emphatic rejoinder. Sufficient time had elapsed today to bring in letters from the south and west and in virtually every instance the demand was made that Col. Roosevelt stay out of the race and the result, it is believed, has been to settle the question without need of further word from him.

EXONERATED OF ROBBERY
NEW YORK, July 11.—James Fay who was arrested at a poolroom where he was playing pool, was today exonerated of robbery by police investigation of having any connection with the robbery.

It also appears that the statement that Col. Fay was held for connection with the robbery was incorrect, as the charge against him was the technical one of violation of the Sullivan law, which prohibits the possession of weapons.

Commissioners Donnelly, Brown and Morse. It was stated that Commissioner Carmichael had business out of town today and but for that he, too, would have been on hand to shake the hand of the man who shakes hands with the best of 'em.

Mayor Hurley said he was delighted to come to Lowell, not only because his friend, Owen Monahan, is city messenger, but especially because of his love for Lowell. Lowell is next to Salem in the Hurley heart. Nobody seems to know just why, but there may be a reason.

But Miss Lowell isn't asking Mayor Hurley why he loves her. She just simply extends him hearty greetings every time he comes. He said today that he was tickled to pieces when he got the letter from the Bunting Cricket club asking him to come to Lowell today. "You know," he said, "I wouldn't have missed it for the world. I am a little tired, believe me, we have had strenuous days, and nights, too, in Salem. The harbor of Lowell, however, has passed away and now we are looking to the future; looking for a big, bigger and busier Salem. Our sister cities and the country at large have been very good to us and when we get on our feet again we will be able to arrange for an old home week for everybody will feel, after all they have done for the sufferers there, that they are part of Salem."

There was only one man at city hall who did not compare with the famous Mayor Hurley. That man was Commissioner James E. Donnelly. "Where did you get that hat, where did you get that time; isn't it a dandy one, etc., etc." burst from a crowd in the city messenger's office when Mr. Donnelly entered. It was some hat.

"Seriously, James, where did you get that hat? A reporter and I were immediately proceeded to throw the blame on his predecessor, Larry Cummings. He said the hat belonged to Larry, but Larry was seen a few minutes later and denied the soft impeachment. Somebody said the hat was of the vintage of 1814 and that was probably a pretty good guess. It was about as tall as Owen Monahan, but not quite so stout.

Mr. Donnelly didn't look very well in it, but looked as well as anybody could under the circumstances. Salem mayor took one squint at it and said, "That is the best I have seen." It was had enough, but the likes of Donnelly's hat he had never seen. He said Mr. Donnelly should have whiskers like him. Later at the Bunting grounds Com. Donnelly was called upon for a song and responded with the "Hat My Father Wore," using the title in a humorous way.

At the "tall hat" cricket game was called for 3 o'clock, however, the stay at city hall was abbreviated and the party repaired to the athletic park. Mayor Hurley and Mayor Murphy rode in the same machine with the commissioners following in another auto.

At the Grounds
After the reception at city hall, the party returned to their automobiles to make the trip to the Bunting grounds, arriving there about 1 o'clock. One of the commissioners, Salesman Joseph was John T. Quinn, city engineer, and a brother of Judge Joseph F. Quinn of the superior court.

When the machines bowed into the park on South Lowell they were greeted by a large crowd who cheered heartily for several minutes. Hurley and the men descended from their machines when the two mayors donned tall hats and joined the members of the cricket team to participate in the game. Mayor Hurley performed with the stick while the unique mayor of Salem held the position of bowler.

The players were a tall hat of ancient style and as one of the strict rules of the game was that no man could take part unless his tall hat was firmly attached to his head, considerable amusement was afforded the spectators in watching men attempt to play the game without their hats at the time. The game lasted for some time and the guest of the day, Mayor Hurley, was the centre of attraction throughout the afternoon.

STATE BOARD SCORES IN TEAMSTERS' STRIKE

Succeeds in Getting Teamsters to Yield a Point and Make Alternate Propositions to Dealers — Early Settlement Expected

The striking coal teamsters, through the state board of conciliation and arbitration, have submitted two new propositions to the coal dealers, but the end of the strike is not yet in sight.

In the first of the two propositions, offered by the strikers, they agreed to abandon the request for Saturday afternoons off during the year and to demand a nine-hour instead of a ten-hour day the year round. In their second proposition they agreed to eliminate their demand for a nine-hour day at ten-hour wage, and to ask only for Saturday afternoons off, with pay, during the four summer months, with a dollar a week extra to be given the helpers, who now receive $13 weekly. There are about 10 helpers concerned in the strike.

These propositions were submitted to the coal dealers last night by Charles G. Wood of the state board of arbitration, but neither of the propositions was passed upon at the conference between Mr. Wood and the dealers.

Mr. Wood, discussing the matter last night, did not pretend to offer any hope for immediate settlement, but stated that the propositions submitted by the union were the first signs since the beginning of the strike of a desire to end the trouble. It is understood that the dealers were not deterred that the strikers were making as much importance as did the strikers and it is expected that the dealers will give their answer today.

Dealers Buying Auto Trucks

It is an ill wind that blows nobody good. The coal teamsters' strike has made business good for the automobile dealers. A number of the coal dealers are purchasing auto trucks as a way out of their present difficulty. The chances are, however, that the strike was not directly responsible for the purchase of the trucks, though it may have hastened matters.

The Home Coal Co. and the Stanley Coal and Transportation Co. have used trucks for delivery purposes for some time and they allow that the truck is the proper carrier.

Paul H. Rourke yesterday purchased a three-ton truck which will take the place of three horses and their drivers. This machine will require two helpers besides the chauffeur.

D. T. Sullivan purchased a five-ton truck a few days ago; Charles Lajoie has purchased a six-ton truck and the William E. Livingston company has a new two-ton truck.

President Fennell Talks

President Fennell of the Coal Teamsters' union was interviewed by a Sun reporter this morning, and said: "We are in hopes that the strike will be brought to a close today. The teamsters have no wish to further inconvenience the public in prolonging the strike and have done their share towards bringing the matter to a head. It is now up to the dealers. The state board of arbitration and conciliation will be in the city again today and I am holding my committee in readiness to appear before them. Our concessions have been just and fair, and we hope that the public will look favorably on our side of the matter. I can tell you one thing, Mr. Reporter, and that is that the state board was surprised at the conditions that exist here in comparison with the conditions of other cities. We have left the whole thing in their hands to settle."

SPEED UP WORK ON ANTI-TRUST PROGRAM

Senate Committees Determined to Complete the Entire Program by Monday — Results of First Day's Labor Summarized

WASHINGTON, July 11.—With considerable progress already made toward perfecting the administration's anti-trust program senate committees were determined to speed up the work today on these measures. They were determined to complete the entire program by Monday.

The results of the first day's labor of the inter-state commerce and the judiciary committees may be summarized as follows:

The inter-state commerce committee perfected the inter-state trade commission bill now before the senate by adding two important amendments bearing on the Sherman law, decided not to amend the much discussed section five, in which unfair competition is declared unlawful and took up and considered amendments to the railroad securities bill. The judiciary committee considered the Clayton anti-trust bill, discussed among other things those relating to interlocking directorates and holding companies and to labor unions and more numerous tentative changes in the phraseology of the bill.

The interstate commerce committee when it met today expected to complete its amendments to the railway securities bill by tonight. A suggested amendment would give the inter-state commerce commission absolute control over the issuance of railroad securities at all times. The judiciary committee was expected to resume consideration of the sections of the Clayton bill relating to labor unions and some changes in the phraseology would probably be made. Both committees hoped to have their reports on the two measures ready by Monday.

Possibility of consolidating all three anti-trust bills with a view to expediting completion of the program was being discussed by senators today.

The two amendments added to the trade commission bill by the interstate commerce committee provide:

That no order of the proposed trade commission for or against a corporation shall be used as evidence in any subsequent prosecution brought against a corporation under the Sherman law.

That nothing in the act to create the trade commission shall be construed as amending the Sherman act, nor in any way affecting the provisions of that act as it stands on the statute books.

The latter amendment was added because of widespread claims that the proposed measure would weaken the Sherman act.

NATIONAL BUREAU OF EMPLOYMENT

The bill which has been introduced into congress, calling for the establishment of a national bureau of employment will attract a great deal of attention, and is deserving of careful consideration. Whether it will accomplish the purpose sought is quite another matter. According to its author, its intention is to lessen the amount of unemployment in the United States. The central agency of this new concern would be in Washington, and would be augmented by a system of free labor exchanges at important industrial and commercial centres throughout the country, these last named to be in charge of superintendents clothed with authority to operate as fully as possible within the state, municipal and private agencies. These would be under the strict supervision of the Federal bureau, which, in turn, would be a part of the department of labor.

TEDDY PELL, OLYMPIC TENNIS PLAYER, MAY MAKE THE DAVIS CUP TEAM

Teddy Pell, who represented America in the tennis tournament at the last Olympic, is looming up as a Davis cup team possibility. Murray's injured shoulder may keep him out of it, and as Karl Behr and Fred Alexander are both on the sick list Pell's chances look good. McLoughlin is the only man sure of a place, although Williams has improved greatly of late and will probably be in first class shape by August.

ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

It is said that Matty Baldwin, providing he defeats Gilbert Gallant next Tuesday night at the Atlas A. A., will be given a bout with Freddie Welsh in England. Baldwin has boxed across the water many times and is well known to British sportsmen. Matty fought three bouts with Owen Moran, winning the first, losing the second, and fighting a draw in the third encounter.

Worcester and Lawrence are now practically tied for the lead. Today's results may change the leadership of the league. At this time last season Pieper's men had a substantial lead on the other clubs. The Lawrence team this year does not appear to be as fragile as was last year's aggregation and if they climb to the top the others will have a hard time displacing them.

Kelly played a wonderful game around the bag yesterday and after the last putout had been made the Lawrence players were talking about him. "Just as he is today," said Harry Aubrey, first baseman of the Lawrence team, "he's the best first sacker in this league."

Louis Pieper feels confident of winning the flag this season and his club certainly appears to be capable of pulling off the trick. The Lawrence manager is one of the greatest pilots ever introduced into New England baseball. He is out fighting for that old ball game every moment but on the other hand never forgets that he is a gentleman. Pieper is a good fellow as well as being a mighty good manager.

WHO IS CAPTAIN?

Here's something that ought to be corrected on the Lowell club at once—there's too much advice offered when a fly ball is hit which one of several players can reach, and on other occasions when a choice is necessary.

We had a good example of this yesterday. Thompson sent a fly to right center and Matthews and DeGroot both started for the ball. DeGroot went out for DeGroot to take the ball and Matty slowed up. The Rubo did not get over for it and Matthews consequently started too late to reach it.

Burke is captain of the Lowell ball club and is in a position to take in every play unless it is a long fly to the outfield. If there is any advice to be

LOWELL BLANKED

Game Lost Through Errors and Inability to Hit Thompson

For the eighth time this season, the two teams have played but nine games. Lowell went down before the bat swingers of Louis Pieper yesterday afternoon at Riverside Park by the score of 4-0. Errors at critical points and inability to hit Thompson when hits mean runs were the two things that spelled disaster for the locals.

Yesterday's defeat was all the more discouraging from the fact that several hundred Lowell fans accompanied the team down river. The batter team won, however, for Lawrence played superior ball all the way through.

Thompson was on the mound for Pieper's men and Ring, Lowell's great youngster, faced the Lawrence batters. Both Thompson and Ring pitched good ball but the southpaw had the edge on Jimmy. Thompson was in a hole on several occasions and pitched himself out of it in fine style. Ring, with good speed, did have given Lawrence a pretty battle.

The Lowell team looked very bad at times yesterday and did not play with the cohesiveness which goes to make up a pennant winning aggregation. While Lawrence was after the contest even minutes of the game. Stimpson connected for two of Lowell's four hits and played a great game in left field. The score:

offered from the infield it certainly involves upon Burke to give it and for the other infielder to keep quiet.

It is about time that this fact became apparent to everyone concerned in the success of the local team. There have been several mistakes made this season for the same reason that gave Thompson a hit, which resulted in the first run of the game. Either let Burke disperse with the advice or get another captain. However, on past experiences we think that Burke is the right man in the right place and a little attention to what he has to say on matters relative to the team while on the field would be highly profitable to everybody concerned.

SMALL BUILDING JOBS

Great Activity Throughout City
—Real Estate Business Active—
Transactions for the Week

A prominent local real estate man is organizing a realty company among business men of this city and Boston and it is believed that the new organization will be doing business in Lowell within a short time. The company was well organized some time ago and it applied to the secretary of state for a charter, but unfortunately there is another company now working in the commonwealth under the name selected by the new organization and for this reason the charter was not granted. However, new arrangements are being made and within a short time another request will be sent to Boston for a charter and if this attempt proves successful the company will be in operation shortly afterward.

This will be the third organization of its kind in this city. The other two are the Modern Investment Co. and the Federal association, both being composed of twenty-five members. The Modern Investment Co. was organized about two years ago and a few months ago it purchased a large tract of real estate in the Westford street district and the company is now in a very prosperous condition. The other, the Federal association, was organized sixteen months ago and is composed of residents of West Centralville. It has a substantial sum in the treasury and at its last meeting a committee was appointed to look into real bargains in the real estate line and it is probable that within a few weeks the organization will own several pieces of property, for it is said that already it has an option on a beautiful parcel of land with tenement houses. The committee on investment is composed of Messrs. Calixte Lequin, Edmund Traversy and Charles E. Bourlet.

A large real estate transaction was effected a short time ago when the Standard Co. purchased a tract of 21,000 feet of land in Portland and Smith streets with two wooden buildings, one a two-story affair 25 feet by 35 feet, and the other a one-story structure 30 by 60 feet. The latter is now being occupied by the company and alterations to cost about $1,000 will soon be made. A residence will also be erected soon on the vacant lot for one of the proprietors of the company, Mr. Hogue.

The general contract and sub-contracts for the erection of the brick and cement building in Gorham street, which will be occupied by Henry Carr, have been given and work on demolishing the old structure has been started. The new building will be the property of Walter Coulson of Lawrence, but Mr. Carr has taken a 20-year lease on the entire structure. The building will be one story in height and the dimensions will be 127 by 67 feet and will be located at 100-108 Gorham street. The approximate cost of the building will be about $15,000. One end of the building will be converted into a lunch room to be occupied by Henry Summers, while the other part will be occupied by Henry Carr, who will install billiard tables, a pool table and a billiard table.

Work in demolishing the old structure is progressing rapidly and the contractors expect to get busy within a short time. Mr. Carr expects to open the building by Sept. 1. The general contract has been given to E. A. Douglas, while the sub-contracts were awarded as follows: Brick work, Archie Person; plumbing, George Roache; foundation, A. Pilato.

St. Jean Baptiste Church
John Grady of M. J. Grady & Son, stucco workers of Boston, who are doing the stucco work at St. Jean Baptiste church, informed the writer yesterday that by the latter part of next week the stucco work will be practically finished and the painters will then get busy. This particular work in the reconstruction of the temple is really artistic and is well worth inspection. The designs, which by the way were made right on the spot by Mr. Grady, are handsome and very attractive and the entire job is really a credit to the personnel of this company. The walls and ceiling as well as the borders of the two balconies are finished and all the stucco has been done in a part of the sanctuary and a retouch here and there. The stucco work will cost approximately $25,000. The electrical work which is being done by L. A. Derby is also advancing rapidly and practically all the wiring is completed. The large switch board in the sanctuary is set in and there remains but a few days' work to finish the job with the exception of the installing of the fixtures, which will be done at a later date.

The carpenters under the supervision of William Drapenau are hustling on finishing of the interior and several door sashes have already been put in. The men are now at work on building the main entrance in Merrimack street, while other workmen are putting in the stained windows. At the rate that the work is being pushed along it is possible that the rededication of the church will take place some time in December.

Work on the three-story brick building on Dionysio A. Salazar's at the corner of Worthen and Market streets is progressing, and the construction of the fact that the Greeks are a progressive class of people, and strange as it may be, it is a fact that no other workmen but Greeks are employed on this job. The building will contain six tenements and three stores and the brick work is now passed the second story. Thomas Gray is building a piazza at his home, 34 Billerica street.

James S. Turner has started work on changing over a cottage into a two-story house at 36 Stevens street. A rear entrance will be made and a separate entrance will be constructed in the front of the building.

A. W. Haines is having a poultry house constructed at the rear of his home, 15 Upham street. The new house is being built at the home of Emma Pearson, 71 Bowden street, and a roof to the piazza will be constructed.

Freida Mayotte is changing the location of the kitchen at his property at 81 Suffolk street. Two small rooms in the upper story are being converted into a four-room flat. General repairs are also being made throughout the house.

A. W. Dows & Co., druggists at the corner of Central and Merrimack streets will occupy their new quarters in the new building at 11 Bridge street on or about Sept. 1 and a group of men will soon be put to work on making changes about the place which was formerly occupied by the Caswell Optical Co. The store front will be modern and alterations in the interior of the store will be made.

Walter S. Coburn has made plans for the construction of a residence at 75 Fairmount street. The building will contain seven rooms with bath, and will be heated by steam. The cost of the house will be about $15,000.

In order to comply with the order of Supt. of Buildings Frank Connor, George L. Cady has taken out a permit for general repairs at his property located at 47-52 Adams street and work will be started as soon as the water in the canal is lowered.

Peter Leclair is building a piazza at his home, 39 Sutherland street.

Mary R. Cooney will change the entrance of the store in her building at 52 Gorham street from the front to the corner and the new entrance will be made with plate glass will be installed.

Many bricklayers are employed on the construction of the gasoline tank for the C. B. Coburn Co. in the rear of the job will be completed in a few days.

The block occupies 446 square feet of land assessed at 25 cents. The transfer is effected on behalf of Mrs. Emily Ray Block, the grantee being Mr. Michael Mickell. Mr. Mickell purchases for investment. This is the second time this property has been sold through this office.

Also the sale of a high-grade cottage property situated at 558 School street near the corner of Liberty. The house has seven rooms and is provided with every possible convenience. Land approximately 4600 square feet assessed at 10 cents per foot was conveyed in the transaction. The grantee in the transaction is Mrs. Edna H. Simpson who comes to Lowell from Boston. Mrs. Simpson buys for personal occupancy.

Byam Bros., real estate brokers, with offices at 97 Central street, report the following papers passed for the week ending July 10, 1914. Papers have been passed on a high-grade garden farm in South Chelmsford on the Robin Hill road, comprising an eight-room house, large barn fitted for 16 head of cattle and two horses. There are 44 acres of land cutting over 10 tons of hay, also an apple orchard of over 125 acres. Jenn Baptiste Noel transfers title to Warren Wright of this city, who buys for a home.

Papers have also been passed on one of the finest farms in this vicinity. This is one of the largest farm transactions in this section for some time. The property is situated between Vermont avenue and the boulevard, comprising 50 acres of land and a fine set of buildings. The house has 10 large rooms and is modern in every detail. There is a large cow barn, horse barn and carriage house all equipped with running water.

Hannah and David J. Williams convey to Carl Severson who buys for a home.

A parcel of land has been sold on Middlesex street, Glidden avenue and Stevens street and comprises approximately 27,000 square feet. The plot has a combined frontage of about 375 feet and is so situated as to make very conveniently six or seven fine building lots. This land was sold for the Glidden Realty company and the purchaser is Adelard P. Demers who intends to improve the property by the erection of up-to-date apartment houses.

Edward F. Slater, Jr., 924 Sun building, reports the following sales for the week ending July 10: Contracts have been signed on the purchase and sale of an excellent 10-room house in the Oaklands. The house contains 10 large rooms, with hardwood floors throughout and all modern conveniences. Land to the amount of over 13,000 square feet is conveyed with the property. The property is assessed for $3300. Names of both parties will be given at the passing of final papers.
